

SOVIET URGES STEP-BY-STEP UNIFICATION OF GERMANY, WARNS OF MILITARY TIEUP

RUSSIA WOULD LET ELECTIONS WAIT, SEEK TO SECURE EUROPE

Thinks East and West Zones Could Work for Unity From Within—Stresses Danger of Devastating War.

MOSCOW, July 13 (AP)—The Soviet Union last night proposed a step-by-step reunification of Germany in an all-European collective security system.

The Russians warned against involving West Germany, or a reunited Germany, in any military alliance. Such a policy, they said, "leads to an increased threat of a new war."

They said the holding of all-German elections to reunite the World War II foe was a "subordinate" problem which could wait.

"The solution of the German question," the Soviets said, "is inextricably linked with ensuring the security of Europe as a whole."

The Soviet statement was issued through the official news agency Tass and came six days before the Big Four summit conference at Geneva.

No Immediate Solution.

"If it is not possible under present conditions to reach immediate agreement on the reunification of Germany on peace-loving and democratic foundations," the statement said, "it will be necessary to obtain the solution of this problem step by step in accordance with the establishment of an all-European system of collective security."

The statement said both West Germany and Communist East Germany could join such a security system, then work within it for reunification.

"The German people are no less interested than others in the establishment of a collective security system in Europe," the statement said. "Obviously as soon as a single, democratic, peace-loving Germany is restored she will occupy her worthy place in the family of peace-loving European peoples united by a system of collective security."

Bars Link With West.

The statement turned thumbs down on any plan that would give Germany a choice of linking up with western military alliance. It said the western powers would without doubt also reject any proposal to place a unified Germany into the Communist bloc alliance set up under the Warsaw pact.

Charging that German participation in a western military lineup increased the threat of a new war, the Soviets said:

"The new war, if it were to break out, would cause enormous and unprecedented human sacrifices and material destruction. In a modern war when new, formerly non-existent types of weapons of mass destruction have appeared—atomic, hydrogen, guided and nuclear—it is obvious that not a single country taking part in the war could escape enormous destruction and human sacrifice. However, hardly anyone can doubt that the greatest danger of a new war would be in the center of military operations with all the ensuing disasters for the German people."

The procedures for holding all-German free elections was termed of "great importance" in the statement, but it was described as subordinate to the question of German unification.

PRESIDIUM OF RUSSIAN COMMUNIST PARTY HIKED FROM 9 TO 11 MEMBERS

MOSCOW, July 13 (UP).

The Presidium of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party, ruling organ of the party, yesterday was increased from nine to 11 members.

The new members are T. T. Kirichenko, who has been first secretary of the party in the Ukraine, and M. A. Suslov, one of the secretaries of the Central Committee.

Dimitri I. Shepilov, editor-in-chief of the party newspaper Pravda, was named as a secretary of the Central Committee.

The Central Committee also approved the Soviet-Yugoslav agreement issued in Belgrade recently.

DULLES LEAVING FOR EUROPE SAYS WEST IS UNITED

Visits President Before Take-Off for France to Attend Pre-Geneva Meetings.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, leaving for the Big Four summit meeting, said today the Western Allies "see eye to eye" on matters likely to come up.

"This initial unity is a good beginning of our efforts to reach agreement with the Soviet Union on the stated purposes of the Geneva conference," Dulles said.

In a statement prepared for his departure at Washington's National Airport, Dulles said he is leaving ahead of President Eisenhower in order to attend an Atlantic alliance meeting in Paris tomorrow and Friday.

President to Leave Friday.

Mrs. Eisenhower will leave Friday night by plane after a nation-wide broadcast.

Dulles's statement said the Geneva conference of heads of government opening Monday "will be a beginning and not an end."

"It is not to be expected that great decisions of substance will be made there," Dulles said.

"What is to be hoped is that the Geneva conference will implement our unceasing quest for a secure and just peace and breathe a new spirit into the future of the world."

Dulles visited the White House and conferred with the President shortly before leaving for the airport.

Dulles, due in Paris tomorrow afternoon, will meet there with British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay.

The three will devote Friday to policy and Saturday will participate in a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council. Dulles expects to go on to Geneva late Saturday.

Far Eastern Questions.

Mr. Eisenhower conferred with Congressional leaders yesterday and was reported to have emphasized that he considers the Geneva meeting to be a conference on European problems and

Nearly Extinct Whooping Cranes' Nests Found in Canadian Wilds

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch—Special Radio.

FORT SMITH, Northwest Territory, Canada, July 13—The nests of the last remnant of the whooping cranes have been found in one of the wildest regions of northern Canada after a 10-year search.

The mystery of where the great birds go each year to raise their young was solved with the discovery of three nests by searchers in airplanes.

The last previous nest of a whooping crane to be observed was in Saskatchewan in May 1922.

Now, ground observers who struggled into this almost impassable country have seen the adult birds and have heard them give their wild bugle-like call just as they do at their wintering grounds on the coast of Texas.

Only 21 of the cranes came north from Texas last spring.

The cranes once numbered in the thousands but hunters and the advance of civilization brought their number to a low of 15 in 1941. There were 24 in 1953, then the total slumped to 12 last year when three cranes disappeared.

They now are protected by strict regulations in both Canada and the United States.

CHARGES YOUNG'S FIRM SOLD ZINC TO U.S. ABOVE MARKET PRICE

Senator Says 1167-Ton Purchase Was at Time Metal Was Low on Strategic List and in Good Supply.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 13—The Government purchased zinc from American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. of St. Louis for more than the market price while Howard I. Young, president of the company, was deputy head of the minerals stockpiling program, Senator John J. Williams (Rep.), Delaware, charged today.

In August 1952, when the zinc market price was 14 cents a pound, General Services Administration bought 1167 tons of zinc from the St. Louis company for 15 1/2 cents a pound, or 1 1/2 cents a pound above the market price, Williams said.

Low on List at Time.

At this time, he added, zinc was "near the bottom of the priority list" of strategic metals "and was in relatively easy supply." The purchase took place while Young was deputy administrator of the now-defunct Defense Materials Procurement Agency, which had charge of the Government's minerals stockpiling program.

Young's dual role as an unpaid Government official while continuing to head the private firm is under investigation by the Joint Professional Committee on Defense Production, as a result of a charge by Comptroller General Joseph Campbell that there was an apparent "conflict of interest" in his activities.

The joint committee will question Young tomorrow in a closed meeting. Representative Paul Brown (Dem.), Georgia, chairman of the committee, told the Post-Dispatch, "He indicated the St. Louis executive would be the only witness."

In a Senate speech Monday, Senator Williams said evidence uncovered in the case thus far indicated there had been "collusion" in the stockpiling program for strategic materials during the Korean war.

Later, Williams inserted in the Congressional Record reports and correspondence dealing with Young's activities as deputy head of the DMPA from Sept. 12, 1951, until May 14, 1953.

The reports show that Young knew of negotiations with one of three "marginal" mining companies which had DMPA contracts calling for Government subsidies to encourage production of zinc for the stockpile.

In an interview with the Post-Dispatch Monday, Young refused to say whether he took part in negotiations with the three companies. The Government was material lost more than $350,000 on the contracts when the companies failed to produce zinc.

Williams declined to reveal where he obtained the reports and correspondence inserted in the Record, saying only that it was material lost more than $350,000 on the contracts when the companies failed to produce zinc.

10 KILLED WHEN TANKER PLANE CRASHES IN WEST

No Survivors—Fire Had Broken Out Prior to Plunge Near Merced, Calif.

MERCED, Calif., July 13 (AP)—Ten men perished today when a four-engine "tanker" plane crashed after leaving Castle Air Force Base near here. There were no survivors.

Fire broke out on the plane as it reached an altitude of about 1500 feet. It crashed within a moment or two, exploding as it hit the ground. The flames fired the grain field into which the plane fell.

The tanker, a military version of the Stratocruiser, was on a refueling mission from Castle base near Merced.

The crash occurred about 15 miles northwest of Merced, near the community of Cressey, five miles from the air base.

The tankers are used to refuel jet bombers and interceptors, and can carry more than 6000 gallons of jet fuel. They are 117 feet long with a wingspread of 141 feet.

DIVING BACKWARDS INTO POOL GIVES BARUCH, 85, A LIMP

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Bernard M. Baruch, 85-year-old financier and adviser to Presidents, showed up at the White House today limping from an accident he suffered while trying to make a back dive into a swimming pool.

Baruch called on President Eisenhower to chat about the forthcoming Big Four meeting, which he said "will show whether the world, traveling from chaos to cosmos—wants to go back again."

Easing himself gingerly into a taxi cab, Baruch—wearing a broad-brimmed Southern planter's straw hat—said, "When you are 85, don't try a back flip."

He injured himself several weeks ago trying a back dive into the pool of a South Carolina estate.

"I hate to see this in the papers," he said, "because people will think that only a fool at my age would try diving backwards."

TRUMAN 'GLAD TO BE RID' OF LIFE IN WASHINGTON

President "Too Big a Job for Any One Man to Control It," He Says.

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman today expressed appreciation of his life as a private citizen. Truman, in Chicago for the Shrine convention, dropped in on Mayor Richard J. Daley, also a Democrat, "to pay my respects."

Reporters asked the former President if he missed life in Washington.

"Hell, no," Truman replied. "I'm glad to be rid of it. One really can't enjoy being President of the greatest republic in the history of the world. The responsibilities are too overwhelming. It's just too big a job for any one man to control it."

GOV. DONNELLY USES OLD VETO ON AN OLD BILL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 13—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly saved some time today in vetoing a bill to create a state job of legislative fiscal officer, with an undefined number of assistants, by using almost the identical message he wrote in 1953 to veto an identical bill passed that year.

Virtually the only variation in today's veto, from the one of July 9, 1953, was the date of the message, notation of a different bill number, and a paragraph of explanation he was using the same reasons for disapproving the revised measure.

The bill, except for its number and the designation of the General Assembly as the sixtieth, was in exact form of its dead model of 1953.

The proposed legislative fiscal officer, whose salary and the size of his staff would have been fixed by a legislative committee, would have been empowered to check state financial estimates, and other fiscal activities, now periodically examined and checked by other state fiscal officers.

PLANES AND SHIPS TO PATROL OCEAN FOR EISENHOWER

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Air Force and the Navy are teaming up to shepherd President Eisenhower's flight this weekend to the Big Four conference at Geneva.

The White House announced today that an unspecified number of four-engine B-29s and twin-engine SA-16 "amphibious Albatross" planes will patrol the President's route.

"There will be no fighter escort," a assistant press secretary Murray Snyder told newsmen.

In addition to the Air Force planes, the Navy is increasing to nine the number of weather ships strung across the Atlantic in the path of the President's flight. Ordinarily there are three. The nine will be spaced 400 miles apart.

The President's private plane will be equipped with the usual overseas gear—life rafts and exposure jackets.

A special engine has been flown ahead to Iceland in the event emergency repairs should be required there.

GEISHA GIRLS THREATEN TO STRIKE FOR MORE PAY

TOKYO, July 13 (UP)—More than 250 geisha girls threatened to strike today unless they get more money for their "artistic services."

Their demands were made public by their spokesman after an emergency meeting which followed a wildcat strike yesterday. Last night there were no geishas in any of the 140 restaurants in the gay Maruyama district of the capital.

The Maruyama geisha union said the girls now are getting about 75 cents an hour for dancing, singing and entertaining the customers. They are holding out for $1.25 an hour.

Youths Left No Word.

B. I. M. Strong, Banff park superintendent, went to Moraine lake from where he supervised rescue operations. He said the group had climbed the mountain without notifying anyone or asking for any information.

"No one on the park staff knew they were trying to climb this slope," he said.

The boys and their leaders had been in Banff three days. Their mountain climbing experience had been limited to a sortie on Mount Rundle Sunday, and another climb on one of the mountains in Yellowstone National Park.

Other Victims.

Dead, in addition to the Seddon boy, were: Richard and James Ball, 13-year-old twins, Philadelphia; William Wise, 15, Souderton, Pa.; William Watts, 16, Whitmarsh, Pa.; Miles Marble, 12, Collegeville, Pa., and David Chapin, 15, Stamford, Conn.

Peter Smith, 13, and Tony Woodfield, 16, Rye, N. Y., brought word of the fatal avalanche to O. D. Dickerson and W. H. Oeser, camp leaders. The pair directed Oeser to the scene of the tragedy.

In Banff Hospital are Frederick Ballard, 13, and Jerry Clattenberg, 14, both of Philadelphia.

BODIES OF 7 BOYS KILLED ON CLIMB NOW IN CALGARY

St. Louisans' Son Among Victims of Avalanche On Mt. Temple Near Banff.

The bodies of Luther Ely Seddon of St. Louis and six young companions, killed by an avalanche that swept them 1000 feet down Mount Temple, near Banff, Alberta, Monday, were taken to a Calgary undertaking establishment today.

Two other boys in the group of novice mountain climbers were injured seriously. Two escaped with bruises.

Young Seddon, 13 years old, was the son of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Seddon, 5341 Waterman boulevard, and a grandson of the late Luther Ely Smith, attorney and noted civic leader.

The Seddon boy and Thomas Jones, son of Mrs. Robert McKelrick Jones, 1109 Lay road, were members of a traveling boys summer camp from Philadelphia. Young Jones, 13, did not take part in the mountaineering expedition.

Dispatches from Banff said 11 boys of the group of 20 in the traveling camp started out to climb 11,636-foot Mount Temple, while the others stayed at a base camp. At 9500 feet a snow-slide engulfed nine of them, killing one instantly. The other victims died of multiple injuries and exposure.

SENATE GROUP VOTES MODIFIED BILL TO COMPEL RESERVE SERVICE

Only Men Starting Training 30 Days After Enactment Would Be Affected Under New Plan.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee approved a military reserve program today which is a compromise between compulsory and voluntary reserve training.

The measure modifies substantially the request made by President Eisenhower in asking for creation of a 2,900,000 military reserve through compulsory methods.

Under the Senate committee's bill, reserve training would be required only of men entering the service 30 days after enactment of the legislation. Men already in the service or discharged could volunteer for active reserve training and receive a bonus.

The Administration's original program, which had been approved in modified form by the House, would have required all men who entered military service after the Korean truce to participate in the reserve program after their release from active duty.

Bill Going to Floor.
The reserve bill—termed a "must" by the Administration—now goes to the Senate floor. Debate is expected to start tomorrow. Committee chairman Richard B. Russell (Dem., Georgia), predicted quick approval.

Other than the compromise on the compulsory feature, the committee bill conforms generally with the Administration's recommendations and in some details is stronger than the House bill.

The committee restored the over-all military obligation of all youths to the current eight years. The House had cut it to six years.

The Senate bill provides—as does the House bill—that the obligation for active duty—in the active forces and reserves—will be five years. Thus a draftee in the future would have a three-year reserve training obligation following his two-year draft term.

Bonus for Volunteers.
The compromise proposal, offered by Russell, provides also that for two years, volunteers who join the reserve would be eligible for a bonus.

The bonus would be equal to two-thirds of the re-enlistment bonus they would have received had they signed on for another regular enlistment.

The committee ignored the House ceiling of 250,000 six-month trainees annually and left the actual number up to annual appropriations.

The committee also specified that youths can volunteer for the six-month training program from age 17 up to 20. The House had provided that the trainees must be 19 or have finished high school.

The committee made no move to include the National Guard in the reserve training system. The guard had purposefully been left out in the House to bypass the segregation issue.

May Reduce Liability.
However, the committee did specify that guardsmen who volunteer for three months of training may reduce their liability to the draft to eight years.

At present, youths who volunteer for the guard are liable to the draft to age 28 if they do not meet their guard obligations.

Russell had originally proposed that reserve service for veterans be voluntary and that those who did volunteer be paid a $400 bonus, but the Defense Department had strongly objected to this.

House Measure.
The reserve bill passed by the House would:

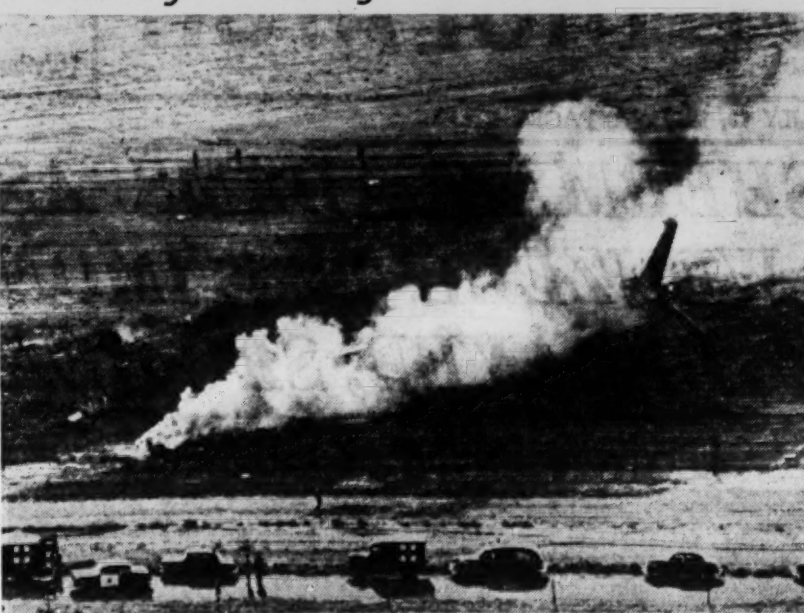

1. Require every man who has gone into military service since July 27, 1953, to serve a combined total of at least five years active duty and in the reserve. It also would require a year in the standby reserve, for a total six-year military obligation.

2. Every ready reservist would have to attend 48 weekly drill sessions and 17 days field training a year, or a 30-day field training period a year. Failure to do either would subject the man to a recall to active duty for 45 days under penalty of court-martial.

3. Permit President Eisenhower to summon up to 1,000,000 ready reservists to active duty in an emergency without prior approval of Congress as now required by law.

4. Permit up to 250,000 young men to enlist directly in the reserves under regulations to be set by the Secretary of Defense. These regulations are intended to include a requirement that they also serve six months on active duty. This plan would be available to youths 17 to 19 years old who have completed high school. Otherwise, the youth must be at least 19 to enter the plan.

Cancellation of Dixon-Yates Headed Off Fight in House Committee Had Just Moved to Bar Funds for Power Line When President Acted.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 13—It appeared today that President Eisenhower headed off another impending congressional fight on the politically explosive Dixon-Yates power project when he ordered the contract canceled Monday.

About two hours before the President's decision was announced, a House appropriations subcommittee had backed a rider onto the supplemental appropriations bill to head off construction of transmission lines connecting with the Dixon-Yates steam plant. The rider says:

"No money appropriated or otherwise made available by this or any other act shall be used for construction of transmission facilities of the Mississippi Valley Generating Co., as contemplated by the so-called Dixon-Yates contract."

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Clarence Cannon (Dem., Missouri), voted to include the provision shortly after 3 p.m. on Monday, the Post-Dispatch learned.

Talks With Memphis Mayor.
That was the hour when Mayor Frank Tobey of Memphis, Tenn., began conferring with Administration officials in the office of Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr.

The group later moved on to the White House, and Brownell announced the President's decision at about 4:57 p.m. The reason given was that Memphis could and would build its own power plant and, therefore, would have no need for Dixon-Yates power, to have been produced across the Mississippi river at West Memphis, Ark.

The full Appropriations Committee, also headed by Cannon, approved the rider yesterday morning and reported the bill to the House.

President Eisenhower asked for $6,500,000 in his 1956 budget for construction of a transmission line to carry Dixon-Yates power from the middle of the Mississippi river to a connection with the TVA system on the Tennessee side.

Earlier Effort Failed.
The committee failed last month in an effort to knock the transmission line funds out of the 1956 public works appropriations bill. The committee voted down the $6,500,000, applying it instead to the long-sought TVA Fulton steam plant, but the item was restored on the floor to the transmission line project.

Cannon told the Post-Dispatch today: "The public works subcommittee met at 3 p.m. Monday. The provision was adopted without debate. I was told that the information was immediately telephoned to the White House."

Two hours later at 4:57 p.m., the President's decision to cancel the contract was announced. "That decision already was under consideration, but it is possible that action by the committee hurried it up."

Cannon said the subcommittee's vote was 8 to 2, all Democrats present supporting the rider. Two Republicans opposing it and a third Republican merely voting "present."

The Missouri Democrats said he expected that the House would uphold the committee action and approve the rider when the bill comes to a vote tomorrow.

Arkansas Civic Leaders Assail Memphis Decision.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 13 (AP)—City officials were accused last night of deciding to build a municipal power plant because they could not "dictate" to TVA.

The accusation was made by four Arkansas civic leaders who appeared on a TV program sponsored by representatives from 30 east Arkansas cities.

Program moderator Jim Hale, an attorney of West Memphis, Ark., said Memphis city officials "wanted to dictate to TVA where to get its power, and they wanted to have full say about how much they could charge Memphians for their power."

"Since they haven't been able to dictate all of TVA's operations, they've decided they'll spend $100,000,000 of Memphis's money and go it alone."

Appearing on the program with Hale were W. K. Ingram, president of the West Memphis Chamber of Commerce; Francis Cherry, former Arkansas Governor; and Jack Rich, Memphis and West Memphis business man. Mayor Frank Tobey, told of the TV program, said that the main objection which made the contract "impossible" was the fact that TVA could not supply with adequate power to meet the demands of our rapidly growing community through its own facilities.

"Many misstatements of facts are being made by persons with selfish motives."

By the United Press.
Work came to a halt at the Dixon-Yates plant site yesterday barely a month after an all-day celebration marked ground breaking for the plant across the Mississippi river from Memphis.

"Work has been discontinued. No equipment or key personnel has been transferred," a brief announcement from construction officials said.

Gore Says Congress Will Study Any Cancellation Fees.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Senator Albert Gore (Dem., Tennessee), said today any agreement to pay contract cancellation fees to the Dixon-Yates utility group would be "subject to searching inquiry" by Congress.

Gore said any such agreement worked out by the Administration would be scrutinized by the Senate Appropriations Committee or the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee on which he serves.

He said the Atomic Energy Commission could use only funds appropriated by Congress to reimburse Dixon-Yates for costs claimed under the contract President Eisenhower has ordered canceled.

Gore said he understood Memphis officials made no commitment at Monday's White House conference that the new municipal plant would not be integrated with the TVA system.

Both Gore and Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee have said they understood the Administration might seek to prevent such integration. This would require a larger plant at Memphis and run up the cost of power, they said.

Gore said he believed the matter was left for negotiation between Memphis and TVA.

Embarrassing Moment.
RAHWAY, N.J., July 13 (UP)—Frank J. Moreau, of Freehold, N. J., said yesterday that he ran a red light and paid a $50 fine because the light was blocked by some trees. Moreau is a member of the Monmouth County Shade Tree Commission.

2 REFUSE TO SAY WHETHER THEY EVER WERE REDS

New York Newspaper Men Tell Senators They Are Not Communists Now.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Two New York City newspaper men refused today to tell Senate investigators whether they ever had been members of the Communist party. A Vermont broadcaster said he had been a party member back in 1937.

The broadcaster, Charles S. Lewis of Burlington, Vt., testified that he later was put in charge of overseas radio broadcasts by the Voice of America and that he supervised radio operations in Germany after World War II.

The newspaper men, David A. Gordon and Melvin A. Barnett, swore that they are not now Communists but invoked their Fifth Amendment privileges against possible self-incrimination in refusing to say whether they had been party members when they worked for the Brooklyn Eagle with Lewis in the 30s.

Gordon now is employed as a reporter for the New York Daily News. Barnett was a copyreader for the New York Times. At the opening of the afternoon session, the subcommittee was notified in a letter from Arthur Hays Sulzberger, Times publisher, that Barnett had been fired.

Saw One Sign Application.
Lewis said he did not know either Barnett or Gordon as Communists but that he recalled seeing Gordon signing a Communist party application form in a Brooklyn Eagle strike in the 1930s.

Gordon and Barnett were among 12 former employees of the Brooklyn Eagle named by Winston M. Burdett, now a CBS television and radio commentator, on June 28 as fellow Communists in the 1937-40 period.

Burdett's testimony was given to the Senate Internal Security subcommittee in what Chairman Eastland (Dem., Miss.) called a continuing investigation of alleged Communist activities.

Gordon, the first witness called today, told the subcommittee he is not a Communist today and has not been "for the past 12 years."

Gordon gave this reply when asked if he had been a Communist while working for the Brooklyn Eagle between 1933 and 1943. "When the subcommittee pressed the question, he refused to answer. He said that to do so might tend to incriminate him."

Similarly, Barnett was asked if he had been a Communist while he was working as a re-

Ex-Model Dies on Gallows For Murder of British Lover

Ruth Ellis Executed on Schedule as Violinist Plays Near Prison—Breaks Down at Last.

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—Ruth Ellis, pretty mother of two children, died on the gallows in London's Holloway prison for women today for the Easter Sunday murder of the lover who jilted her.

The 28-year-old blonde, former model and night club hostess, was the fourteenth woman to be hanged in Britain this century and the third since World War II. Her sentencing revived a national-wide controversy over capital punishment which continued unabated today.

A crowd of 1000 persons—some weeping, others laughing—stood in the grimy north London street outside the ivy-covered, red-brick prison as hangman Albert Pierrepoint sprang the death trap.

Its slam resounded through the building, touching off hysterical cries from the other inmates.

Her Calm Finally Breaks.
Reports from inside the prison said the calm Mrs. Ellis had maintained during her trial in June and ever since finally broke last night. Prison sources said she sobbed herself to sleep, screaming, "I don't want to die."

The matrons let her sleep until the last minute, foregoing the usual 6:30 waking hour. The execution was at 9 a.m. (3 a.m., St. Louis time.)

Earlier in the night Mrs. Ellis had said goodbye to her mother and father, who reported she was resigned to her fate. The woman had refused to appeal for mercy.

Home Secretary Gwilym Lloyd-George, the only man who can recommend royal clemency, earlier this week turned down petitions signed by more than 25,000 persons.

Mrs. Ellis, a divorcee, admitted at her trial tracking her lover, 25-year-old David Blakely, to a London bar and firing four bullets into him. Claiming her jealousy had disturbed her emotions, she tried to get the murder charge reduced to manslaughter. The court threw out that defense and a jury of 10 men and 2 women found her guilty on June 21, after only 24 minutes of deliberation.

More than 30 policemen, standing shoulder to shoulder, kept the crowd outside away from the massive oak gates into the prison yard. Just before the execution Mrs. Ellis's brother, Julian Arthur Neilson, strode up to the gates, beat on them, and handed a bunch of white carnations to a guard.

A street violinist stood back from the crowd, playing Bach's "Be Thou With Me."

"I have permission to play," he said. "I'm sure she (Mrs. Ellis) heard it."

A sign around his neck said, "No aims please."

The crowd waited until a guard stepped through the gates at 9:18 a.m. and tacked the black-framed death notice and the death certificate on the wall.

he never had used any other name, but just as he was about to be executed as a witness he said he wanted to change one part of his testimony.

He then said that on his newspaper—he did not say which one—he had had several stories at one time he had used a byline other than his own. As to his use of another name on any other occasions, he said he wanted to claim his Fifth Amendment privilege.

"You had a party name in the Communist party, did you not?" he was asked.

Gordon refused to answer.

RED DELEGATION STONED IN RIOT BY INDOCHINESE

Polish Members of Armistice Commission Targets of Protests by Students, Refugees.

SAIGON, Indochina, July 13 (UP)—Riotous Indochinese students and refugees smashed their way into the International Armistice Commission's offices today and stoned members of Red Poland's delegation.

The demonstrators chalked huge signs reading "Get out of free Viet Nam" on the office walls before police restored order.

Several hundred students and refugees from Communist-run North Viet Nam demonstrated in front of the commission building throughout the morning.

They waved banners and demanded immediate liberation of 100 officers of the Viet Nam national army, held prisoner by the Communist Vietminh in North Viet Nam.

The wives of the imprisoned officers presented a list of the men's names to the commission and aroused the anger of the demonstrators with charges that the Armistice Commission had taken no action.

French authorities confirmed that the Vietminh holds a large number of Viet Namese and French Union prisoners. The French have repeatedly asked the Armistice Commission to clear up the cases of 15,000 soldiers whose fate remains unknown.

French authorities said that since last September the prisoners held in violation of the Geneva truce agreement which ended the Indochina war have been undergoing "Communist re-education" or have been at forced labor in Red labor camps.

On June 21, an Algerian soldier, Bee Slimane Maissa, reported he had escaped from a Communist internment camp near Hanoi where he said "numerous French soldiers are being held."

Another Red Bid to Austria.
VIENNA, July 13 (AP)—The Communist Romanian Parliament has invited an Austrian parliamentary delegation to Romania. Similar invitations have been received from the Soviet Union and Hungary.

COUNTY COUNCIL TO RECEIVE NEW APPEAL ON BOONE HIGHWAY ROUTE

Richmond Heights Group at Stormy Meeting Throws Support to State Commission's Proposal.

Efforts to get the St. Louis County Council to approve the State Highway Commission's proposed route of the Daniel Boone Expressway through Richmond Heights will be renewed today following a stormy meeting last night of Richmond Heights residents living along the route.

A motion which the meeting adopted, asking the Council to sign an agreement with the State Highway Commission whereby the county would meet half the costs of right-of-way acquisition, will be presented to the Council at today's meeting.

However, it will not be presented by Councilman Frank L. Martini whose Fifth district embraces Richmond Heights, he told the Post-Dispatch after the meeting.

Although the motion was directed to Martini, asking him "to report to the County Council the wishes of this group and ask it to reconsider and sign the acquisition agreement with the State Highway Commission," Martini told the Post-Dispatch after the meeting that he would not do so.

Terms "Railroaded."
"I've never seen it—and I know nothing about it," he said. "I don't intend to present it. This was just another one of these railroaded deals."

L. Gordon Davis, another member of the Council, told the Post-Dispatch he would present the motion to the Council if Martini failed to do so. Davis also said he intends to ask for a vote on his amendment designating next Oct. 4 as the date for a bond issue election on the expressway program in the county. He said he would not ask for a vote on the Daniel Boone right-of-way acquisition agreement until a later meeting, however.

Lawrence E. Page, 7427 Harter avenue, Richmond Heights, opened the meeting with a statement it had been called for home owners living along the route of the proposed expressway in Richmond Heights. Its purpose, he went on, was to persuade Martini to drop his opposition to the route and the acquisition agreement.

Residents along the right-of-way have been subjected to great uncertainty and confusion because of the Highway Commission's insistence on the route and the considerable opposition by other residents of Richmond Heights.

Rules Motion Carried.
Davis took over the chairmanship of the meeting and in accordance with Page's statement that the meeting was for right-of-way residents only, declined to permit others to speak in opposition to the motion.

When the motion was presented by William H. Jaeger, 7471 Harter avenue, it was quickly seconded. On a voice vote the ayes and nays appeared to be of about equal volume but Davis, amid boos and catcalls, ruled the motion had carried.

Page told the Post-Dispatch he intended to be present at today's Council meeting to inform the Council of the motion and to ask it to "approve this agreement and end the uncertainty hanging over us and our property."

Martini was the target of frequent questions and criticism but his replies failed to quell the applause from opponents of the route. He was asked by Ben W. Lowell, 7819 Harter, whether he owned any property in Maplewood that he wanted to dump.

Martini, who has consistently favored a more southerly route through a part of Maplewood, said he had no personal interest in the matter at all. He said Lowell had once approved the alternate route "but now, because you have been sold a bill of goods, you are dissatisfied."

The Councilman also was applauded when he asserted he represented the views of a majority of people in Richmond Heights.

Life Will Begin Anew in St. Louis Today for 64 European Refugees

FRANK ROHATSCH, his wife ANNA, and their 4-year-old daughter ANITA, Yugoslav refugees who will make their new home in St. Louis, smiling cheerfully from Europe after arriving on Government transport ship from Europe. The Rohatschs are among a large group of refugee families arriving here today to meet their St. Louis sponsors.

Group Arriving From Displaced Persons Camps—One to Claim Bride Here.

A new life in a new land will begin today for a group of 64 European refugees who are to arrive in St. Louis to make their permanent homes.

The refugees, whose family life was disrupted by World War II, are ending a long journey from displaced persons camps in Germany and Austria.

They are to be met by their St. Louis sponsors, who in many cases are themselves former immigrants.

For one refugee, Anton Schussler, the meeting here will be a reunion with his childhood sweetheart, Mrs. Tillie Bruder, 3901 Keokuk street, whom he plans to marry soon.

Boy She Left Behind.
"He's the boy I left behind 34 years ago," Mrs. Bruder said.

The pair grew up together in a town in what is now Yugoslavia. When Mrs. Bruder was 16, her father sent her here to live with relatives.

In the intervening years, both Schussler and Mrs. Bruder married, had children, and were divorced. "I never forgot him," Mrs. Bruder said.

In 1950, Schussler wrote a letter to her from his D.P. camp. It had no street address, but postal authorities found where Mrs. Bruder was living and delivered it. In the following exchange of letters, the pair worked out their plans for reunion and marriage.

Schussler, who is 33, is bringing with him his 17-year-old daughter, Helga. Mrs. Bruder's son, Rudy Bruder, 30, is the official sponsor of the Schusslers.

To Complete Family Group.
Another arrival will complete the family group here of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Mann, 2320 Arkansas street, who came over sel for the State Highway Commission, told the meeting that once the agreement was signed, the commission would advance the full amount needed to acquire the property.

"I can promise you when the agreement is signed we will immediately have appraisers make fair estimates of the value of your property," he said. "We hope to be able to buy your property a little sooner so that you can buy other homes more quickly."

Myer Ableman, urban area engineer for the commission, said the commission was the agency charged with selection of expressway routes.

"That means," he said, "that this particular right-of-way is the one we are going to buy or we will buy none. The center line of this expressway will stay where it is until we build or until it is abandoned 10 or 15 years in the future."

Ableman also said the acquisition agreement was necessary for the $8,500,000 expressway bond issue to pass. He said experience in St. Louis had shown that such a bond issue cannot be passed unless a route has been designated. He told the property owners that they need not fear depreciation of values because experience in other parts of the nation showed that property appreciated whenever expressways were located nearby.

Joseph Forshaw III, 1151 South McKnight road, Richmond Heights, told the meeting that if the council failed to schedule an election on the expressway bond issue, proponents would resort to legal action. Petitions calling for the election have been filed with the council.

Before the meeting ended, Davis invited some opponents to speak. Martini responded to the invitation by charging the highway commission had not kept faith with the council or the people of Richmond Heights.

"If it was a mistake to connect this highway with the Express Highway in 1946, as commission engineers said it would be at that time, it is a tragic mistake to make the connection now," he said.

Mayor Lee M. Duggan of Richmond Heights also spoke briefly, declaring that the greatest need was relief of local traffic rather than through traffic.

He charged the route had been selected by the commission "suddenly, arbitrarily and without notice to anyone."

as immigrants three years ago with their son, John, and his wife.

The Mann's other son, Nicholas, and his wife and two children are arriving now, and will live with them. They are sponsored by a relative who immigrated in 1925, Adam M. Laub, 920 Russell boulevard.

Johann Bartsch, a Romanian who served in the ambulance corps of the Romanian and German armies in World War II and then spent 10 years as a dentist in army and refugee camps, is arriving with his wife and their 15-year-old daughter, Crista.

To Study at Washington U.
He will work as a dental technician here and will study at Washington University in order to practice dentistry eventually.

Bartsch is sponsored by Dr. Leo M. Shanley, a dentist, 5 Glen Forest drive, Ladue, with the endorsement of the Lutheran Refugee Service.

Jacob A. Karl, 3735 Wisconsin avenue, is sponsoring his nephew, John Pittner, who is coming from a camp at Linz, Austria, with his wife and two small children, Ronald, 5, and Katherine, 1.

Another family of four, Karl Reiss, his wife and two daughters, are arriving from a D.P. camp in Austria under the sponsorship of Nicholas Potje, 3147A Meramec street.

There are 21 St. Louis sponsors in all. The refugees, who were among 1200 receiving visas to the United States under the refugee relief program, reached New York by Navy transport yesterday. They are the first of 10 groups of homeless persons scheduled to come to America this year.

HALF CENT SALES TAX IS VOTED FOR EAST ST. LOUIS

An ordinance establishing a half-cent sales tax for municipal purposes, authorized under a recent Illinois law, was adopted today by the East St. Louis City Council and will become effective Aug. 1.

Mayor Alvin G. Fields, supporting the tax, has estimated the half-cent on each $1 will yield East St. Louis $400,000 annually, solving the city's financial problems. Under the law, the tax can be imposed by a municipal council without referendum.

The new state law, signed recently by Gov. William G. Stratton, increased the Illinois sales tax one-half cent, to 2½ percent, and authorized cities to add a half-cent for municipal purposes. The state collects the entire sum, returning the portion of the tax due the city. In voicing support of the tax, Mayor Fields remarked hopefully, "Now we may be able to have a few city improvements."

TWO TRAPPED WHEN POLICE ELEVATOR CABLE BREAKS

Sgt. Albert Dallas and Frank Durzenski, an elevator operator, were trapped briefly in the sub-basement of Police Headquarters about 7 a.m. today when a cable on an elevator used to carry prisoners broke.

The pair, the only occupants, fell about five floors, but they reported the descent was gradual and the stop was cushioned by a safety device. It took them about five minutes to attract attention to their plight.

Dallas and Durzenski were freed when Thomas Franklin, Negro janitor, found a key to a door from the sub-basement into the elevator shaft.

TWO SUE TO BAR ENFORCEMENT OF STATE TAX ORDER

County Property Owners Charge Discrimination Among Counties of Missouri.

Two St. Louis county property owners filed suit at Clayton today for an injunction to prevent enforcement of the State Tax Commission's order raising assessments of real estate in the county.

In their petition, Chester A. Love Jr., 2403 Walton road, Sycamore Hills, and Clifford A. Palfone, 7229 Mallard drive, Page-dale, said the order boosting assessments was discriminatory as to them and other owners of St. Louis county real estate.

It was pointed out that the State Tax Commission has found that real estate in 80 counties is currently being assessed at less than its true value but that its orders this year are directed only at 26 of the counties in which the assessment level was found to be below 20 per cent of real value.

Because the remaining 54 of the 80 counties are not affected, the commission's order is "unreasonable, arbitrary, illegal" and violative of the state and federal constitutions, the petition charged.

Love said he was the owner of two pieces of property that would be subjected to the allegedly discriminatory order at 7817 St. Charles road and at 11745 Olive Street road, Creve Coeur. Falfone listed this home as the property affected by the order. Both are lawyers.

The tax commission last July 6 ordered urban real estate assessments in the county raised 60 per cent and rural real estate 85 per cent in time to be reflected in this year's tax bills.

In Jefferson City today, Chairman James M. Robertson of the commission said he was sending a letter to the County Board of Equalization denying the board's request for an extension of time.

Robertson told the Post-Dispatch the commission could not rescind its order, adding that St. Louis county had not shown any valid reason for rescinding it.

The assessments are expected to be increased in about two weeks by the County Board of Equalization.

The board indicated yesterday it would raise the assessments, but reported that no action would be taken until it has received from County Clerk Leo E. Sievers a breakdown on present valuations of urban lots, acreage and improvements on each.

DOWLING ASKS INDIANA FOR POLITAN INQUIRY

3 Digits of License Plate Given by Man Who Said He Saw Koenig Studied.

A request for a thorough inquiry into the activities of Frank Politan, Indianapolis gambler, was made of Indiana authorities today by East St. Louis Police Chief George Dowling, in his investigation of the murder of J. Fred Koenig, East St. Louis bookmaker and racing information service operator.

Police also are checking three digits of a Michigan license number furnished by a man, who reported he saw Koenig being carried by two men on an East Side highway the night Koenig disappeared.

The bookmaker's body, shot in the head and chest, was found two days later in the trunk of his automobile, parked on an East St. Louis street.

Politan appeared at Chief Dowling's office yesterday by appointment, after a trip in his Cadillac from Indianapolis. He emphatically denied reports that he was the source of a racing information service through which Koenig was netting $400 a week from area bookmakers, until the service was taken away last April 1 by associates of gang boss Frank (Buster) Wortman.

Released After Questioning.
Questioned for less than an hour and released, Politan said he was acquainted with Koenig, had placed bets with the latter in East St. Louis and in Florida, and had Koenig's telephone number.

He denied operating a racing information service, telling Chief Dowling he had operated an Indianapolis gambling club, now closed. He also denied knowing Wortman, Elmer (Dutch) Dowling or other East Side hoodlums.

Politan telephoned East St. Louis police and volunteered to be questioned after Chief Dowling had requested the gambler be detained for investigation. Dowling said he was not satisfied with results of the interrogation and was asking Indiana authorities for a report on Politan's activities.

More Questioning Indicated.
Dowling indicated that Politan may be questioned by him again, depending on the nature of the information he receives from Indianapolis police. Politan said he has lived in Indianapolis two years, going to Indiana from Colp, in "bloody" Williamson county, Ill.

Associates of Koenig have told the Post-Dispatch he obtained a faster service after his original racing information business was stopped, and was

Bill Weakening King-Thompson Law Is Vetoed by Gov. Donnelly

Under It State Would Be 'Utterly Powerless' in a Public Utility Strike, He Asserts.

By ROYD F. CARROLL, Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 13—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly yesterday vetoed a labor-backed legislative bill which would have materially weakened the existing King-Thompson law barring strikes in Missouri by employees of public utilities.

Veto of the measure, which had been expected, leaves in full force the King-Thompson law enacted with Donnelly's active support in 1947 in his first term as Governor.

Substitution of the proposed new act for the present law, Donnelly said, "would eliminate almost entirely any effective penal provisions of the law relating to labor disputes in public utilities."

Says It Would Be 'a Farce.'
Application of the bill and its limited sanctions to solution of a labor dispute, the Governor asserted, "would be a farce, with the state in an utterly powerless position."

The Governor's veto message pointed out the new bill, designed to repeal the present law and substitute less stringent provisions, would have had these results:

Authority of the state Board of Mediation, administrator of the King-Thompson law, would be seriously impaired. The state would have been required to attempt to recruit workers to replace utility employees who refused to work for the state in a seized utility. The Governor said this would be "wholly impractical."

Elimination of provision for a $10,000 daily fine for unions which provoke a strike, or utilize which engage in a lockout of workers.

Repeal of a $1000 fine for leaders of a utility strike, and definition of this act as a misdemeanor with a fine of not less than $10, or more than $1000.

Employees Could Quit.
Would have permitted a utility employee to quit work threatened when he continued to operate in competition with the Wortman group. He was able to supply his customers with results a half hour before the more complete service came over the wires.

The partial license number was furnished police by a man, who was arrested in another case. He said he obtained a close view of the men with Koenig, and thinks he could identify at least one of them.

The witness claimed he saw the man he believed to be Koenig being supported by the other men early the morning of June 21. The place was an isolated area on Alternate Route 67, north of East St. Louis, near the Stork Club, a tavern which was destroyed by fire several in a strike or work stoppage without losing rights to his seniority and job, if the state agreed.

Would have required establishment of a fact-finding emergency board to study a labor dispute, and determine whether a strike or lockout is imminent, before the state, through the Governor, could seize and operate a utility.

Utility employees would have had an option to refuse to work after the state seized a utility, in the public interest, said, "is nothing less than an invitation for the cessation of service."

The Governor declared another provision of the bill giving side in a utility labor dispute the option of invoking services of the Board of Mediation in a dispute, or rejecting a board proffer of aid, "would make the board powerless to take charge of a labor dispute in a public utility, as it now must, in the public interest."

Vetoes Prison Employee Bill.
An act to place employees of the state penal institutions under provisions of the state workmen's compensation law, providing benefit payments for injuries, was vetoed today by Donnelly. He said he disapproved the bill because it had been introduced and passed without any determination of the probable cost, and because there had been no conference with Department of Corrections officials as to the necessity or desirability.

Furthermore, he said, sponsors of the legislation had failed to obtain any provision for required funds in the state budget, and had not obtained passage of a bill appropriating which would enable the state to meet insurance and benefit payments, if the bill were approved.

The Governor vetoed another bill which would have made it unlawful for an employer to require an employee or job applicant to pay the cost of medical examination incident to employment. It would have defined such an act as a misdemeanor.

days after Koenig's death. A more detailed report of the bullets removed from Koenig's body and from the machine of Kenneth Mueller, associate of Koenig, was furnished East Side authorities today by St. Louis police.

The report said Koenig was killed by 380-caliber bullets, thought to have been fired from a special Savage automatic pistol. The bullets were copper-jacketed, the report said.

Bullets removed from Mueller's machine, fired on May 17 on an East St. Louis street by unidentified gunmen, were of 9-mm. automatic pistol type, fired from one of three makes of foreign pistols.

Judge Hulen sentenced Russell to four years on each of the two charges and specified that the sentences were to run consecutively. The defendant was fined a nominal $1 on each charge. Maximum penalty on each violation is five years in prison and a $2000 fine.

The judge rejected pleas for leniency and stay of execution, made by Russell's attorney. Russell was on probation from a Court of Criminal Correction conviction of making false application for unemployment compensation.

HEROIN SELLER GETS 8 YEARS IN U.S. PRISON

Man Pleads Guilty of Two Sales—Sentence Is Two Years Short of Maximum Term.

Jack Russell, a taxicab driver, was sentenced to eight years in prison today by United States District Judge Ruben M. Hulen when he pleaded guilty of two sales of heroin.

The sentence was only two years short of the maximum that could have been imposed on the defendant, a Negro, with no previous record of narcotics law violations.

It was the second long sentence imposed in federal court here this week on sellers of heroin. United States District Judge George H. Moore on Monday sentenced John H. Butler, a Negro, described by federal authorities as the source of one fourth of the heroin sales in St. Louis, to a five-year prison term. In sentencing Russell, Judge Hulen said:

"This is the most serious kind of crime that comes before this court. The narcotics seller preys on the addict and contributes to his delinquency."

"The habit is becoming established in the colored public schools. It is especially prevalent among the colored people."

"I have heard of addicts who are cured, but I have never met one. Once a man or woman becomes an addict, he or she is a human wreck—a menace to self and society. Addicts will commit any kind of crime to buy narcotics."

"I think a severe sentence is the only contribution I can make in stamping out the sale of narcotics. I shall make that contribution."

Russell, who lives in the 1400 block of Shawmut place, pleaded guilty of selling heroin June 20 and again June 22, at Demar boulevard and Newstead avenue. Both sales were made to federal narcotics agents, posing as buyers. Russell received $84 in the transactions, involving 53 grains of the drug.

Judge Hulen sentenced Russell to four years on each of the two charges and specified that the sentences were to run consecutively. The defendant was fined a nominal $1 on each charge. Maximum penalty on each violation is five years in prison and a $2000 fine.

The judge rejected pleas for leniency and stay of execution, made by Russell's attorney. Russell was on probation from a Court of Criminal Correction conviction of making false application for unemployment compensation.

2 TROOPERS SAY KENTON TOLD OF BEATING CONVICT

Confessed Hitting Donnell With Hammer, They Testify — Jury May Get Case Today.

By WILLIAM K. WYANT JR.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 13 — The trial of Paul E. Kenton, one of seven convicts charged with murder in the death row killing of another convict, Walter Lee Donnell, was expected to go to the jury late today.

Two members of the Missouri Highway Patrol testified that Kenton confessed he struck Donnell on the head with a sledge hammer.

Lt. W. S. Barton and Sgt. E. V. Nash said Kenton was questioned Sept. 26, four days after the Missouri Penitentiary riot last year, and told officers that he opened Donnell's cell and seized him. Kenton said he held Donnell's arms behind his back while two other prisoners stabbed him. Lt. Barton and Sgt. Nash testified.

"Stomped on" Victim.
The two officers said Kenton confessed he "stomped on" Donnell before striking his head and body with the sledge hammer. Sgt. Edward Schaaf and Patrolman Jesse Rendecker of the St. Louis police department testified that Kenton was not harmed at the time he was questioned. "There was no violence whatsoever," Rendecker said. The patrolman quoted Kenton as saying, "I wanted to get to him (Donnell) because he had given some of my buddies some time."

Late yesterday, a prison inmate serving a life term for murder, James M. Creighton, took the stand as a prosecution witness and testified he saw Kenton, 24 years old, and six other rioters enter and leave the cell where Donnell's battered body was later found. Creighton was locked in the next cell and did not see what happened to Donnell because of a masonry partition, but he heard a voice cry out, "I ain't no rat, don't kill me," and then heard a series of moans, he related. "Then I saw them coming out of there like a bunch of rats," he said.

Believed to Be Informer.
Creighton, 32, was himself injured by convicts who crowded into the death row area. Donnell, a St. Louis convict serving six years for robbery, was killed because he was an informer, authorities believe.

Under cross-examination by William S. Bahn of St. Louis, defense counsel, Creighton admitted that he had once been committed by a prison psychiatrist to the state mental hospital at Fulton.

Prosecuting Attorney James T. Riley objected strenuously to this line of questioning. Another convict witness, Herman Trout, a prison plumber, said Kenton had been one of the first rioters to reach the death row area. Trout also named the other defendants in the Donnell murder, Rolfe M. Laster, Jack Lee Noble, James W. Stidham, Donald W. Delapp, William H. Hoover and Joseph M. Vidauri.

The prison plumber, whose tool shop is in B basement of the prison, the area of death row, said that Kenton took a principal part in the work of breaking through three doors to death row and liberating Laster and Stidham from cells there.

"I heard screaming—don't kill me, I ain't no snitch, I ain't

BARES NAZI OFFER TO SPARE JEWS TO GET 10,000 TRUCKS

JERUSALEM, July 13 (AP)—Premier Moshe Sharett today disclosed details of a wartime Nazi offer to trade the lives of a million Hungarian Jews for 10,000 trucks to bolster Hitler's crumbling defenses.

The offer was presented to the Jewish Agency during World War II by an emissary of Wilhelm Eichmann, a Nazi Storm Troop leader. It was turned down by the Allies, the only source from which the Jews could have gotten that many trucks.

Sharett's disclosures were made in a statement issued to newspapers denying charges made by the Tel Aviv newspaper Haboker that he had concealed from Palestine Jews and the world at large for two months the facts surrounding the systematic destruction of Hungarian Jewry by the Nazis.

The newspaper is an organ of the General Zionist party, which was expelled from Sharett's governing coalition last month.

Sharett, wartime political secretary of the Jewish agency, said Eichmann's offer to save the million Jews—already marked for the gas chambers—was presented to him in Aleppo by an emissary. The offer was kept secret at the time.

BOY STRUCK AND SERIOUSLY HURT BY AUTO NEAR HIS HOME

Paul Marchand, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Marchand, was in serious condition today at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis after being struck yesterday by an automobile near his home, 400 North Sixth street, East St. Louis.

Driver of the machine, Jesse W. Pugh, 1726 Trendley avenue, East St. Louis, said the child, who suffered head injuries, ran in front of him.

done nothing to you," he testified, "and then it died."

Saw Them Wash Hands.
Soon thereafter, Trout said, Kenton and the other men who had been in death row emerged and washed their hands at a basin in the hall, some of them throwing items of clothing in the sink.

Under cross-examination, Trout said he had been convicted of felonies four times, receiving two 10-year sentences for robbery and kidnapping in 1944. He said his application for parole will be reviewed this year.

A third prosecution witness who placed Kenton in the death row area was Clarence Dietzel, prison guard who was stationed there the night of Sept. 22. Dietzel said Kenton cursed him savagely when the rioters seized him as a hostage. The guard was confined upstairs when Donnell was killed, however.

The state charges that Kenton held Donnell's hands behind his back while Laster and Stidham knifed him, and that Kenton then crushed the victim's head with a sledge hammer. A heavy hammer was found beside the body.

Confession Admitted.
In a decision earlier yesterday, Circuit Judge Joseph T. Tate ruled that the all-male jury would be permitted to judge for itself as to the weight that should be given an alleged written confession in which Kenton admitted he had a hand in killing Donnell.

Judge Tate overruled a defense motion to suppress the typed statement obtained from Kenton by Missouri Highway patrolmen and St. Louis police officers. Defense Counsel Bahn contended the admission was obtained by physical force and should not be permitted to reach the jury.

'WEAVING' DRIVER FINED $110, ADMITS HE HAD FIVE BEERS

Fletcher Cunningham, 4220 Virginia avenue, was fined $100 today by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd on a charge of driving when intoxicated and was fined an additional $10 for careless driving.

Police testified Cunningham was the driver of an automobile which was weaving in Delmar boulevard between Walton and Taylor avenues last June 6. He appeared to be drunk when arrested, police added. Cunningham denied he was drunk but admitted having had five beers. He gave his occupation as an inspector.

SCOTT AIR BASE LEADER

Col. William E. Davis Jr. has assumed interim command of Scott Air Force Base, it was announced today. Upon arrival of Brig. Gen. Wentworth Goss later this month, he will become base deputy commander.

Formerly Col. Davis was deputy chief of staff for material for the Air Training Command.

TURNCOAT EX-G.I.S SEASICK, SHIP HITS EDGE OF TYPHOON

ABOARD THE PRESIDENT CLEVELAND AT SEA, July 13 (UP)—Three ex-G.I. turncoats became miserably seasick today when their ocean liner ran into the fringe of a typhoon 160 miles south of Okinawa.

While the President Cleveland pitched and tossed, the turncoats lay white-faced and silent in their third-class dormitory bunks.

The three—William A. Covert, 22 years old, of Dalton, Ga.; Lewis W. Griggs, 22, Jacksonville, Tex.; and Otto G. Bell, 24, Hillsboro, Miss.—are on their way to San Francisco.

They spent 19 months in Red China after refusing repatriation at the Panmunjom prisoner-of-war exchange. Finally they decided they would rather come home and face possible prosecution than live under Communism.

Since leaving Hong Kong, they have spent their time quietly aboard ship. They appear bored. Occasionally, they have taken a drink in the third-class lounge, but most of the time they have just lain in their bunks.

Other passengers have often seen Griggs along on deck, apparently praying.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER TRAFFIC UP SHARPLY OVER LAST YEAR

Traffic through Mississippi River locks at Alton, Granite City, Winfield and Clarksville increased during the first six months of 1955, compared to the same period last year, St. Louis District Engineer Col. George E. White Jr. of the Army Corps of Engineers announced today. The Alton locks, through which 6,820,703 tons were moved, compared to 5,507,731 tons in the first half of 1954, had the largest increase, 23.6 per cent. The Chain of Rocks locks at Granite City showed an increase of 21.1 per cent and both Clarksville and Winfield had about 13 per cent.

One reason for the larger volume at the Alton and Granite City locks is because they handle much of the Illinois River traffic, White said. The Alton locks were operated 2743 times during the six-month period and those at Granite City 2289 times.

MRS. HOBBY QUILTS CABINET, FOLSOM CHOSEN FOR POST

to leave Government service because of the illness of her husband.

Although she made no reference to it in her statement, Mrs. Hobby is known to have been discouraged at the heavy criticism she and her department received over the Salk program.

Her critics hit her hard for saying "no one could have foreseen the demand" for the vaccine, and for implying in a recent radio broadcast that Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele should be blamed if the Government made mistakes, and for failing to plan a vaccine distribution plan in advance of the vaccine's release April 12.

Denies Criticizing Dr. Scheele. She emphasized in that broadcast that although she meant no criticism of Dr. Scheele, that his Public Health Service (which is a subsidiary of her department) and not the Secretary (Mrs. Hobby) was responsible under the law for running the show.

Critics said that was allying for a fumble and placing the blame on subordinates.

Mrs. Hobby issued a statement expressing "regret" and "a deep sense of sadness" in leaving the Government service.

But she said she leaves with the knowledge that "this Government is being guided by men and women of high principle who are capable, dedicated and selfless with their time and energy."

She praised President Eisenhower's "strength, vision and leadership." She also praised her Cabinet colleagues and the men and women in her department as "public servants of a high order."

Folsom told reporters at a press conference shortly after his nomination that Mrs. Hobby's resignation had been pending since February. He said he had told the President as long ago as April he would accept the job.

"It was understood all along, however, that no change would be made until the latter part of the congressional session," Folsom said.

At the ceremony Mr. Eisenhower recalled their first meeting in 1942 in London when Mrs. Hobby was head of the Women's Army Corps.

Gen. Eisenhower at that time was preparing to lead the Allied forces against Hitler's armies. He said today that Mrs. Hobby led the WAC splendidly and it turned out to be "one of the finest organizations the Army ever had."

He went on to praise her for having devoted her talents in the Cabinet to the benefit of the country "most effectively."

He praised her for her "calm competence in the face of every kind of difficulty," and added, "we are just distressed to lose you."

Reaction of Cabinet.

Mr. Eisenhower also told how the Cabinet received the news of her departure when the President told the members of her decision to leave the Government.

He said Humphrey exclaimed, "What?—the best man in the Cabinet?"

The President said that this summed up his feelings and the feeling of the whole Cabinet.

Shortly after the resignation ceremony, the White House released an exchange of letters between the President and Mrs. Hobby. Mr. Eisenhower wrote "Dear Oveta" that "this is one of the hardest letters I have ever had to write" in accepting her resignation.

Mrs. Hobby told him she had to leave because of "personal reasons of a high order."

Mrs. Hobby later told reporters that she informed the President in January that she would have to leave the Government. Asked whether the polio vaccine controversy—which did not begin until months later—"forced" her out, she said, "nothing could be further from the truth."

After Mr. Eisenhower praised Mrs. Hobby so warmly, she was visibly moved as she reported. Looking mostly at the Chief Executive, but sometimes into the camera lenses, Mrs. Hobby said that her 31 months in Government had given her an unmatched opportunity "to serve a man who has devoted his entire life to the service of the United States."

She reviewed the Administration accomplishments in her field, paying particular attention to the improvement in the pension system which she said is due to Eisenhower policies strengthening the dollar.

Then she turned to the forthcoming Big Four meeting next week and said: "As you go to Geneva for all of us, I believe everyone will be praying that there in that meeting the first step will be taken toward a truly universal peace."

Mrs. Hobby concluded by saying, "God has had his hand on the United States in the kind of leadership you have given."

Background of Folsom.

Folsom, who will succeed her, was treasurer of Eastman Kodak when he joined this Administration in 1953. The White House pointed out that Folsom had a long background in federal social security affairs, having helped draft the original social security act as a member of an advisory council to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1934.

The White House also described Folsom as "a pioneer in developing private company benefit plans for employees."

Since the Eisenhower Administration has been in office, Folsom has been an architect of social security amendments and the development of group life insurance for federal workers.

Folsom led the Treasury task force which collaborated with the Eighty-Third Congress in devising the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

Folsom, born at McRae, Ga., is a graduate of the University of Georgia and the Harvard Business school. He was an Army captain in World War I.

Folsom said he thought the social security law, on which he has worked since its inception, "is in pretty good shape now."

However, he said, it should be extended to cover more people, principally self-employed and professional people.

Folsom told reporters he thought voluntary health insurance should, and could, be extended by private companies, and that they could do so without Government help.

He said the "big thing" for the future "is probably the field of catastrophic illness."

He said perhaps voluntary medical insurance plans could be extended along lines of $50 deductible automobile insurance. He said the insured person might pay something like one-fourth the costs of a serious or extended illness, up to a certain dollar limit, and the insurance company would take over the additional costs.

Second to Quit Cabinet.

Mrs. Hobby is the second member of President Eisenhower's original Cabinet to leave the Administration.

Martin P. Durkin, AFL plumbers' union head, was Mr. Eisenhower's first Secretary of Labor. He resigned in September 1953 because of differences with the Administration over labor legislation. Durkin was succeeded by the present Secretary, James Mitchell.

Frances Perkins, Roosevelt's Secretary of Labor, is the only other woman who ever held a Cabinet post.

Before the Department of Health, Education and Welfare had Cabinet rank it was called the Federal Security Agency and Mrs. Hobby had served as its head since President Eisenhower took office. The department touches the lives of 43,000,000 people and it has about 37,000 employees to carry on its varied activities.

Mrs. Hobby's introduction to legislative procedures came at the age of 14 when her father, a lawyer, was elected to the Texas Legislature. She was his constant companion at the capital, so apt a pupil that at the age of 21 she was chosen parliamentarian by the Legislature.

She first met William Pettus Hobby when she was working as a clerk in the circulation department of the Houston Post, his newspaper. They were married in 1921 when she was 26 and he was 53.

She began to move through the Post with the same resolution with which she had tackled her job in the Legislature, becoming, in turn, book editor, editorial writer, head of the advertising and circulation departments and finally executive vice president and publisher. She resigned from that job when President Eisenhower appointed her FSA head.

Mrs. Hobby has two children—William Pettus Hobby Jr., 23, a Navy ensign stationed at the Pentagon, and Jessica Hobby, 18, a student at Columbia University in New York City.

SHERMAN ADAMS REQUESTED DELAY IN SEC HEARING

respect to administrative matters."

However, Brownell said Armstrong should answer a question as to whether someone in the executive branch outside the commission asked for adjournment of a pending case. The Attorney General based his opinion on the fact that such a proceeding is quasi-judicial in nature.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Dem., Wyoming), said Armstrong's refusal to answer raised the question "whether there is an attempt by people around the President to carry out invisible government to control boards and commissions by secret conversations."

Senator John Marshall Butler (Rep., Maryland), denied that any such inference could be drawn. He represented the Administration at the hearing and frequently coached Armstrong as questions were put to the SEC chairman.

Andrew D. Orrick declared "I am in total accord" with the chairman.

Kefauver then said he wanted to pose a hypothetical question and get away from any actual decisions such as the one SEC made approving $5,500,000 of stock financing by the Dixon-Yates group.

The subcommittee chairman asked whether, if representations were made to SEC members by anyone in the executive branch or Congress, seeking to influence a commission decision, members would regard them as not privileged and matters they could testify about.

Armstrong asserted, "there have been no such representations."

Armstrong said his agency makes its decisions solely on the basis of hearing records and arguments of attorneys.

Armstrong put in heatedly that, "there has been no dictation to the SEC from anyone in the executive branch on its decisions."

Mrs. Willie Henry, a Negro, 2322 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, was in serious condition today at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis suffering a skull fracture and broken right knee received when the automobile in which she was a passenger collided head-on with a tractor-trailer last night at Missouri avenue and Twenty-sixth street, East St. Louis.

Her husband, who was driving, suffered a broken right arm. Driver of the truck, M. G. Ethridge of Humboldt, Tenn., told police he was driving behind Henry's machine on Missouri when the car suddenly made a U-turn, apparently went out of control and swerved into the path of the truck. Ethridge was not injured.

BOY IN BELLTOWER CRUSHED TO DEATH BY SWINGING BELL

BRISTOL, England, July 13 (UP)—The big bell of Westbury-on-Trym parish church shattered 15-year-old Richard Egan's death last night.

Richard and a friend decided to explore the belltower after choir practice and entered unbeknownst to the church's bellringer, who had arrived for weekly practice. The first tug on the three-quarter-ton No. 4 bell crushed the boy against the wall.

COUNTY'S POLICE PLAN DEPUTIZING FORCES IN TOWNS

Program Being Worked Out for Integrating Entire Municipal Departments.

A program to deputize entire municipal police departments by the new St. Louis County Police Department is nearing completion, Superintendent Albert E. DuBois of the county police said today.

Policemen of a municipality, after having been deputized by the county department, would have the authority to cross other city limits during pursuit to make arrests, it was pointed out.

Clayton is the first municipality to take steps toward having its police force deputized. The board of aldermen last night authorized Mayor Jule A. Schweig to discuss the matter with Superintendent DuBois.

"Our department is ready to receive formal requests and suggestions from municipalities as to how they would like to see this program operate," Superintendent DuBois said.

He added that already several cities in the county have asked for information about the program which is now being worked out, with preparation of rules and standards. The program should be completed in about a week, he said.

Superintendent DuBois said the program will provide for deputizing entire departments instead of individuals. He said that was the intent of the plan as provided for in the charter amendment which established the new county police department.

Under the old sheriff's office, before its duties were taken over July 1 by the county police department, many police officers in county municipalities were deputized, but that generally was on an individual basis instead of a departmental basis.

BACKS DRINKERS' RIGHT TO PICK SIZE OF BEER BOTTLE

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—A brewery industry spokesman has accused the Government of trying to interfere with the right of beer drinkers to choose their own bottles.

Beer now comes in 10 different sizes of bottles and cans. The Government has proposed cutting the number of sizes to six.

Edward V. Lahey, head of the United States Brewers Foundation, said "no Government agency should tell the consumer what choices he may have." Besides, he said, anyone who is confused by the 10 different sizes of beer containers on the market either can't read or doesn't care.

He made his statement in hearings before Dwight B. Avis, head of the Internal Revenue Alcohol Tax Division. Avis is studying proposals to reduce the number of sizes to prevent consumers from being "deceived" as to how much beer they are getting for their money.

The alcohol tax unit has proposed that beer containers be limited to 7, 12, 16, 32 and 64 ounce sizes. A special 11-ounce size would be permitted in the Pacific Northwest, where that size has been in use for a number of years. Eliminated would be the new 10-ounce size and the 8, 28, and 40 ounce sizes. Lahey said all the sizes are labeled more clearly than a lot of soft drink bottles.

The ELDORADO "ST. MORITZ"

On Display In Our Showroom

The Sensational Cadillac Eldorado "St. Moritz"

OPEN DAILY FROM 7:30 A.M. to 10:30 P.M.

This is a wonderful opportunity to see and inspect the distinguished Eldorado Brougham and the spectacular Eldorado "St. Moritz".

The Eldorado Brougham is Cadillac's exciting look into the future of automotive styling. Although functional in every detail, it reveals wide departure from conventional styling and construction. The interior features four individual seats luxuriously tailored in leather and imported French ripple silk. And among its many comfort and convenience items is a coupled heater and air conditioning control that automatically stabilizes the interior temperature.

The stunning "St. Moritz" features a special white Pearlescent finish with an interior of ermine fur and white English grain leather.

We'll be looking forward to seeing you during this special display in our showroom. And during your visit, we hope you will make plans for a personal demonstration of the magnificent 1955 Cadillac.

Hickey Gets $5000-a-Year More, 3 Others Voted $4000 Pay Rise

Increases for School Department Heads Recommended After Survey — Record Budget Adopted.

The Board of Education last night raised the salary of Superintendent of Instruction Philip J. Hickey to $20,000 a year and increased pay of the board's three other department heads to $15,000 each.

Hickey had been receiving $15,000. The others had been getting $11,000. They are V. Harry Rhodes, school building commissioner; Mervyn E. Wiethaupt, secretary and treasurer; and Thor W. Bruce, auditor.

The board adopted a record $27,301,876 budget for operation of the schools during the year which started July 1. The budget had been approved last month by the board, meeting as a committee of the whole.

C. of C. Membership Voted.
A $300 item for membership in the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis, deleted in committee action, was restored on motion of board member Oscar A. Ehrhardt, who in June led the move to cancel membership.

To speed the $16,395,000 school construction and modernization program, the board established a $100,000 revolving fund to finance preliminary work on various projects and appropriated $25,000 to start the classroom illumination program.

The salary increases for department heads were voted on recommendation of board member Charles J. Dyer, who headed a special committee which studied pay in St. Louis and 14 other cities of more than 500,000 population.

Results of Survey.
The survey indicated that St. Louis salaries were below those of comparable positions in other systems," Dyer said.

"While the recommendations do not reach the maximum paid by other cities," he reported, "the new salaries will bring them more nearly in line with the average of the large cities."

Analysis of the survey data by the Post-Dispatch, shows that, although the individual salaries voted last night are at or below the average in the other cities, St. Louis will rank third from the top in total executive salaries.

This is because the majority of the other 14 systems have fewer independent departments. The St. Louis total under the new schedule is $72,000, exceeded only by New York's $103,500 and Detroit's $86,918.

Totals for the other 12 cities range from Baltimore's $27,000 to San Francisco's $70,155. Figures for the 13 cities include salaries paid to school attorneys, where employed. The board last night raised the salary of its attorney, Emmet T. Carter, to $7,000, a $1,000 increase. This is a part-time position.

The survey showed that superintendents in most of the other cities are better paid than Hickey, even under his new salary. The average is $23,576, and only Baltimore and Boston pay less than $20,000.

Other Cities in Survey.
Besides those mentioned, cities in the survey were Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Pittsburgh and Minneapolis.

Hickey and Wiethaupt had not had increases since 1947. Rhodes' and Bruce's salaries were last increased in 1949, and Carter's pay had not been changed since 1949. The new schedules are effective Saturday.

In moving to restore the budget item for Chamber of Commerce membership, Ehrhardt said he hoped that during the year the board and the chamber would reach a better understanding of each other's duties and aims.

Last Month, Ehrhardt said he objected to what he termed political activities of the chamber in behalf of the unsuccessful state sponsored by the Citizen's School Improvement Committee in the April 5 School Board elections. The slate was defeated by a ticket of which Ehrhardt was a member.

The board authorized the employment of an actuary to study the cost of extending federal social security to board employees. Under last night's proposal, social security would be extended only if, first, the board and then a majority of employees approve it.

Cost Data to Be Provided.
The actuarial study would give the board cost data on which to base its decision and would provide employees information as to the benefits they would receive. Social security coverage would be in addition to provisions of the present retirement system, jointly financed by the board and the employees.

Proposed improvements in the system were defeated in the Legislature this year as the result of lobbying by representatives of certain employee groups in the building department. The improvements had been approved by the board, which had been informed they were favored by most employees.

Mrs. Edward M. Harrington, appointed to the board Saturday by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, took her seat last night. She filled the vacancy created by the death June 28 of J. Harry Pohlman and will serve until the 1957 city elections.

4 JOPLIN (MO.) SPECTATORS HURT IN STOCK CAR RACE

JOPLIN, Mo., July 13 (UP)—A car in a stock car race smashed into a wall in front of the grandstand at the Ozark Speedway, injuring four persons, last night.

The car clipped off several telephone poles which fell among the screaming spectators. The driver, Ray Clark of Pittsburg, Kan., escaped injury. Officials said Clark's car was hit from behind and went out of control.

Admitted to Freeman hospital here were Miss Betty Bradshaw, 16 years old, of Carthage, Mo., who suffered fractures of both legs; Mabel McQuirk, Springfield, Mo., suffering possible internal injuries; Dewey Dove, Springfield, head injuries; and Miss Phyllis Sewell, Seneca, Mo., with an arm injury. Two other persons received hospital treatment and were released.

NEW FRENCH GENERAL FIRES 9 OFFICIALS IN MOROCCO

RABAT, Morocco, July 13 (AP)—Six days after taking over his new job as French resident general in Morocco, Gilbert Grandval yesterday fired nine French administrative officials, including seven department chiefs.

Grandval said he was determined on a change of policy and "for essentially psychological reasons" the men associated with the old policy were no longer suitable. He came here from Paris with instructions to modify the direct French control which had largely supplanted the advisory role customary to protectorate government.

Some French quarters believe giving Moroccans more authority in local affairs would help end the continuing terrorism.

HOUSE UNIT KILLS BOND PLAN FOR ROAD PROGRAM

Vote Said to Improve Chances for Boost in Tax on Gasoline, Truck Tires, Tubes.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The House Public Works Committee turned down today, 19 to 14, President Eisenhower's plan to finance a fast road-building program with bonds. The President had proposed setting up a new government corporation to sell 30-year bonds.

The committee did not reach a vote on a substitute Democratic plan to pay for the new roads through immediate increases in federal taxes on gasoline, trucks, heavy tires and tubes and diesel fuel.

Some members said chances for approving the tax increase plan were improved by the vote against the bond-financing proposal.

Vote on Party Lines.

The vote against the bond plan was almost solidly along party lines. Only one Republican, Representative Bryce Alger of Texas, voted to oppose it. One Democratic member was absent but the other 18 voted solidly against it.

The committee approved also the first section of a 47-billion dollar federal-state road-building program over the next 12 years.

This section would continue, for the first year, the present program of about 1½ billion dollars for primary, secondary and urban roads, with states putting up half the money.

After the first year this program would be increased by $50,000,000 each year for the 12-year period until it is expanded to more than two billion dollars a year on a 50-50 federal-state matching fund basis.

Urban Road Funds.

The committee voted down a motion to cut $100,000,000 a year from urban road funds.

The committee still has to vote on the proposed tax increases and also on the heart of the road building expansion—a plan for spending 24 billion dollars in federal funds and almost 2½ billion in state funds to complete a 40,000-mile network of interstate super highways.

Before today's meeting, several key committee members predicted approval of a subcommittee plan to increase gasoline taxes from 2 to 3 cents a gallon and to hike taxes on trucks, diesel fuel, truck tires and tubes. It was estimated these would bring in about $800,000,000 a year.

Hearings End.

The committee late yesterday concluded two days of hearings on the tax plan.

In addition to the 1-cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline, the subcommittee plan would hike taxes on diesel fuel, used by trucks, from 2 to 6 cents a gallon; on truck and bus tires, from 5 to 15 cents a pound; on heavy tubes, from 9 to 15 cents a pound; on heavy tire retreads, from no tax to 7½ cents a pound; and on trucks, from 8 to 10 per cent.

The Senate has voted, 60 to 31, against the Eisenhower bond plan. It approved instead a Democratic bill which left financing up to the House.

Representative J. Percy Priest (Dem., Tennessee), said Congress "most likely" will not pass this year a bill to curb federal regulation of natural gas. He referred to legislation which would have the effect of overturning a Supreme Court decision of last year which held that the Federal Power Commission should exercise control over producers' prices for gas sold to interstate pipelines.

Both the House and Senate Commerce Committees have approved practically identical bills, but the issue is a touchy one generally aligning members of Congress from southwest producing states against those from the north and east. Priest, who is chairman of the House group, told a reporter the time element is against the measure this year.

Social Security Plan.

House Democrats had their plan for broadening Social Security benefits well on the road today, confident it would attract many Republican votes.

House leaders planned quick floor action on the politically appealing bill to help older women and disabled workers. It may be called up Monday under procedures barring amendments.

However prospects for Senate action at this session were considered slight.

The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday approved, 21 to 3, the bill which provides for a 1 percentage point social security tax hike starting next Jan. 1 to pay for the new benefits, expected eventually to cost $1,700,000,000 a year. The benefit provisions also would take effect on New Year's day.

The proposal, backed by Democratic chiefs, would allow Social Security benefits for some 800,000 more women by lowering from 65 to 62 their eligibility age. About 300,000 disabled workers could start getting payments under another provision lowering their eligibility age from 65 to 50.

Some 200,000 professional workers—including lawyers and dentists, but not doctors—would be brought under the social security system for the first time. The Social Security tax applies to the first $4200 of yearly income. Thus the increase of ½ or 1 per cent would be $21 a year for an individual making that much.

Bank Merger Bill.

The House Anti-Trust subcommittee approved a bill yesterday to forbid bank mergers through acquisition of assets if the merger would substantially lessen competition or create a monopoly. The bill extends provisions of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act which already cover bank mergers resulting from stock acquisitions.

Officials and lawyers of several states appealed to Congress for a halt to "federal encroachment" on legislative and police powers of the states. They appeared before a House judiciary subcommittee in support of a bill by Representative Howard Smith (Dem., Virginia). The bill seeks to curb what its backers call a broadening invasion of state fields by the Federal Government through court interpretation of congressional intent.

Attorney General John M. Dalton of Missouri said Smith's proposal to establish rules of interpretation for the courts to follow was a "step in the right direction," and asserted: "We are concerned about the trend whereby (federal) administrative agencies are taking over the law which belongs to the states."

He was joined by John L. Davidson, first assistant attorney general of Illinois; Attorney Frank Wilson of Dallas and Thomas B. Gay of Richmond, Va.; Attorney General Lewis Wyman of New Hampshire; Assistant Attorney General James Windham of South Carolina, and Representative Douglas Bergman of the Texas State Legislature representing Texas Speaker James Lindsay.

SHAKES WATER OUT OF LUNGS

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., July 13 (UP)—Tony Capitan figured he had no time to bother with conventional artificial respiration methods after he pulled 9-year-old Yvonne Pella unconscious from the McIntyre river yesterday.

He held the girl up by her ankles and shook the water out of her lungs. Witnesses credited his action with saving her life.

CHARGES YOUNG'S FIRM OVERCHARGED U.S. IN ZINC DEAL

from Young to officers of the W. M. & W. Mining Co., Baxter Springs, Kan., with which the DMPA had a "maintenance of production" agreement.

Under this agreement, Young told the Post-Dispatch, the Government assisted the company financially to continue zinc production. At the same time, Young said, his private company, American Zinc, Lead & Smelting, had a contract with W. M. & W. under which the St. Louis firm bought the Kansas company's zinc concentrates for smelting.

One letter introduced by Williams was signed by Young as Deputy Administrator of the DMPA and addressed to Wilbur J. Worley, president of W.M.&W. Dated Sept. 3, 1952, it dealt with a delay by the Office of Price Stabilization in approving W.M.&W.'s floor price. In the letter, Young apologized for the delay, which he said was due to the fact that the OPS had changed administrators.

The other letter, also signed by Young as deputy administrator, notified officers of the mining company that the DMPA was canceling its contract with the firm. Both letters indicate that the company was then located at Miami, Okla.

The W.M.&W. was one of the three companies on which the Government lost money. Young told the Post-Dispatch his private firm had various dealings with all three firms while they were receiving Government subsidies.

The others were the MacArthur Mining Co., also of Baxter Springs, and Mid-Continent Mining Corp. of West Plains, Mo. Figures cited by Williams placed the loss to the Government on the three contracts at $388,064.

Firms' Relations Discussed.

One of the reports introduced by Williams discussed the relation of American Zinc, Lead & Smelting and its subsidiary, American Zinc Co. of Illinois, with the W. M. & W. Mining Co. It read:

"The American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co., parent company of American Zinc Co. of Illinois, advanced the W. M. & W. Mining Co., Inc. $70,000 during the period January 1951 through September 1951, with a $34,000 unliquidated balance remaining in January 1952, the time negotiations began for a subsidy contract from the Government."

"The subsidy was granted so that W. M. & W. would be able to continue in operation. By the continued operation, under the subsidy, more time was provided for the liquidation of the $70,000 advance, and at the same time American Zinc was provided an assured source of supply of zinc concentrates at a favorable market price."

"On Sept. 15, 1951, Mr. Young became deputy administrator of DMPA and while serving in this capacity did not relinquish his affiliation with the American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. In fact, during the years he was deputy administrator, September 1951 to May 1953, he received from the company an annual income of over $79,000 a year and over $238,000 for the three years."

"It is apparent that Mr. Young was directly interested in the American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co., which has an investment in the W.M.&W. Mining Co., Inc. Various questions were raised in regard to the proposed contract, including the fact there was some doubt about the justification for an over-the-market subsidy price for the production of zinc, due to the improved zinc supply. Mr. Young recommended the contract."

"When the contractor encountered difficulty in receiving payment of his invoices, Mr. Young took a personal interest in attempting to expedite them. Furthermore, when others in DMPA recommended that the contract be terminated, Mr. Young delayed the termination."

"Subsidy payments totaling $18,064.90 were made to the contractor (W. M. & W.). This subsidy was to provide the difference between the ceiling price for the product and the contractor's production cost, plus a reasonable allowance for depletion, depreciation and profit."

After analyzing performance record of the mining company, the report said: "A comparison of the estimated costs, actual costs and ceiling price raises the question whether the contract was justifiable under the statutory requirements."

DULLES LEAVING FOR EUROPE SAYS WEST IS UNITED

on such global matters as arms reduction which are of direct concern to the four great powers.

Three members of Congress who sat in on that briefing reported that Mr. Eisenhower said he would not make any commitments on Asia. It is generally expected here that Soviet Premier Bulganin will raise Far Eastern questions at least to the extent of trying to get agreement from the Western powers to a later meeting with Red China.

Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles do not expect to agree to a Red China conference. Senator Humphrey (Dem.) Minnesota, described today as an "honorable position" the President's reported pledge concerning Asia. Humphrey, a Senate Foreign Relations committee member critical of some Administration international policies, said in an interview:

"I don't want to see the Soviet Union built up into the position of becoming a broker for Asian countries. We should hold the Soviets accountable for the violations of the truces in Korea and Viet Nam, which they participated in making."

"But it would not be the honorable thing for the Big Four to reach any decision on Asia in the absence of the Asians."

Another Democrat, Senator Jackson of Washington said he hopes there has been no decision to bypass all discussion of Asia at Geneva.

"The clear and present danger to world peace is in the Far East," he said. "It is in Asia where we have the day-to-day threat of conflagration. The Russians are involved there and unless these issues are discussed, there might be very little point in holding the Geneva meeting."

Senator H. Alexander Smith

(Rep.), New Jersey said he interprets Mr. Eisenhower's reported position as one of "not talking behind the backs of the Asian nations."

Some Congress members said Mr. Eisenhower indicated he will bring up the issue of disarmament, but Chairman George (Dem.), Georgia of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he does not expect any formal disarmament plan to be laid down as such. He said he expects some progress, adding that "I believe there is a disposition on the part of Russia to do something."

A similar view was voiced by Chairman Richards (Dem.), South Carolina, of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, who said in a separate interview "There is hope that there will be concessions" by the Russians at Geneva. He said the free world "should not make any concessions in principle at all" but might make "any reasonable concession" not involving principle.

Richards said the White House briefing "surveyed the field of hope as well as the possibility of disillusionment," and he added:

"I believe there is a possibility that concessions might come out, no matter what the propelling reasons for their (Russian) concessions."

White House conferees said Mr. Eisenhower expressed termination to press the question of free elections for peoples in the Iron Curtain countries.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved a resolution proclaiming the "hope" that Communist satellite states "shall again enjoy the right of self-determination."

The proposal, which now goes to the Senate for action, was offered by Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California and acting Democratic leader Clements of Kentucky. It was drafted with the consent of the State Department and President Eisenhower.

The committee vote was 14 to 0 with only Senator Langer (Rep.), North Dakota, absent or not represented by a proxy.

The committee at the same time pigeonholed a proposal by Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, to put the Senate on record as favoring immediate withdrawal of United States recognition of the East European satellite regimes. It "tabled" McCarthy's resolution, 13 to 0. Senators Wiley (Rep.), Wisconsin and Langer were not recorded.

Meanwhile, Russia appeared to be hardening its basic position on German unification, in advance of the Geneva conference.

A Kremlin statement indicated to officials here that Russia is trying to steer away from the position it seemed to take several months ago: that German unification has become completely impossible since West Germany signed an alliance with the Western allies.

The Kremlin statement, issued through the Tass news agency in Moscow, proposed that the problem of restoring German unity be approached through a European collective security system.

It warned that any attempt to involve Germany in a military alliance "leads to an increased threat of a new war."

However, the basic Russian position set forth in the declaration appeared here to be substantially the same as Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov took at the Berlin Big Four conference in January 1954. The essence of this policy was that all the nations of Europe should be formed into a single security system, which would displace the Western European Union and other alliances and would mean final. Authorities said the text of the document would be studied carefully to see whether it offers any new opening for negotiations at Geneva.

BOOST IN FUNDS FOR FOOD-DRUG AGENCY ASKED

Mrs. Sullivan Urges
$1,096,800 Increase—
Bases Appeal on Citizens' Report.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 13—A bill increasing funds for the Federal Food and Drug Administration by $1,096,800 in the coming fiscal year was introduced yesterday by Representative Leonor K. Sullivan (Dem., St. Louis).

Mrs. Sullivan said the proposed increase was based on a report by a citizens' advisory committee which studied FDA operations. The report, issued last month, recommended a three-to-four-fold increase in FDA appropriations in the next 5 to 10 years.

It said the Food and Drug Administration's funds, staff and facilities "are woefully inadequate to discharge its present responsibilities." The agency checks food and drug manufacturing plants for unsanitary and unsafe conditions.

The 14-member citizens group, headed by G. Cullen Thomas, vice president of General Mills, said expansion of the FDA should take place gradually, with an appropriation increase of 10 to 20 per cent the first year.

Mrs. Sullivan told the House her bill would increase FDA funds by 20 per cent over the budget for the 1956 fiscal year which began July 1. The budget for fiscal 1955 was $5,100,000.

Praising the report as "thorough-going" and "comprehensive," Mrs. Sullivan said the committee found that the FDA "cannot begin to cover the 100,000 establishments within its jurisdiction."

To do the job adequately, she said, would require $60,000,000 a year to hire additional inspectors and improve facilities. Instead, reduced appropriations have forced the FDA to trim its staff by 15 per cent in the last few years, she added.

She urged "immediate steps to put this vital agency of government on an efficient and effective basis of operation."

Mrs. Sullivan said she hoped Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby would accept recommendations of the advisory committee, which she appointed.

ACTOR EDWARD G. ROBINSON TO SUPPORT SON'S WIFE

LOS ANGELES, July 13 (AP)—Actor Edward G. Robinson Sr. agreed yesterday to pay support for his 2-year-old granddaughter and his son's estranged wife.

The actor went to court in a temporary support hearing pending the divorce trial Mrs. Frances Robinson has instituted against Edward G. Robinson Jr.

Young Robinson contended his only income came from his father. So Edward Sr. agreed to put up $35 a week child support for two months and pay Frances $125 for apartment rent plus $50 a month allowance.

Edward Sr., a proud grandfather, asked for visitation rights, but the court said that was out of its province.

AEC ANNOUNCES FIRST SALE OF ATOMIC POWER

Steam From Reactor to Operate Turbine Producing Electricity for Utility.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 13 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission today announced plans for the first Government sale of atomic-produced electricity and said it would be introduced into the Niagara-Mohawk Power Corp.'s public utility system "in the near future."

The commission said it has set a price of 3 mills a kilowatt-hour after studying recommendations of interested public power organizations and after consulting with the Federal Power Commission.

As the AEC explained it, steam from a prototype submarine reactor at West Milton, N. Y., will be channeled into a 10,000-kilowatt turbine generator to produce power which will be sold by the AEC to Niagara-Mohawk.

The generator was installed and will be operated by the General Electric Co. at no cost to the Government, the AEC said. The reactor is a prototype of that which is to be installed in the Sea Wolf, this country's second atomic submarine scheduled for launching at Groton, Conn., on July 21. The Sea Wolf's reactor also is being supplied by General Electric, the AEC said.

AEC said the arrangement under which the power will be marketed by Niagara-Mohawk is a temporary one, pending termination whether any or all of three public power units which have expressed an interest in buying the energy can arrange for its transmission to their systems.

It identified these as the Delaware County Rural Electric Co-operative, Delhi, N. Y., the city of Ithaca, N. Y., and the city of Holyoke, Mass.

GALVESTON PAIR INJURED WHEN PAVEMENT BUCKLES

GALVESTON, Tex., July 13 (AP)—Anthony Parino, Galveston mechanic, and his wife were driving on one of Galveston's principal seaside streets when the pavement buckled upward about 3 feet. He couldn't stop his automobile in time and it flipped over. Police thought the high temperature caused the pavement to expand and buckle. The Parinos suffered cuts and bruises. The car was severely damaged.

Bottle Buys a Movie Ticket. VIENNA, July 13 (AP)—In Communist Czechoslovakia, if you have a few empty bottles you take them to the movies. "Bottle pictures" have been organized recently by the state's raw material depots, Czech newspapers report. One good sized bottle is good for standing room, five for a seat.

Flashes of Life

Still Fighting. CHICAGO (AP)—The Georgia delegation to the Shrine convention made a valiant attempt to erase a reminder of Gen. Sherman's Civil War march through Georgia. Over the marquee of the Sherman Hotel, where the Georgians are housed, they hung this sign: "The Robert E. Lee Hotel."

A Man of Peace. HOBBS, N. M. (AP)—This notice has been posted on the wall of Municipal Judge Robert L. Benzing's office at City Hall: "While in this office, speak in low, soothing tone and do not disagree with me in any manner. Please be informed that when one has reached my age, noise and nonconformity cause gastric hyper-peristalsis, hypersecretion of hydrochloric acid and inflammation of the gastric mucosa, and I BECOME UNPLEASANT." The judge's age was not available.

Heading for the Cooler? DAYTON, O. (AP)—A load of vegetables got a ticket for disturbing the peace.

Residents near an outlying shopping center complained to the sheriff's office that noise from a parked refrigerator truck was disturbing their slumber. Deputies couldn't find the driver and were afraid to turn off the refrigerator motor. They hung a ticket on the truck charging the driver with disturbing the peace.

Reunited With Pet

By a Post-Dispatch Photographer
ANN CLAYTON, reunited with her faithful pet after she had been lost in woods for five hours yesterday. She carried toy musical lawnmower with her.

GIRL, 3, FOUND AFTER 5 HOURS IN WOODS

Organized Search Turns Up Berkeley Child Lost Near Sappington.

Still clutching a toy lawnmower, 3-year-old Ann Clayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clayton, 6006 Cascade drive, Berkeley, was found yesterday after being lost for five hours in a wooded area near Sappington.

With two older sisters, the little girl was visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMahon, 12641 Elm road. Seeing the sisters, Kathleen, 8, and Patricia, 7, playing near the edge of the wood, their mother sent Ann to tell them to return.

Instead, Ann disappeared into the woodland, covering an 80-acre tract.

When preliminary search failed to find her, an organized hunt began. Nine St. Louis county policemen, three State troopers, and 30 volunteers, including several children on horseback, participated.

The search ended at 5 o'clock when Carl E. Horn, a gardener, 4741 Balser lane, was attracted by Ann's cries and was greeted by her as he approached.

The child, frightened but unharmed save for scratches from briars suffered as she wandered for about a mile in the woods, was speedily reunited with her parents and her pet puppy, "Cindy," a fox terrier, who stuck close to Mrs. Clayton as the search progressed.

CZECHS RELEASE U.S. SERGEANT, HELD 39 DAYS

WALDHAUS, Germany, July 13 (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia today released a United States Army sergeant seized 39 days ago while he was on a sightseeing trip along the West German-Czech border.

Sgt. Walter T. Winter of Philadelphia was turned over to west German guards at this frontier point in Bavaria. The Germans in turn handed him over to two United States Army intelligence agents.

Wearing the same civilian suit in which he was arrested June 5, the soldier grinned as he crossed the frontier. In his hands was the movie camera he was using when he was nabbed. "How was it in Czechoslovakia?" a German border guard asked him.

"No comment," Winter replied as he drove off with the intelligence men.

Winter was on a three-day pass from his outfit stationed at Thionville, France, when he crossed a bridge over the river border to get a better picture of a Czech house. Czech guards grabbed him.

WILD WELCOME FOR NEHRU, BACK FROM MOSCOW

NEW DELHI, July 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru returned home from his visit to Moscow today to a riotous welcome which dazed diplomats who came to the airport to greet him. A crowd of about 3000 persons broke through police barriers with what appeared to be prearranged ease to surround Nehru, tossing flowers and garlands wildly in his direction. The crowd pushed aside most diplomats who had gone to the airfield to welcome the Prime Minister back from his 37-day trip to Russia and other European countries. Many notables left without shaking Nehru's hand. Nehru, briefly angered at the crowds, also appeared dazed as he rode away in an open car. The road to the airport and the field itself were heavily guarded by special police, but police at the field gave only token opposition to the rush of the crowd. Educational TV Construction. WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The National Citizens Committee for Education Television reports a field survey shows that 13 educational TV stations, with a potential audience of nearly 21,000,000, are under construction.

STASSEN TO WORK IN PARIS DURING GENEVA SESSIONS

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Harold Stassen, President Eisenhower's specialist on world disarmament, is not scheduled to attend the Geneva summit conference, where East-West disarmament plans may become one of the hottest issues. Stassen, who has been directing a survey of world disarmament problems for four months, will be in Paris during the Geneva sessions, however. He will leave today aboard Secretary of State John Foster Dulles's special plane. Officials said Stassen's primary purpose in traveling overseas at this time would be to sit in on the 15-nation Atlantic Council meeting Saturday in Paris. This meeting generally will be devoted to a review of allied plans for building defenses against possible Communist attack, but officials said world disarmament also figures as a factor in the sessions. Firemen's Traffic Squad. NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—A special detail of firemen has been formed in New York. Their sole job: Giving out summonses to motorists who get in the way of fire trucks. So far, no tickets.

HIGHWAY LANES FOR VARIOUS SPEEDS PREDICTED IN TALK

ANN HARBOR, Mich., July 13 (AP)—J. Paul Buckley, chief engineer for the Automotive Safety Foundation's Highway Division, says these are among the things motorists can expect for the future: Separate highway lanes for specific speeds, helicopter removal of disabled cars, bridges across huge lakes, lighted highways eliminating headlights, pavements that melt snow and sleet, and non-stop cross-country throughways. SAN FRANCISCO WINS LILY PONS FROM NEW YORK

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 13—Lily Pons, the soprano, arrived yesterday on the Queen Elizabeth and ruled out New York as a place to live. San Francisco is for her.

"New York is fine for doing the work," Miss Pons told reporters. "But if you want to relax you have to go to Central Park and who has time to go to Central Park? To really enjoy life you must live in a place like San Francisco. New York just can't compare."
As soon as possible, Miss Pons said, she wants to "have a little flat in San Francisco and leave the East." Leave permanently? "Oh, no, I will always come back to New York from time to time but not to live."

She continued: "Paris and San Francisco are the most beautiful cities in the world. San Francisco is like a pearl beside the blue water. San Francisco has soul. It has color. The people live differently. The women are the most chic in the country and the shopping, it has elegance. They are the most hospitable, nice, warm people. You are near lakes and rivers and sky and see and tree and everything. New York has become quite a different thing."

CONTEST WINNER TAKES $25,000 CASH, LET'S OIL WELL GO

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., July 13 (AP)—Vernon B. Fitzhugh, a telephone company employee, has taken the cash and let the oil wells go.
The cash was $25,000 silver dollars, encased in a freer manufactured by Amana Refrigeration Co., which gave Fitzhugh the delightful problem of choosing between $25,000 cash and Oklahoma oil-producing property that might bring in $100,000.
The contest was a simple drawing. Fitzhugh sent in his name. It was placed with about 80,000 others, and one was drawn out. It was Fitzhugh's. Fitzhugh, in announcing his decision yesterday, said: "I'm just tired of losing sleep and my appetite — we've thought about it for two weeks. We may have done the wrong thing but at least it's over."

Fitzhugh visited Oklahoma last week to look over the two oil wells. He said he talked to a lot of oilmen and they were evenly divided on what he should do.
Fitzhugh said he thinks if the money is invested wisely it will reap more profit than the oil wells. He said he would put the cash into the bank until Jan. 1 and then pay off his income tax, about $7000.

ARMS BILL VOTE IN BONN BEFORE BIG FOUR PARLEY

Adenauer Says Bundesstag Will Enact First Military Law Before End of This Week.

BONN, July 13 (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer predicted last night the Bundestag (lower house) will pass Germany's first rearmament law before the Geneva Big Four conference.

"It is now definitely clear that this law will be passed without further difficulties by the end of this week," Adenauer told a reporter.

Adenauer made the statement after receiving assurances from his coalition leaders that the lower house will vote Friday and Saturday on legislation to call up the first volunteers this year for the new 500,000-man armed forces.

The Bundestag today gave preliminary approval to a bill creating a civilian committee to approve appointments of senior officers in the new German army. It voted overwhelmingly for the bill on the first reading.

The vote was by show of hands and there was no recorded tally. Two more votes are required for final passage. These are scheduled for Friday.

This is one of the military bills intended to insure civilian control of the new armed force. It provides for a committee of 30 to 40 prominent civilians to approve all military appointments from colonel upward.

This volunteers' bill aroused a storm of protest when it was first submitted to Parliament by the government in June. Adenauer's own coalition parties said it failed to guarantee civilian control of the military.

The Bundestag's security committee rewrote the bill to limit the number of volunteers that can be enlisted and to clamp firm parliamentary controls on the military.

Adenauer accepted the new version and approval by the Bundestag is now regarded as certain. The 151 opposition Socialist deputies alone oppose it in the 487-member Bundestag. Approval by the Bundestag (upper house) on July 22 also is considered certain.

The action, Adenauer feels, will rule out any tendency at Geneva to consider West German rearmament as a bargaining point. He wants to make plain the 50,000,000 West Germans are irrevocably tied to the free world.

The volunteers' bill is a temporary measure to permit the government to start building the armed forces without waiting for Parliament to pass permanent defense legislation. Twenty permanent military laws will be submitted in the fall.

NEW CIGARETTE FILTER REMOVES ALL BUT SMOKER

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., July 13 (AP)—The ultimate in cigarette filtration appears to have arrived.

It is a holder that removes more than 95 per cent of a cigarette's nicotine. Inventor Norman Sharpe, a professor at California State Polytechnic College, said yesterday.

Sharpe devised the holder experimentally to demonstrate how smog-free home heating and air conditioning systems work.

The holder consists of a penny's worth of filter paper developed by the Atomic Energy Commission, another cent's worth of activated carbon, a couple of small funnels and a laboratory tube. This last is a glass tube with a bulb making the whole contraption look not unlike a hookah, the Oriental water pipe.

Sharpe concedes the commercial possibilities for his filter are about nil because of this drawback: "It removes all the smoke and taste as well."

INDIANAPOLIS SYMPHONY CONDUCTOR IS DISMISSED

INDIANAPOLIS, July 13 (AP)—Dismissal of Fabian Sevitzky, musical director and conductor of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra since 1937, was announced yesterday.

The Indianapolis Symphony currently is in Buenos Aires on a tour. Sevitzky, 47, is married and has two children. He was born in America. Herbert E. Wilson, president of the board of the sponsoring Indiana State Symphony Society, said Dr. Sevitzky was dropped from the $20,000-a-year post because he had failed to live up to a contract clause which requires the musical director to devote his full working time to "the interest, profit, harmony, benefit and advantage" of the orchestra.

The conductor also was accused of becoming "unmanageable" in his relations with the board, Wilson said. Wilson attributed discord within the orchestra to Dr. Sevitzky.

UNION ELECTRIC, EMPLOYEES RESUME PAY NEGOTIATIONS

Negotiations were resumed today between AFL Operating Engineers and the Union Electric Co. in an effort to reach agreement on a new wage contract prior to a strike deadline set by the union for next Sunday midnight.

James Flanagan, president of Local 148 of the operating engineers, representing 1225 employes at seven power plants, said if the union receives what it regards as "a reasonable offer" from the company between now and Sunday, a special membership meeting would be called to consider it.

Negotiations have been in recess since last Friday. Federal conciliators are participating in the conferences. The company also is in negotiation with two other electrical workers unions. One represents outside distribution workers and the other of-

2 WHO FLASHED $100 BILLS HELD IN WIDOW'S DEATH

Serial Numbers Nearly Match Those in Stran-
 tim's Bank Box.

OMAHA, Neb., July 13 (AP)—Two men known for their reticence on almost any subject sat silently in jail today—one in Omaha and one in Las Vegas—while police tried again to trace $87,000, much of it in $100 bills.

Jailed were Frank Ellsworth and Ray Wilson, both of whom are free on bail on robbery charges in other cities. Ellsworth is from Omaha. Wilson gives Tulsa, Okla., as his home town.

New warrants against them charge murder in the strangulation death of Mrs. Lulubel Hagar Rossman, 76 years old, in a Philadelphia hotel on July 4.

Free spending in Las Vegas gambling establishments by Ellsworth and Wilson recently brought onto the gambling tables a number of $100 bills that excited the suspicion of croupiers and police. Ellsworth and Wilson were arrested for questioning but police from New York and other cities were unable to link up the $100 bills and the rest of the $87,000 the two had with any robbery they knew of.

Ellsworth got out of the Las Vegas jail first on a habeas corpus writ and got the money back. He left for Omaha while Wilson was still in jail.

Serial Numbers Obtained.

While this was going on, in Philadelphia authorities obtained the serial numbers of the $100 bills Ellsworth and Wilson had.

Last night they said that their investigation had shown that the Ellsworth and Wilson bills approximated the serial numbers of $100 bills found in Mrs. Rossman's safety deposit box.

That, they decided, was enough to act on. Warrants were obtained and Ellsworth and Wilson soon were both in jail.

Mrs. Rossman, who had inherited more than $400,000 when her husband, an accountant died, was found gagged with one of her own stockings and bound with adhesive tape and clothing in her Philadelphia hotel room.

No motive has been established for the crime, police said. $8000 had been taken from her hotel room, but that $3817 in cash, two $1000 United States savings bonds and considerable jewelry were untouched.

They said also they had "documentary proof" the woman had been swindled of about $60,000 in deals in Miami and two other cities.

$150,000 Missing.

In her safety deposit box in a Philadelphia bank they found 200 $100 bills among $67,960 in the box. Persons close to Mrs. Rossman told police there was about $150,000 missing from the box.

Capt. David Roberts, head of the homicide squad, said Las Vegas authorities informed him that about nine or 10 of the $100 bills found on the two men had serial numbers matching up to the last two digits of those on the bills found in Mrs. Rossman's safe deposit box.

He said all the bills found in the box were new bills, issued by the Philadelphia Federal Reserve bank. The bills found on Ellsworth and Wilson, he said, were also new and were also issued by the Philadelphia Federal Reserve bank.

(Las Vegas chief of detectives B. J. Handlon said a check showed that Ellsworth and Wilson were in Tampa, Fla., July 5, the day after the Rossman killing, and left that day for Los Angeles, arriving July 6 in Las Vegas. Mrs. Rossman returned from Miami shortly before her death.)

Panama Highway Loan.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The World Bank and Panama yesterday signed an agreement under which Panama will get a $5,900,000 loan for a four-year highway improvement program.

Two private banks, the Bank of America of San Francisco and the Chemical Corn Exchange Bank of New York, will participate in the loan.

KOREA DESERVES HELP FROM U.S., GEN. TAYLOR SAYS

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, said yesterday that no nation could be more deserving of American assistance than the Republic of Korea.

Taylor, who recently returned from his post as United Nations and United States commander in the Far East, praised the Korean people and their soldiers. He spoke at a meeting sponsored by the American-Korean Foundation whose purpose is to aid Korea.

Saying that for the time being, at least, Korea needs outside help, Taylor declared American assistance for the Asian nation was justified on purely humanitarian grounds as well as on the grounds of American self interest.

He said that Korea is "one of our strongest and most important allies."

The Korean army now consists of 20 trained divisions, soon to be backed by 10 reserve divisions, making a total of some 660,000 men, the general said.

San Francisco expects 40,000 for GOP convention

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Planners for the 1956 Republican National Convention got an estimate yesterday that 40,000 out-of-towners will be in San Francisco at convention time.

Ted Dalton of Radford, Va., chairman of the subcommittee on housing, gave the figure to the arrangements committee. He said many delegates would bring their families. Leonard Hall, chairman of the G.O.P. National Committee, estimated that 4000 men and women will report the convention for the press, radio and television.

The convention is to open Aug. 20, 1956, and plans are to hold it to one comparatively brief session each day for four days.

6 AIR-CONDITIONING UNITS ARE STOLEN FROM TRUCK

Six air-conditioning units valued at a total of $1200 were stolen yesterday from a truck driven by Earl Scheid, 9853 Knollshire Lane, Affton, police reported.

Scheid had parked the truck at the rear of Lazar & Sons, 2206 South Broadway, and left it with the key in the ignition for five minutes, he told police.

When he returned, the truck was gone. It was found a short time later at the rear of a building in the 2300 block of South Ninth street, and six of the nine three-quarter ton air-conditioning units which had been in it were missing.

ADmits MURDERING MOTHER AND CHILD

Man Rapes and Strangles His Brother's Wife and Baby.

JAMESTOWN, N.Y., July 13 (AP)—An unemployed taxicab driver has admitted raping and murdering his sister-in-law and her 19-month old daughter, police say.

Joseph Reade, 26 years old, is charged with first-degree murder.

He signed a statement, police said last night, admitting he strangled and beat to death Mrs. Beverly Reade, 28, and her daughter, Cheryl Lynn, early yesterday.

Francis Reade, 24, the husband and father, found the bodies in a bedroom of his four-room apartment as he returned home from work on the night shift at the Jamestown Metal Specialties, Inc.

Police said the prisoner is married and the father of one child but is separated from his wife. The authorities said he was questioned in 1951 in connection with a morals charge involving a teen-age girl but was released.

Police said Joseph Reade told this story: He visited his sister-in-law the night before and played monopoly for a while. As he was preparing to leave he looked at her "standing there in her shorts" and, "I just smacked her before I even knew myself I hit her."

He said he raped both mother and child after beating both unconscious. Then, after drinking some wine, "I decided the best thing was to finish them off."

Police arrested him at a tavern the next morning after a neighbor reported seeing him at the Reade home the night before.

COLD WAR THAW'S CONSIDERABLY, ATTLEE ASSERTS

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—Former Prime Minister Attlee told Socialists from 31 countries last night that the last few months have seen a considerable thawing of the cold war.

Speaking at the Socialist International Congress, Attlee said:

"If we can get the Communist countries to accept the idea that other peoples have the right to live their own lives without interference, there is a great hope of our moving forward to a more peaceful era."

member of the United States Socialist party, referred to President Eisenhower's projected trip to the summit conference at Geneva. He said if such a Big Four meeting had been attended by Mr. Eisenhower's predecessor, Harry S. Truman, the Republicans would have called it "a step toward treason."

"We do not expect any great things to come out of that conference," Friedmann said.

WOMAN KILLED AS GIRL, 2, STEPS ON ACCELERATOR

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 13 (AP)—A 2-year-old girl, left alone yesterday in an automobile which was parked with its motor running, stepped on the accelerator and killed a woman who was preparing to take her for a ride.

Police said Mrs. O. H. Beal, 52, a close friend of the child's parents, was knocked down and dragged 30 feet. She died two hours later.

Mrs. Beal had placed Pauline hurt.

Marie Gailey in her car and had gone into the child's home to get her a pair of socks. She was in front of the car when the accident occurred. The car was equipped with an automatic transmission, and police said it apparently had been left in gear. The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer S. Gailey, witnessed the accident. The child was not hurt.

RABBIS SEEK PERMIT TO VISIT SOVIET JEWS

American Council Asks Russian Embassy to Approve Trip by Delegation.

FALLSBURGH, N.Y., July 13 (AP)—The Rabbinical Council of America, the nation's major Orthodox Rabbinic organization, has the Soviet embassy in Washington for permission to send a delegation of rabbis to visit Jews in the Soviet Union.

The president of the council, Rabbi David B. Hollander, announced the move yesterday and said the Soviet embassy has asked for full details of the proposed trip.

Addressing the council's nineteenth annual convention, he indicated he thinks the Soviets may permit the trip.

Rabbi Hollander, spiritual leader of Mount Eden Jewish Center in the Bronx, told the 600 rabbis attending:

"We seek only to visit our co-religionists in order to re-establish our spiritual ties which will enhance and strengthen the bonds between our peoples."

"The granting of our request will have far-reaching effects, not only for Jews but for a waiting world eager to see increasing signs of trust and friendship among the peoples of the world. We firmly believe that such acts of sympathetic understanding gradually build the firm foundations upon which can be securely rested the structure of peace and unity among nations."

Rabbi Hollander also told the convening rabbis, who represent more than one million congregants through the nation:

"Our request, if granted, will foster the growing spirit of understanding between East and West which appears to be emerging on our world horizons."

He did not indicate how many rabbis the council wants to send to Russia, or when the visit might be made.

You're looking at an Armour discovery

New Franks with an "Open-fire" flavor!

even when only heated in water

You have to taste them. Then you know. The fine beef and pork is tender and smooth. The flavor is delicious—and notice this: There's a new, well, sort of sizzly juiciness to these Armour Star Franks.

Take another bite. Again notice that flavor! Doesn't it remind you of the wonderful taste of franks cooked over an open fire?

Yet this new taste is in the meat itself. You get that same outdoors, over-the-flame flavor—even if you only heat up these wonderful franks in water.

That's because they are prepared by Armour's new banked-heat process—cooked over radiant fires. And these franks are made of fine quality, fresh beef and pork, with a new, delicate seasoning blended in.

Try new Armour Star Franks. Heat them in water. Grill them. Cook them any way you want. However you prepare them—you'll want more of that new, delicious "Open-Fire" Flavor.

You know it's good!

Eisenhower Most Air-Minded President---75,000 Miles on Log

Now He Will Add 6000 More on Geneva Trip—What It's Like on a Journey With Him.

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—President Eisenhower, who will take off for Geneva Friday night in his giant aircraft, the Columbine III, piloted by Lt. Col. William Draper, his Air Force aide, is the most air-minded of America's Presidents. Mr. Eisenhower has flown about 75,000 miles since taking office. By the time he wings over the Atlantic to Europe and returns to Washington later this month he will have added another 6000 miles to his flight record.

The flight to Geneva, excluding the time required for at least one fueling stop on the way, will take about 15½ flying hours. His longest air trip was in 1952 shortly before his inauguration when he flew to Korea.

When Mr. Eisenhower boards the huge White House plane—a Super-Constellation with the presidential seal on the doors and its propellers painted red, white and blue—here is what the journey is like inside the ship.

Fastens Seat Belt.
The President goes first to his own cabin, which he will share with Mrs. Eisenhower on this trip. There he shucks his coat and hands it to a flight steward. He may slip on a sweater. Then he fastens the seat belt attached to a comfortable club chair and awaits the takeoff.

Once under way and in level flight, the President will chat with the First Lady and then may move to a small desk by his cabin window and work on official papers and correspondence brought along by his personal secretary, Mrs. Ann Whitman.

There is not much to look at on an overseas flight—moonlight or daylight—and the President spends little time gazing out of the window even over land unless there is attractive scenery below. When he tires of work, he likes to walk through the plane, stopping to say hello to everyone aboard.

When guests or non-staff travelers are on the ship, he spends a few minutes chatting with each. He also visits the flight bridge where Draper presides over a highly trained crew.

Flow of Messages.
Depending on the pressure of business, there may be a steady flow of important messages to and from the plane as it cruises along at altitudes of from 15,000 to more than 20,000 feet. The plane carries a radio teletype which can send and receive, through Army network relay systems to and from almost any point in the world.

If a Cabinet member in Washington has an urgent message for the President while Mr. Eisenhower is aloft, he calls Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President, or some other key White House official and asks that the information be relayed.

If the message is of a confidential or security nature, it is dispatched in code via radio teletype. The President may be reached by radio telephone, but these conversations cannot be shielded from other listeners on the same frequency. This precludes transmitting security information by voice.

The Columbine also carries radio wireless facilities. This type of sending and receiving equipment is not subject to atmospheric interference as much as the radio teletype and telephone. The teletype chatters away much of the time when the plane is in flight, transmitting messages for members of the traveling staff and frequently sending ahead instructions to White House representatives where the plane will land.

The teletype is tested at least once an hour to be sure it is working.

One Hot Meal on Trip.
The presidential menu depends largely on the duration of the trip. For the long haul to Geneva, Draper will contract with a commercial airline kitchen before departure to put aboard at least one hot meal for all members of the party. The President's favorite flying food is steak and potatoes. Airlines can supply this.

The plane also carries a sizeable galley, complete with a three-burner electric stove, an oven, toaster, grill, refrigerator and two water heaters for making coffee, tea and cocoa.

The galley is used primarily for preparing snacks. On most occasions the only meal prepared on board in its entirety is breakfast, which runs from orange juice to ham and eggs. Sandwiches, platters of fresh fruit and triangles of cheese are carried on most flights for between-meal snacks. Mr. Eisenhower likes to nibble on cheese while reading.

After dinner, the President may try to organize a bridge game in his cabin. When players are scarce, he turns instead to his favorite western magazines which the staff has learned to have aboard on all trips.

Likes to Retire Early.
On an overnight flight, the President likes to turn in early. He sleeps fairly well on a plane, but not as soundly or as long as he would on the ground. His cabin has two daybeds or couches which make up into beds at night.

The staff or guest section of the plane can be converted quickly into eight pullman-type berths, four uppers and four lowers. There also are four bunks forward of the galley for the crew and Secret Service agents in Mr. Eisenhower's immediate party, plus some seats which do not convert into bunks in the staff lounge section of the ship.

Following long custom, Mr. Eisenhower likes to be first off the ship when it lands, making exception for the two air police who usually speed down the ramp to take guard duty positions before Mr. Eisenhower emerges. When he takes off, he usually is the last man up the main ramp.

The ship carries a self-contained, automatic ramp forward of the wings on the port side. This is used by Secret Service men and staff members who leave the ship unobtrusively while the President is being accorded welcome honors.

The President is a confirmed air traveler at home as well as abroad. Much to the sorrow of the railroads, he almost never goes anywhere by train. The only other means of transportation used frequently by Mr. Eisenhower is the automobile. He has traveled in the neighborhood of 5000 miles by auto since his inauguration.

$26,675 POLIO FOUNDATION GRANT TO WASHINGTON U.

A study of how viruses multiply in living cells by robbing those cells of their chemical components will be made by Washington University scientists under a $26,675 research grant from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It was announced today. Dr. Barry Commoner, professor of plant physiology, will direct the project.

The research will concentrate on the mosaic virus formed on tobacco plants. If the biochemical processes which govern the formation and reproduction of this virus can be discovered, it may be possible to apply this knowledge to a study of polio virus.

Dr. Commoner and his associates have already found new protein substances in infected tobacco leaves in previous studies.

LEADER IN POLIO FIGHT HEADS HEALTH INSTITUTES

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Dr. James A. Shannon, a leader in the government's anti-polio program, was named director of the National Institutes of Health yesterday. He will succeed Assistant Surgeon General William H. Sebrell Jr., who is retiring after 30 years with the U.S. Public Health Service. The changes were announced by Surgeon General Leonard Scheele. Shannon, now associate director of the institutes, played "the key role in the government's investigation of difficulties in polio vaccine production and testing," an institute spokesman said.

21 CREWMEN MISSING AFTER FREIGHTERS COLLIDE

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, July 13 (AP)—Twenty-one crewmen of the freighter Geologist were reported missing today after it was sunk in a collision with the freighter Sun Princess, a carrier of bauxite ore for aluminum.

The collision took place early today off Trinidad. The Geologist, a British ship of 6155 tons, was operated by the Harrison Lines. It had a crew of 42.

The Sun Princess, formerly the Skaubo, suffered little damage. It is a 5221-ton craft.

TELLS DELEGATES CATHOLICS LACK FACILITIES FOR DEAF

More priests and more Catholic schools are needed for instruction of the deaf, Thomas J. Gillen, chairman of the Bureau of research of the International Catholic Deaf Association, told the group's convention last night at the Hotel Statler. Gillen pointed out that there are only nine Catholic schools for deaf-mutes in the country.

Membership in the association, formed to stimulate the religious and social life of the Catholic deaf, has increased from 49 in 1949, the year of its founding, to 1400 at the time of the present convention, Marcel A. Warner, president of the group, reported.

More than 500 delegates and visitors are attending the convention, which opened Monday and will conclude Saturday.

EAST ST. LOUISAN GETS 15 YEARS FOR ATTACK

George Ladas of East St. Louis, a former convict, was sentenced to 15 years in prison yesterday by Circuit Judge R. W. Griffith for a criminal attack on a 13-year-old East St. Louis girl in June 1954.

Ladas, 37 years old, was charged with luring the girl to his apartment in the 400 block of Collinsville avenue. Judge Griffith said he considered Ladas's age, previous record and the gravity of the crime in pronouncing sentence.

He had convicted Ladas on June 15 after Ladas waived a jury trial. After sentencing yesterday Judge Griffith denied Ladas a motion for a new trial and ordered his bail revoked and Ladas confined to St. Clair county jail pending an appeal. Ladas is a former liquor store clerk.

DIES OF BULLET IN HEAD

Dave Berger, a tavern operator, died at City Hospital last night a few hours after being found unconscious in his room at the Mark Twain Hotel with a bullet wound in his head. A revolver with an empty cartridge in it was nearby.

Berger, 72 years old, operated a tavern at 115 North Seventh Street with his brother, Phillip.

IRRITATED MAN KILLS 3 IN BAR FOR 'GIGGLING'

Fourth Victim of Truck Driver in Serious Condition—All Were Strangers to Him.

FLINT, Mich., July 13 (AP)—A drinking man, irritated by the laughing and giggling of fellow patrons, shot two couples in the head in a neighborhood tavern last night, state police reported.

Two women and a man were killed. Another man was in serious condition.

Kenneth Kuzner, 30 years old, a truck driver of Detroit, was seized in his truck a short time later near Pontiac, 25 miles from the scene. Police said he admitted the shootings but gave no explanation except the irritation other patrons caused him. They said he had been drinking but was not drunk.

"I was just out for a good time," police quoted him as saying.

Kuzner told officers the four victims were "total strangers." They were sitting together in a booth at Edna's Bar and Restaurant at suburban Grand Blanc when Kuzner walked in. Police said Kuzner sat at the bar drinking a beer. When he finished, they said, he went to a rest room, came out, strode up to the two couples' booth, spoke not a word and began firing point blank.

Shot Four in Bar

booth, spoke not a word and began firing point blank.

Said Farah, 26, of Flint, and his wife, Jeannine, were killed almost instantly. Farah belonged to a prominent Flint family that operates a grocery chain.

Mrs. Margaret S. Cross, 37, a divorcee, died two hours later in a Flint hospital. James Dolars, 26, who was with Mrs. Cross, was reported in serious condition. He is a Flint Junior College student.

Kuzner was seized at a road blockade on U.S. 10, north of Pontiac, after witnesses gave police a description of the assailant's truck.

He said he was returning to Detroit from Marquette, Mich., and had made several stops at bars en route. He delivers house trailers from a factory to dealers with his small truck.

MAN GETTING TIRE CHANGED IS HELD UP

Barbecue Stand and Liquor Store Also Are Robbed.

Robert Bornstein, 739 North McKnight road, University City, was robbed of $300 early today as he was having a tire changed in a filling station at 305 North Vandeventer avenue, he told police.

The robber, a Negro, also took $1 from the attendant, Robert Skelton, and walked to a nearby parking lot where two women, also Negroes, were waiting for him in an automobile. Then they drove west on McPherson avenue.

About 15 minutes earlier, three men took $22 from L. D. Thompson, proprietor of a barbecue stand at 3918 Delmar boulevard, after one of them displayed a revolver. The holdup men, Negroes, also took a large watermelon and ran south through a vacant lot. The description of one of them fitted that of the man who robbed Bornstein, police reported.

A liquor store at 1531 Franklin avenue was robbed of $50 and seven bottles of liquor valued at $17 by three men who held up the clerk, James Lloyd, at 1:40 a.m. He reported the holdup men were Negroes. One of them became nervous as Lloyd was taking money from the cash register. "You are too slow," the robber said, and then helped him put the money in a paper bag.

Riley Evans, operator of a Hodiament streetcar, stopped to let a Negro passenger off at Catalpa street, and the man placed a knife at his neck and took the money changer, which contained about $30.

Herbert Berger, 923A Catalpa street, told police he had just got out of a taxicab at Catalpa and Cabanne place at 2:30 a.m. when three men accosted him, knocked him down and took his billfold and about $50.

AUSTRIA AND RUSSIA SIGN REPARATIONS AGREEMENT

VIENNA, July 13 (AP)—Austria and the Soviet Union signed a reparations agreement in Moscow yesterday. The pact calls on Austria to deliver to Russia $150,000,000 worth of goods within the next six years.

A joint communique also announced the signing of another agreement under which Austria will deliver to the Soviet Union 10,000,000 tons of oil over a 10-year period.

Both agreements were called for in the recently signed Austrian state treaty making that nation once again independent. The oil shipments will be in return for Austrian oil fields and refineries released from Soviet control under the treaty.

EX-MILLIONAIRE FACES CHARGE OF $3,164,458 FRAUD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 13

(AP)—A former multi-millionaire commodities speculator was charged yesterday with obtaining $3,164,458 by false pretenses.

London V. Butler, 42 years old, surrendered to the sheriff's office and was released under $10,000 bond, Chief Deputy Hugh Bertschi said.

Butler, who took a spectacular financial tumble last March, is accused of selling 1,300,000 bushels of soybeans that do not exist.

The criminal charge was returned by the Shelby county grand jury, based on a chancery court civil suit filed against Butler by the Continental Grain Co. of Chicago. The suit is pending.

Butler, who denied issuing fraudulent warehouse receipts as charged by Continental, went into bankruptcy soon after the suit was filed. He was ousted from the Chicago Board of Trade and other market boards.

3 MONTHS IN BRIG
FOR BARING ROYAL
NAVY'S SECRETS

PORTSMOUTH, England, July 13 (AP)—A Royal Navy court-martial today convicted a seaman in Britain's submarine service of revealing secret information. He was sentenced to three months in the brig.

Ordering the room cleared of spectators for the court-martial, a senior naval officer said "certain evidence has a security classification." There has been no indication whether a foreign government is involved.

The defendant is Able Seaman Michael Ronald Andrews. He is charged with "failure to heed a warning that he should not reveal certain information which had come to him in the performance of his duties."

RED VIET NAM CHIEF BEGINS TALKS WITH SOVIET LEADERS

MOSCOW, July 13 (AP)—Ho Chi Minh, leader of Communist North Viet Nam, began consultations with Soviet leaders today, apparently on both economic and political matters.

He expressed confidence in a speech on arrival in Moscow yesterday that his regime would receive help from the Soviet Union. During his visit to Peiping, en route to Moscow, he received a pledge of 800,000,000 Chinese yuan to develop his country's economy.

The Soviet press today attacked the United States and France for alleged violations of the Indochina truce agreement. Editorials said Ho's visit here "will further strengthen the friendship between the Soviet Union and the democratic republic of Viet Nam."

CONVICTED OF 3 CHARGES, MOTORIST IS FINED $105

James W. Heafner, 2728A North Prairie avenue, was found guilty today by Provisional Police Judge John S. Gollub of driving when intoxicated and was fined $75. In addition, he was fined $25 for resisting arrest and $5 for a stop sign violation, a total of $105.

Petrolman Joseph Becker testified that on June 9 he saw Heafner violate a stop sign at Twentieth street and St. Louis avenue. The officer said Heafner was under the influence of intoxicants and that a scuffle started after the arrest. Heafner denied the charges.

WOMAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

The body of Mrs. Edward P. Leonard was found early today in the living room of her home, 3825A Potomac street, with a bullet wound in the right side of her head, police reported. She was 49 years old.

Her husband, a retired policeman, told police he was awakened by a sharp noise, noticed his wife was not in bed and, searching, found her in the living room. He said his 38 caliber service revolver was beside the body. Mrs. Leonard had been in a highly nervous condition, her husband reported.

ENOUGH CROCKETT FOR ALL. CLOTHIER AND DISNEY AGREE

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP)—Walt Disney Enterprises and Morey Schwartz, Baltimore clothier, agreed today to withdraw court suits and share each other's rights to the name, Davy Crockett, on merchandise.

In a reciprocal agreement, the Schwartz firm, Davy Crockett Enterprises, Inc., has secured for its licensee—the various manufacturers who produce T-shirts, coonskin caps, pistol holsters and other products—all the rights currently enjoyed by the Disney licensees.

According to Marshall A. Levin, attorney for Schwartz, these privileges will include the right to use the Walt Disney name, the name and picture of Fess Parker who portrays the Tennessee frontiersman on television and in the movies, and the facilities of Walt Disney's art department.

Disney licensees, in turn, will be able to use the name without fear of court action by the Schwartz firm.

Schwartz first registered the trade mark in 1947, but not until this year, when Davy Crockett became a household word did he realize what a prize he had.

BRENTWOOD APPROVES PARK TAX, 227 TO 134

Brentwood voters yesterday approved a new park tax of 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Mayor Ray Parker announced. The tax, which needed a simple majority, passed 227 to 134 at a special election.

Calculated on the basis of previous assessments, the tax would raise $28,000 annually, the mayor said. Proceeds from the tax will be used to improve facilities at the city's park at Brentwood road and Russell avenue, to purchase new sites and to establish a park department. The department will also be in charge of tree-trimming. Previously, park expenses have been financed from general revenue funds.

1,000,000 MORE POLIO SHOTS DUE FOR SHIPMENT

First Lots Expected to Go to Missouri, Three Other States for Second Inoculations.

NEW YORK, July 13 (UPI)—Shipment of nearly 1,000,000 shots of Salk polio vaccine will begin today to states where second-round inoculations are under way or scheduled, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said today.

First shipments were expected to go to Texas, Oklahoma, West Virginia and Missouri.

The vaccine involved is about 224,000 cubic centimeters of Wyeth Laboratories vaccine released by the Public Health Service last week and 720,000 C.C.'s of Eli Lilly vaccine released yesterday. A cubic centimeter is enough for one dose.

Dr. Foard McGinnis, in charge of the allocation program for the foundation, said shipment had been delayed somewhat so the foundation could pattern itself that all shipments would be used immediately.

McGinnis said that although each state's total requirements for the first and second-grade programs are known it is also known that many of the children included in the program are unavailable for second shots now that schools have closed.

The foundation has therefore checked by telephone with health officers in all states on the south-to-north priority pattern for their present requirements.

Brooklyn Boy Who Got a Shot June 2 Dies of Polio

NEW YORK, July 13 (UP)—A six-year-old Brooklyn boy who had received one shot of the Salk polio vaccine on June 2 died yesterday of bulbo spinal polio, the Department of Health reported today. He was one of six polio cases reported in the city among the 187,000 children who received vaccinations. No other vaccinated children have died of the disease in New York City.

GRAND JURY RESUMES POLICE PAYOFF INQUIRY

The circuit court grand jury resumed its investigation of police payoff reports today after considering other matters for two weeks. Assistant Circuit Attorney Henry J. Fredericks said about six witnesses were to be heard.

The investigation started June 2, when Miss Pauline Cloin, a former employee of a brothel operated by the late Mrs. June Alma Lytz at 308A North Theresa avenue, asserted that Mrs. Lytz made regular payments to about 12 policemen so they would not arrest her.

Baffled Pravda Writer Becomes A Kind Critic at Connecticut Show

Russian the Hub of Attraction During So-So Shakespearean Play—Calls It 'Very Good.'

By WILLIAM GLOVER.

STRATFORD, Conn., July 13 (AP)—With pomp and spangles, show business dedicated a new shrine, last night to playwright William Shakespeare, but the main center of excitement was a somewhat baffled, bothered journalist named Eugene Litoshko.

Litoshko, a correspondent of Moscow's newspaper Pravda, got a special okay from the State Department to travel here from New York after the Bridgeport Sunday Herald suggested the visit as a symbol of cultural exchange between this country and Russia.

The slim, graying, 40-year-old writer, doggedly smiling at suddenly being "a celebrity," opined that the opening play, "Julius Caesar," was "good, very good."

Then he hastily added: "But no more festivals—not this year anyhow."

"For many of the 1500 spectators the visitor's verdict was generously kind. For truth to tell, this gala debut of the American Shakespeare festival and academy in a lush air-conditioned theater had everything but a continuously entertaining, stand-out production on stage."

Massey Tumbles.

Such things as a tumble to the stage by star Raymond Massey from a suddenly collapsing chair, and certain lacks of timing could be charged off to opening night jitters. The gathering out front was impressive. Including most of the great names of the theater and such guests as British Ambassador Sir Roger Makins and Lord Mayor Dudley Ernest Woodman Stratford-on-Avon.

"Julius Caesar," a drama of character, was mostly a series of diverse impressions by the players. Massey, as Brutus, Jack Palance as Cassius and Ilurd Hatfield as Caesar gave old-fashioned portrayals amid the renaissance setting devised for this production.

The show was witnessed by visitor Litoshko and his wife from an upper box—next to Bishop Walter Grey, leader of the Episcopalian church in Connecticut.

Between the acts the Russian journalist kept up the hurried pace set for him from the moment he arrived in Stratford in mid-afternoon. Questions, questions and pictures.

Welcomed by Crowd.

On his arrival at the huge theater, a modernized replica of London's ancient Globe theater, several townsfolk stepped out of the crowd to shake his hand.

"Thank you very much," said Litoshko with a little bow. Amid the flurry, the Russian on assignment in this country when the Big Four session convenes.

When the big night out was over, Litoshko sat back on the train to New York, lit a cigarette, said he would write his story for Pravda about Stratford in a day or so. "Tomorrow I must rest," he observed with a sigh.

Announcing the New Full-Size James Portable Disposer*

69⁵⁰ NO DOWN PAYMENT
Pay 5.00 Monthly

Now you can stop wishing for a disposer and start enjoying one, with James' low price and elimination of costly installation charges. Why ever handle messy, drippy, smelly garbage again? Look at all the benefits you get with the James Portable-Disposer!

Absolutely Safe—and child-proof! Stops automatically if cover is opened. Water can't get in to motor or electric parts. Will run if actually submerged in water! If motor should become overloaded it shuts off automatically.

Completely Portable—Take it with you when you move. Easy to Operate. Load with garbage, set in sink, close cover and turn on faucet. Full powered. James has the same one-quarter horsepower that is in many installed disposers.

No Installation costs or special wiring. Just plug in standard light socket. It's Attractive. It's light, easy to handle. Takes up less than a square foot of space. Accumulates over 1½ qts. of waste— just dispose of it all at one time!

(A) Just tap plate on rubber-cushioned top edge. Peel fruit, vegetables right into disposer's wide opening.

(B) Light as a portable radio. Just close lid, set James in sink. Operates anywhere with or without running water. (Can use pitcher.)

(C) Shockproof . . . the James automatically grounds itself when you plug it in. Can't run with lid open.

NAVY REPORTED STILL INSISTING PERON MUST GO

Army Said to Favor Eliminating Him, but Gradually, Chilean Sources Hear.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 13 (UP)—The rebellious Argentine navy still is insisting on the removal of President Peron and is demanding that he be placed aboard ship and sent out of Argentina, reports here from Buenos Aires said today.

The reports were unofficial but came from persons in close touch with the situation in Argentina as it has developed since the short-lived June 16 uprising.

These reports said the army also favors eliminating the Peron influence but that it wishes to do so gradually. The army is said to believe that such a policy will prevent confusion and tension which might result were Peron removed now.

Court-Martial Disclosure. It was learned here that evidence came out at a navy court-martial directly linking former Minister of Interior and Justice Angel Gabriel Borlenghi with the Argentine flag-burning incident which later was used as an excuse to desecrate Roman Catholic churches in Buenos Aires.

Catholic demonstrators had been accused of tearing down the flag and burning it. Evidence was presented at the court-martial of R. Adm. Anibal Olivieri, former navy minister accused of leading the revolt, that the flag burning was ordered personally by Borlenghi. Three men responsible for burning the flag testified that they acted on Borlenghi's orders.

Their testimony was said to explain Borlenghi's sudden departure from Argentina and why he failed to get the expected post of ambassador extraordinary to the United States and Europe, entrusted with the task of persuading foreign capital to come to Argentina.

Denial by Borlenghi. (In New York, where he arrived from Montevideo yesterday, Borlenghi denied any connection with the flag burning incident.)

Today's reports of differences between the Army and Navy over Peron's future, paralleled similar reports in Buenos Aires immediately after the revolution. Reports persist that rebel-held naval bases at Puerto Belgrano on the Atlantic and Esenada on the River Plate still are holding out. The government supposedly is trying to dry up their supplies, but the rebels are said to have taken gasoline from the tanker Juan D. Peron and to have obtained food from passenger vessels.

It is customary for the new minister of the navy to visit Puerto Belgrano immediately upon taking office, but Navy Minister R. Adm. Luis Cornes still has not visited the base nearly a month after his appointment.

BUENOS AIRES, July 13 (AP)—A second group of Roman Catholic pilgrims from the United States traveling to the Eucharistic Congress in Brazil landed in Buenos Aires today for a three-day visit.

One of their three leaders, Bishop Thomas K. Gorman of Dallas, Tex., said he knew of no plans for this group to celebrate mass in Buenos Aires's Metropolitan cathedral. Other prelates in this party are Bishop Robert J. Dwyer of Reno, Nev., and Bishop Leo C. Byrne of St. Louis.

Several thousand Argentine Catholics gathered at the cathedral yesterday for a mass which was to have been celebrated by Archbishop Joseph F. Rummel of New Orleans, La. The service Rummel disembarked at Montevideo, Uruguay, and will rejoin the pilgrims only when their ship sails for Rio de Janeiro.

PAINT DISTRIBUTORS GROUP DENIES UNFAIR PRACTICES

Charges that the Retail Paint and Wallpaper Distributors of America, Inc., with headquarters here, and five affiliated associations have fostered unfair trade practices were denied today by Irwin E. Douglas, executive vice president of the distributors' group.

He said the charges, in a complaint filed by the Federal Trade Commission, were "based upon a misunderstanding of the activities of the association." Douglas said he was confident that a trade commission hearing on the complaint will show that his organization "has served the interests of the dealer, the manufacturer and the general public."

The complaint said the national organization and six trade associations in the metropolitan New York area, including five affiliated with the national group, had attempted to restrict sales by manufacturers to dealers recognized by the trade associations.

SENATE GROUP TO INQUIRE INTO AIR ROUTE AGREEMENTS

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Senate Commerce Committee today ordered a full-scale inquiry into the negotiation and signing of international air route agreements by this country.

Senator Smathers (Dem.), Florida, named chairman of a subcommittee to conduct the inquiry, said special emphasis will be given to the recently signed agreement with the West German republic for its Lufthansa air line.

Smathers said the appointment of the subcommittee "is an indication that Congress does not intend to sit idly by and watch the American air line industry seriously imperiled by precipitous and unwarranted striped pants diplomacy."

HOUSE COMMITTEE ABANDONS EISENHOWER'S ATOMIC SHIP

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—The House Merchant Marine Committee today abandoned efforts to salvage President Eisenhower's scuttled atomic "peace ship." It decided instead to press for construction of a commercially-feasible atom-powered merchant vessel.

The President, meanwhile, urged Republican legislative leaders not to abandon the atomic peace ship lest Russia launch one first. House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. said after the weekly White House conference that "there is a fear that unless we act promptly the Russians might beat us to the punch."

The Merchant Marine Committee unanimously approved a bill to authorize the prototype nuclear merchant ship for which a reactor would be specially designed. It previously had approved a bill authorizing both this vessel and the peace ship.

'GRAY ZONE' ADVERTISING CRITICIZED BY ST. LOUISAN

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 13 — The greatest problem faced by better business bureaus today is in the so-called "gray zone" advertising, Harry W. Riehl, president and general manager of the St. Louis Better Business Bureau, said here yesterday.

"Flamboyancy and unsupported superlatives, for illustration, in the automobile field today, is the worst I have ever seen in all of the years I have been with the Better Business Bureau," he said. Riehl spoke at a meeting of the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association.

Riehl said the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the St. Louis Globe-Democrat "have measured up to their full responsibility" in the field of advertising censorship. He cited Fred F. Rowden, advertising manager of the Post-Dispatch, and Wilson W.

Condit, advertising director of the Globe-Democrat, for their services on behalf of consumers and advertisers.

3 SENATORS URGE FOREIGN AID CUTS BE RESTORED

Republicans Assail Reduction by House on Eve of Summit Conference at Geneva.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Three Senate Republicans today criticized a $628,000,000 cut by the House in President Eisenhower's foreign aid program and urged at least partial restoration by the Senate.

The Senate G.O.P. policy committee arranged to discuss the $2,638,741,750 money bill behind closed doors this morning and amid indications it would informally suggest an increase.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep., New Jersey), said the House action "is almost a vote of lack of confidence in President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles just as they are setting out for one of the most important diplomatic conferences in 10 years"—the summit talks at Geneva.

Senator Dirksen (Rep., Illinois), said "the House nixed this bill too much" and said he would seek some restoration by the Senate Appropriations Committee, on which he serves. He spoke in a separate interview.

Blames Democrats. Senator Butler (Rep., Maryland), blamed the "Democratic leadership" in the House for having "seriously impaired the President's position at the Geneva conference by recklessly reducing the foreign aid program." He added in a statement he hopes "this grievous error can be corrected."

Actually, neither Democratic nor Republican leaders in the House made any floor fight against the cuts recommended by the Appropriations Committee there. No moves were made to increase the amount despite an appeal from Harold E. Stassen, foreign aid director until July 1.

Stassen and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, arranged to give closed-door testimony on the bill today to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Among witnesses yesterday was Dulles, who appealed for Senate restoration of the slashed funds. He singled out for special criticism a 50 per cent cut in Mr. Eisenhower's special $200,000,000 fund for Asian economic development.

It would be "very unfortunate," he said, if the Senate fails to appropriate the full amount asked.

Military Cut's Effect. Senator Hayden (Dem., Arizona), committee chairman, told reporters Dulles also said he has been informed by defense officials that a $420,000,000 cut in direct military aid funds "would do considerable harm to our foreign policy objectives."

Senator Smith expressed particular concern over the $100,000,000 cut in the Asian development fund. That money, he said, is earmarked for the vast "touch-and-go" area of Asia where international Communism is making its most strenuous effort to woo nations and peoples. "I would like to see Congress vote even more funds on a discretionary basis than Eisenhower asked," Smith said. "I feel that this appropriation at this particular time can well be looked upon as a direct vote of confidence in the President and Mr. Dulles."

AIR COMBAT TEAM COMPLETES SHIFT OF 3817 TO JAPAN

ASHIYA, Japan, July 13 (AP)—The 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team completed its history-making aerial transfer of 3817 paratroopers to Japan today.

The Forty-third and last C-124 transport in the Eighteenth Air Force aerial chain from Fort Campbell landed at 6:01 a.m., two hours ahead of schedule.

Capt. Francis Burnett, Melrose, Mass., was the pilot. From Ashiya the troops are being delivered by train to three camps less than 100 miles apart on Kiyushu Island.

Col. Ennis L. Johnson of Jamestown, S.D., moved his command post for the Sixty-third Troop Carrier Wing operation from Ashiya to Itazuke, from which 3100 troops of the 187th are being flown to Fort Bragg, N.C.

That phase of operation Cyroscop began yesterday and some 13 C-124s have departed for the states.

BURGLAR BREAKS INTO SAME APARTMENT ONCE TOO OFTEN

WORCESTER, Mass., July 13 (AP)—Richard P. Cincotta was arrested early today for breaking into the same apartment with monotonous regularity.

Police said he admitted entering an unlocked apartment on July 6 and taking a watch valued at $50. He said he sold it for 50 cents to get eating money. He returned the next day, he was quoted as saying, and stole a pair of dungarees, leaving his old pants behind.

He re-entered the same apartment yesterday and said he stole a $75 camera. He said he sold it for $5 but received only $1.50 as a down payment. Cincotta was quoted as saying he needed the money to pay for a meal. He was arrested in a restaurant.

Heat's On. WATERBURY, Conn. (UP)—Workmen got an assist while moving two homes to make way for a highway, but they didn't appreciate it. They discovered the furnaces in the homes had been stolen.

96 JAPANESE CRAB FISHERMEN SEIZED BY RUSSIANS FREED

TOKYO, July 13 (AP)—Fourteen Japanese fishing boats, with 96 crew members, returned unexpectedly to Nemuro late last night from Soviet custody.

The vessels were captured by Soviet patrol boats during the last six months and interned on Shikotsu Island of the Kurile chain, now under Soviet occupation.

The Nemuro maritime safety board officials said this leaves 15 crab fishing boats and three mackerel catchers still in Soviet custody.

However, the returning fishermen said the crews of only three mackerel boats, 20 in all, were still imprisoned on Shikotsu Island.

The crews of the other 15 vessels had been moved to nearby Kunishiro Island in April and May.

SWORD WIELDING QUEEN ELIZABETH DUBS 60 KNIGHTS

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, in an 80-minute ceremony at Buckingham Palace yesterday, knighted 60 of her subjects and pinned decorations on 140 others, including young Roger Bannister, Britain's four-minute mile man.

More than 10,000 persons thronged a palace ballroom, and the temperature was around 90. Six king-size chandeliers and 22 smaller ones, added to the heat.

So did a piano player from the Grenadier Guards, who furnished background music—and occasionally got close to Dixieland jazz.

The Queen wore a beige silk dress with elbow-length sleeves, high heeled white shoes, three strands of shiny pearls, and a narrow gold belt.

The band played "Anchors Aweigh" and then the piano, backed up by a string bass player, went into "Honey-suckle Rose."

The Queen, wielding a sword almost as long as she was tall, touched each kneeling candidate for knighthood on his right shoulder and then quickly on his left.

Bannister was designated a commander in the Order of the British Empire.

Signs Alaskan Delegate Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—President Eisenhower yesterday signed a bill allowing members of the Alaska Legislature to serve as delegates to a constitutional convention to be held in the territory next November.

HARVEY MATUSOW INDICTED ON CHARGES OF PERJURY

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted turnabout witness Harvey Matusow on six counts of perjury.

The charges grew out of Matusow's accusations that Roy M. Cohn, former assistant United States attorney here, had induced Matusow to give false testimony at the 1952 conspiracy trial of 13 second-string Communist leaders.

Cohn also formerly was counsel to the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee once headed by Senator McCarthy (Rep., Wisconsin).

Nations Outside Geneva Meeting Believe Soviet Wants Settlement But Is Not Motivated by Weakness

Top Men of Neutral Countries Analyze Moscow's New Attitude — Warn U.S. Against Misconceptions—Quick About-face Regarded as Possible.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1955, The Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

GENEVA, July 13.

AS THE HEADS OF STATE of the two great centers of power, East and West, prepare to confront each other here in neutral Geneva it is important to realize how this meeting looks from the middle ground.

In Yugoslavia this reporter talked with the top men around Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz as well as with diplomats of a half dozen nations committed to neither Moscow nor Washington. What follows is a composite of their hopes and fears. And in particular it reflects the intimate and longtime knowledge of Yugoslav Communists who have dealt over the years with Communist Russia both as ally and as enemy.

"We believe that Russia genuinely wants a settlement which would mean gradual relaxing of tensions. There are many reasons why this should be true.

"First they are really afraid that America has aggressive intentions. They are also fearful that a rearmament Germany will have aggressive designs in ever closer alliance with the United States.

"A second factor is the growing realization among high ranking Soviet military men of the total destructiveness of atomic and hydrogen warfare. They have come to this late because they have so long been predominantly concerned with land warfare. The consequences of nuclear warfare and the necessity to prevent it is believed to have been the main subject of the correspondence between Eisenhower and Marshal Zhukov.

"Third factor is the economic difficulty, especially in agriculture. There is no doubt this is serious and widespread.

Not Weakness, But Choice.

"But you Americans must not believe that Russia has been compelled to come to Geneva out of weakness. It would be tragic miscalculation to assume, as your Secretary of State seems to assume, that a collapse of the Soviet system is in sight and that therefore you need not make any move toward a real settlement.

"The present Soviet policy has been made as the result of deliberate choice. Even more important to understand is that if this policy fails at Geneva or in the aftermath of Geneva then the Kremlin masters—or another set of bosses—will throw the gear in reverse and return to the old policy of cold war with the looming threat on the horizon of a final desperate resort to hot war.

"You must understand that while Lavrenty Beria, one of the principal advocates of the old Stalinist line have been re-

DRUMMOND

Big Four Parley a Tribute To Churchill's Vision, Vigor

Senior Statesman Still Confident It Will 'Smooth Causeway' to Better Peace — His Advice to West.

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

LONDON.

IF THE SUMMIT conference is even a limited success, it will add to the historic stature of the man who wasn't there. Winston Churchill, who was the earliest advocate and the real father of this Big Four meeting, is today as confident as when he first projected the idea five years ago that it will be productive—that it may well "smooth the causeway" to better peace.

Time and politics have conspired to prevent Churchill from sharing in the Geneva spotlight, but nothing can keep him from sharing in the credit which will be largely his if the discussions with Moscow bring results.

The fact that the President of the United States and the prime ministers of Britain, France and the Soviet Union are next week gathering around a conference table for the first time in a decade is due more to the vision and vigor of this one man than to anything else.

Senior Statesman. Two months ago this man stood for election and won his seat. He is now technically the one of 630 members of the House of Commons. But he is far more than that; he is something very near to a British prime minister emeritus. He is in truth a senior statesman to the free world.

The ideas and phrases with which Churchill clothed his goal are today the ideas and phrases which other statesmen are using to describe what will take place next week. It is profitable to look at some of the things he has said about this Big Four meeting, at which his chair will be occupied by his successor.

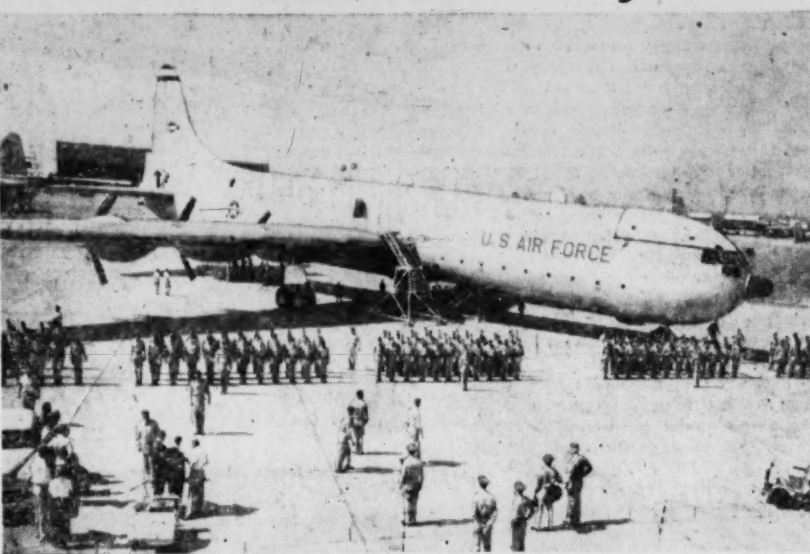

These statements, it can be said with knowledge, reflect his thinking today and therefore tell us much of what would be in his mind if he were taking off for Geneva in the next few days. Churchill holds:

"That the West can negotiate successfully with the Soviet Union only from a basis of strength. He says: 'Weakness makes no appeal to Moscow. That the West must take no step which would drive or invite Germany to turn to Moscow. He says: 'I should regard it as an act of insanity to drive the German people into the hands of the Kremlin.'

Retain NATO Spirit. That while headway toward disarmament may be slowly possible, the Western allies must

212 Air Cadets Travel in Huge Plane

Air Force cadets from 28 colleges—212 of them—flew to Fort Worth, Tex., yesterday from San Antonio in the world's largest operational aircraft, the XC-99. They returned the same way after touring the Convair Aircraft Co. plant. The group was believed to have been the largest ever carried by a land-based plane.

Russian Text: Question of Germany 'Linked With Insuring Security of Europe as Whole'

LONDON, July 13 (AP). Following is the text of an official Soviet statement on the German question, released through Tass news agency and broadcast by the Moscow radio:

In connection with the forthcoming conference in Geneva of the heads of the Soviet Union, the U.S.A., Britain and France, some of the American and British leaders have recently made statements on the German question. Moreover, this matter is being represented in such a way as if the Soviet Union lost interest in the unification of Germany, and that allegedly, the Soviet Union sees a threat to its security in the unification of Germany.

Such statements do not reflect the true state of affairs so far as it refers to the Soviet Union's position on the German question. Everyone knows that the Soviet Union has invariably given first place to the question of Germany's reunification. Against this there were put forward plans which relegated the question of Germany's unity to second place, and which brought to the forefront the creation of a West German army and the inclusion of West Germany into the military bloc of the Western powers.

Meaning of Agreements. What is the meaning of the fact that the so-called Paris agreements which envisage the restoration of militarism in Western Germany and her entry into the Western European Union and NATO were ratified recently? Is it not clear that by this the members to these agreements have sacrificed the unity of Germany to the plans for the renaissance of German militarism? This shows that the carrying out of these plans hampers the unification of Germany.

It depends now on the participants of the Paris treaties whether the German nation will be reunited into a single state, and wide possibilities will open up before the German people for displaying its creative forces in the peaceful development of its economy, its rich material and spiritual culture.

It is alleged that for the establishment of German unity in present conditions it is enough to come to an agreement on the methods of holding all-German elections. In this connection the so-called Eden plan which was put forward at the Berlin meeting of the four foreign ministers in January 1954 is being mentioned. Questions connected with the order of holding all-German free elections, are of course of certain importance.

Main Problem in Unification. In view of the new situation which arose in Germany in connection with the coming into force of the Paris agreements, the question whether West Germany is turned into a militarist state included in a military group, or whether measures are taken to prevent such development in West Germany, is of decisive importance. This main problem of the unification of Germany and of safeguarding European security must not be replaced by the subordinate problem of the way in which elections are held.

The Soviet Union was, and remains, a supporter of the re-establishment of German unity. The Soviet Union also stands for due consideration of the lawful interests and rights of the German people and for safeguarding the consolidation of peace in Europe.

There are people who allege that the reunification of Germany is made difficult by the fact that the U.S.S.R. fears a united Germany. In this connection it is right to recall that the U.S.S.R. and its heroic people defended with their honor their freedom and independence in the struggle against Hitler's Germany, which had at its service the industrial and military resources of nearly the whole of Europe.

Reviving Militarism Opposed. It will certainly be able to defend itself now, when its efforts directed toward safeguarding peace and security of peoples are linked with efforts of many other peace-loving states of Europe and Asia and find increasing support on the part of the peoples of the whole world. The U.S.S.R. opposes the policy of reviving German militarism and involving West Germany, or a reunited Germany, in any military groups—not because it fears a militarist united Germany, but because such a policy leads to

Bill to Drop Gas Controls In Trouble

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON.

BETWEEN straddling at the White House and the serious illness of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, an issue that at first apparently had easy sailing is in trouble. It is the bill to exempt independent gas producers from federal controls.

Nobody in a position of leadership wants to take sole responsibility for this consumer versus producer legislation. Yet Speaker Rayburn has been left alone on that burning deck. He has some helpers in the lesser ranks of the House, but their efforts to make the measure more palatable have done it as much harm as good.

The gas bill as such has had a long history. With gas wells, as with the offshore oil deposits, the Supreme Court has insisted upon Federal jurisdiction. Thus only an act of Congress can free the gas producers from Federal curbs. The first effort to secure it was the Moore-Rizley bill of 1947. Then came Senator Kerr's gas bill in 1948, the work of the Oklahoma Democrat who had just arrived in Washington.

Modified Version. The present version which has passed the House Commerce Committee and is waiting for the green light from Rules, is much modified. When the session opened it seemed to have everything in its favor. The oil and gas interests had warmly supported President Eisenhower and he had pushed the Tide-lands bill. A generally hostile Democratic view was countered by the fact that the leaders of both Senate and House are from the oil and gas state of Texas. As the Speaker has admitted with a wry smile, it isn't hard to see why he takes some positions not in the Democratic platform.

But the more the Eisenhower strategists looked at the bill which would mean higher prices to consumers in the great cities of pivotal states, the less inclined they were to stick their necks out. Democratic charges of "giveaway" had already

Soviet Progress Radically Cuts U.S. Air Force Striking Power

New MIGs Make B-36 Almost Obsolete—'Bison' Bomber May Terrify America's Allies Into Denying U.S. Bases.

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

THE AMERICAN AIR FORCE takes about twice as long as the Soviet Union to go from the idea of an aircraft to production of the aircraft judging by the comparative performance in producing the B-52 and "Bison" bombers.

Moreover, current production of the Soviet "Bison" is considerably larger than current production of the American B-52. And the Soviets will still be turning out a few more intercontinental jet bombers each month than we turn out in America, even after the recently ordered increase of B-52 production finally gets results.

This may properly be called scandalous, although Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson has tried to make light of these and other facts that indicate America is losing its lead in the air to the Soviets. The existing power of the Strategic Air Command, he has said in effect, gives this country a lead in the air that can never be overcome. Meanwhile, Soviet air progress has radically affected the power of SAC.

Long-Range Bombers. Consider, first, the status of SAC's long range groups, which are presently equipped with 350 B-36s. The B-36 and the B-52 are the only American bombers able to make the trip from American bases to Soviet targets and home again. Eventually, SAC's long range groups are to be wholly equipped with B-52s, but for at least two more years, the lumbering B-36 will continue to be SAC's intercontinental work horse.

Unfortunately, this slow, heavy, piston-engined bomber was already classed as obsolescent against a Soviet air defense equipped with MIG 15s and MIG 17s. In addition, the Moscow over-flights have now shown that the Soviets are producing the even speedier "Farmer" day fighter and a remarkably fast and impressive twinjet night fighter. Against these new aircraft the chances of the B-36 have to be marked down almost to zero. The B-36 is now passing from the "obsolescent" into the "obsolete" category.

B-47s Devalued. That is had enough, but the more honest planners further admit that the Moscow over-flights have indirectly devalued the 1500 B-47s that make up the balance of SAC's offensive power.

Twice Refueled. In these circumstances, all SAC's B-47s will have to be air refueled on the way home.

The tanker fleet that SAC has for this purpose is largely composed of about 600 KC-97s, a slow, piston-engined aircraft with poor altitude characteristics. The high-flying B-47 must sacrifice half its cruising altitude and slow down almost to stalling speed in order to get gas from a KC-97 tanker. If the tankers maintain the rate of one air-refueling mission a day, they will be doing unusually well.

Consider the situation when all B-47s flying to Soviet targets have to be twice refueled. With approximately 600 KC-97s

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Our Struggle for Peace

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: Congratulations, you have the thanks and deep appreciation of all thinking people for the "Struggle for Peace" and the selection of those contributing their thoughts and hopes.

The outstanding article was written by Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. He plainly starts with our faults:

1. We have lost most leadership and must try to regain it.
2. Our state of doubt and irresolution.
3. In the field of air power, we are far behind the need.

4. Moral leadership for the Department of State requires simple honesty. Mr. Dulles has cut so many corners, uttered so many contradictions, so many false impressions with consistent self-righteousness and hypocrisy, as to have ended his usefulness in official position.

Mr. Schlesinger gives us many more points of our wrong actions and thinking and I will add one more:

The President and Secretary of State have played politics in the conduct of our foreign affairs; by trying to appease the reactionary wing of the Republican party, and by the President refusing to assume the responsibility of the Executive branch of the Government. The President makes a statement, the Secretary of State one that contradicts the President. Haggerty has to make an explanation, Vice President Nixon makes still another, Senator Knowland another, so it is little wonder we have lost not only the leadership of the world, but the respect and confidence of all the world.

That is one reason the articles on "The Struggle for Peace" were so helpful.

Garden Hose Rises Sharply

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: That California garden hose that crawled into the ground was the opposite of my neighbor's experience. My neighbor bought 100 feet (not feet) of Garden Hose, Inc., and on his way home it reached the top of his car.

That night it crawled up the side of his garage, merged with Fabricated Garages, Inc., went on up his TV aerial and took over Station SNO-TV. Last he saw of it was when it reached for Lockheed Aircraft, Inc. Our neighborhood is full of rumors as to where it is going, whether it will split 100 for 1 in the stratosphere.

Some advise him to stick to his job and encourage the Bird Watchers' Society to look after it. What do you suggest, Mr. Editor?

BYSTANDER.

Answering Judge Williams

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: Referring to Judge Williams's diatribe against the use of the Bible as a subject of the quiz in the $64,000 radio and TV contest: How is the Bible desecrated by the use of it in this contest? Knowledge of the Bible is surely to be encouraged.

MARY E. EDWARDS.

What should we do, go back to the days of the Puritans? It would certainly be a dull life. Here's to more and faster "Native Dancers."

M. J. DOSTAL.

This is in answer to Judge Williams's letter on the $64,000 Jackpot program on television. I am for such programs 100 per cent. I can't see how they can be called a lottery, and speaking of lotteries I think it would be a good idea if Uncle Sam would run a national lottery once a year.

MILDA KIEL.

A Long Look at Shorts

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: I tried wearing shorts while driving the family car and found them to be so cool that I recommend all men to wear them while driving. However I learned they are too long and catch at the thighs unless they are pulled up just prior to sitting.

It is my opinion that the present men's shorts are very funny looking and make the wearer look like a sap. They are too long and way-way too loose. Anyone wearing these shorts is bound to look mishapen and like something dragged out of a comic section.

I suggest they start making better-styled shorts that are both shorter and more snug fitting. Men's appearance would be greatly improved and sales would rise.

But now comes the crowning wacky in men's shorts—coats. Imagine a man wearing shorts to keep cool and then contracting this with an uncool coat! Shorts and coats are incompatible and the stylists ought to have enough sense to see that.

Now why do men continue to wear coats in hot weather? Maybe the gals could shove comfort down the men's throats if they refused to date men who wear coats in summer time.

I have an idea about changing the coat style, but it would take nothing less than a royalty contract to pry this info from me. A coat can be easily replaced by the substitute I have in mind, and a man still would look natty dressed.

In the article one gal mentions the "little pots in front" of the men who wear shorts.

This gal is so interested in insulting us males that she is blind to the fact that these shorts are really a form of worn-out gunny sack that would make anyone look funny.

Let's not hear any complaints from the women-folk unless they are friendly and understanding.

SHORTS ANONYMOUS.

Peacetime $1-a-Year Men

Comptroller General Joseph Campbell has reported apparent conflicts of government and private interests in several zinc contracts involving the American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co., while its president, Howard L. Young of St. Louis, served as $1-a-year deputy administrator of the Defense Materials Procurement Agency a few years ago. Republican Senator John J. Williams of Delaware says they meant a loss of $388,064 to the Government.

Whether these deals were good or bad, whether they were the result of laxness or something worse may be investigated by Senator Fulbright of Arkansas and the Senate Banking Committee. But because of Mr. Young's interest in the companies concerned, the transactions do invite further consideration of the policy of employing businessmen on a volunteer basis in areas in which their decisions could be self-serving.

Such suspicion is a most unfair reward for a man who is serving his nation freely and honestly. On the other hand, the taxpayers are entitled to some assurance that public offices are not being used for private ends.

The Comptroller General made his report to Senator Fulbright because the latter is in charge of extension of the Defense Production Act as requested by President Eisenhower. An amendment already has been proposed which would prohibit employment without compensation. That would be in line with the law which for a time forbids former federal employees, mostly lawyers, to deal with the agencies which they served.

The waiving of such restrictions has been accepted as a wartime necessity, but it is difficult to accept the continuation of such a policy after a war's end. Should not the Government have employees of its own who are competent to conduct the various phases of its business? Experience has shown that even in wartime the nation cannot always count on standards of conduct beyond all reproach. So it is prudent, as a general principle, not to create situations in which temptation is implicit.

Meanwhile full details of the agreements in question should be brought to light. That is essential to a just appraisal. Those who serve the Government must be like Caesar's wife—above suspicion.

Mrs. Harrington on the School Board

Twice since the School Board election last spring, Mayor Tucker has been called upon to fill vacancies on the board by appointment. Both times he has made sound choices. First he chose Dr. Walter A. Young to succeed Henry White-side. Since Dr. Young polled the largest number of votes among the defeated candidates, he was clearly next in the voters' favor.

To succeed the late J. Harry Pohlman, the Mayor has now chosen Mrs. Edward M. Harrington, a former teacher in the St. Louis public schools and an active worker in groups seeking to advance the school system here. Mrs. Harrington ranked next to Dr. Young in the election, so she stood next highest in support at the polls.

The presence of these two recent candidates on the Board of Education ought to strengthen it in many ways.

First Man Up in the 12th

If anybody says that this year's all-star game was played according to a script, we will not bother to argue. What a script! Better than any ever written in Hollywood or turned out for The American Boy by its most imaginative storyteller.

Start of the National League's half of the 12th. First man up, Musial. First pitch, a home run deep into the right-field stands. No, truth still is more exciting than fiction. No writer would have dared pile the drama on that deep. He would have been worrying about verisimilitude. At the least, he would have had the Pride of St. Louis foul off a few before letting him swing for the drive that won the game.

Also, your writer would not have allowed the American Leaguers to score four runs off Robin Roberts before he was even warmed up. Maybe a homer for Mickey Mantle, but not with all those runners on base. For fiction, that would have been too lopsided. And with the National League sluggers picked to overwhelm the opposing pitchers, who would have carried them to the 7th, trailing 5 to 0, and then brought Willie Mays off the bench to spark the two rallies that tied the score, not to mention that Williams home run which ended in Willie's glove? Who would have written Aaron into the story for those two trips to the plate and those two hits? Or had Schoendienst make the plays he did?

No, things go that way only in a real ball game—with a few Cardinals around to take charge for Leo Durocher. Oh, the Milwaukee contingent did right well by the home-town crowd, nor was there grief in Cincinnati or on Chicago's North Side. Brooklyn was not exactly in tears, but at that, the folks along the Gowanus might wonder just why their team does have such a long lead in the pennant race.

But when all-star games go into extra innings, it is the Redbirds who take over. In 1950 it was Red Schoendienst. In 1955 it was Stan Musial. And that is not for the story-book, but for the history-book.

The first man up in the 12th, Musial. The first pitch, a home run.

The Air Force Academy Opens

The United States Air Force Academy week became a reality with the swearing in of 306 cadets, ranging from 17 to 22 years old, who hope to be graduated four years hence as second lieutenants.

Two years from now they will transfer from their temporary quarters at Lowry Air Force Base, near Denver, to their permanent school site on a 17,500-acre tract at Colorado Springs. When the imposing array of buildings at Colorado Springs is finished, the Air Force will have something that physically will rival the Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., and the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

This newest of the three great military institutions by 1960 will be able to take an enrollment of 2500 cadets. Those who are graduated will be expected to provide the professional life blood of the Air Force.

The entire Air Academy program has been planned, developed, revised and perfected in the time since 1948 and with the help of West Point, Annapolis, Columbia University and other civilian institutions. This program is intended to produce officers who not only can be leaders in war but who also will be broad enough to hold their own at Congressional hearings, at the diplomats' table, or even at a tea. Out of this common background should come a genuine interest in a long-time professional career and something like old Admiral Nelson's "band of brothers" concept.

It is a bit incongruous that the Air Academy should be coming into existence at a time when the intercontinental ballistic missile looms large with a hint that the day of the piloted plane may be nearing an end. But with the realm of interplanetary space and of nuclear fission to be faced, it is certain that the armed forces of this nation are going to be able to use the very best officer material that the Air Academy can turn out.

A Road Plan Shapes Up

Administration advisers have said that President Eisenhower would accept a reasonable compromise on his highway program. A compromise is what the Administration is likely to get.

So far three bills have been considered. In a general way all three anticipate similar expansion of the federal highway system. The original Eisenhower plan, for example, would spend 39 billion dollars in federal-state money in 10 years. The Gore bill passed by the Senate would spend 18 billions in five years, as a start, or about half as much in half as much time.

Now a House subcommittee under Representative Fallon of Maryland is planning a 12-year program involving 47 billion dollars, or eight billions more than the Eisenhower program suggested but spread over two more years.

The sharp differences in these bills involve financing. The Administration suggested issuing unique special bonds outside the federal debt. Opponents charged this would evade federal debt law, and because of high interest, cost taxpayers $1.55 for every dollar borrowed for roads.

Consequently the Senate soundly defeated the bond idea and the House Public Works Committee has just ruled against it 19 to 14 in a vote which unfortunately closely followed party lines. Now the committee is considering higher highway use taxes to help pay for new roads. The Fallon committee proposes raising the federal gasoline tax from 1 cent to 2 cents, along with other increased levies.

Now Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has indicated that the Fallon plan would be acceptable to him as a second choice. Certainly pay-as-you-go financing should appeal to the Treasury. It not only is less expensive than bonds but, like the bond plan which Mr. Humphrey first supported, would also avoid any increase in the federal debt.

Raising taxes is of course not a popular proposition. It is a sounder alternative to special bonds which would cost the taxpayers far more for their roads in the long run. The Fallon plan now appears to be the highway compromise which Congress will produce and which the Eisenhower Administration will be asked to accept.

Curtain!

Sealanes and airlines are full of delegations shuttling between Russia and the United States this summer. But by way of cultural exchange, it may be even more significant that Secretary of State Dulles has lifted travel restrictions sufficiently to permit a Tass correspondent in New York to attend the American Shakespeare Festival in Connecticut.

Mr. Dulles was on a bit of a spot. The festival people, catching the spirit of cultural exchange, had invited a Moscow critic to attend the opening performance of Julius Caesar. The critic could not make it, but Pravda said it would like to send its New York correspondent instead.

Alas! Somebody remembered that last January the State Department had designated parts of 39 states as off-limits to resident Russians. Connecticut, like St. Louis county, St. Charles county, Madison county and St. Clair county—like Kansas City, Louisville, Memphis and St. Paul—was a closed area.

So it took a personal dispensation by Secretary Dulles to enable the Tass man to ride out from Manhattan to Connecticut to brush up his Shakespeare.

Mr. Dulles says he hopes Soviet officials will show equal liberality in opening up closed areas over there to American newsmen. A tit for a tat, and all that. But even if the Russians fail to respond, our State Department might be justified. If the Connecticut Shakespeare experiment works out all right without any serious breaches of security, in lifting its own curtain a little more.

No matter how hard Americans may try to be have like Russians, it just doesn't come naturally. What comes naturally is the kind of treatment being given the Soviet farm delegation now on its way to the middle west. They will have no fixed itinerary. They can stop and look around wherever and whenever they like. That is how it should be—not "equal liberality," but unequal freedom, with the balance in our favor.

Save the Horse-Radish

Horse-radish is more than a boon to the palate. It is a $3,000,000 industry, principally in Illinois, the nation's horse-radish center, around East St. Louis and Chicago. Or it has been a $3,000,000 industry. In the last four years two plant diseases called white rust and bitter root have taken heavy toll.

One year's crop—1951's—in the East St. Louis area was virtually wiped out. Prices soared from 10 cents a pound to 65 cents, and foreign imports began taking over markets. Most of the horse-radish farmers in the Chicago area went out of the horse-radish business.

Those remaining were producing a horse-radish which had lost much of its tang because of bitter root. Some producers blended it with parsnips and mixed mustard oil in the attempt to compensate for the loss.

Growers asked the State Government of Illinois to conduct research looking to cures for horse-radish's ills. The legislature at Springfield, adopting a bill sponsored by Senator James O. Monroe of Collinsville, appropriated $5000 for this purpose. This was hardly a king's sum for the state that is known as "king of the horse-radish growers" but now Gov. Stratton has vetoed even that.

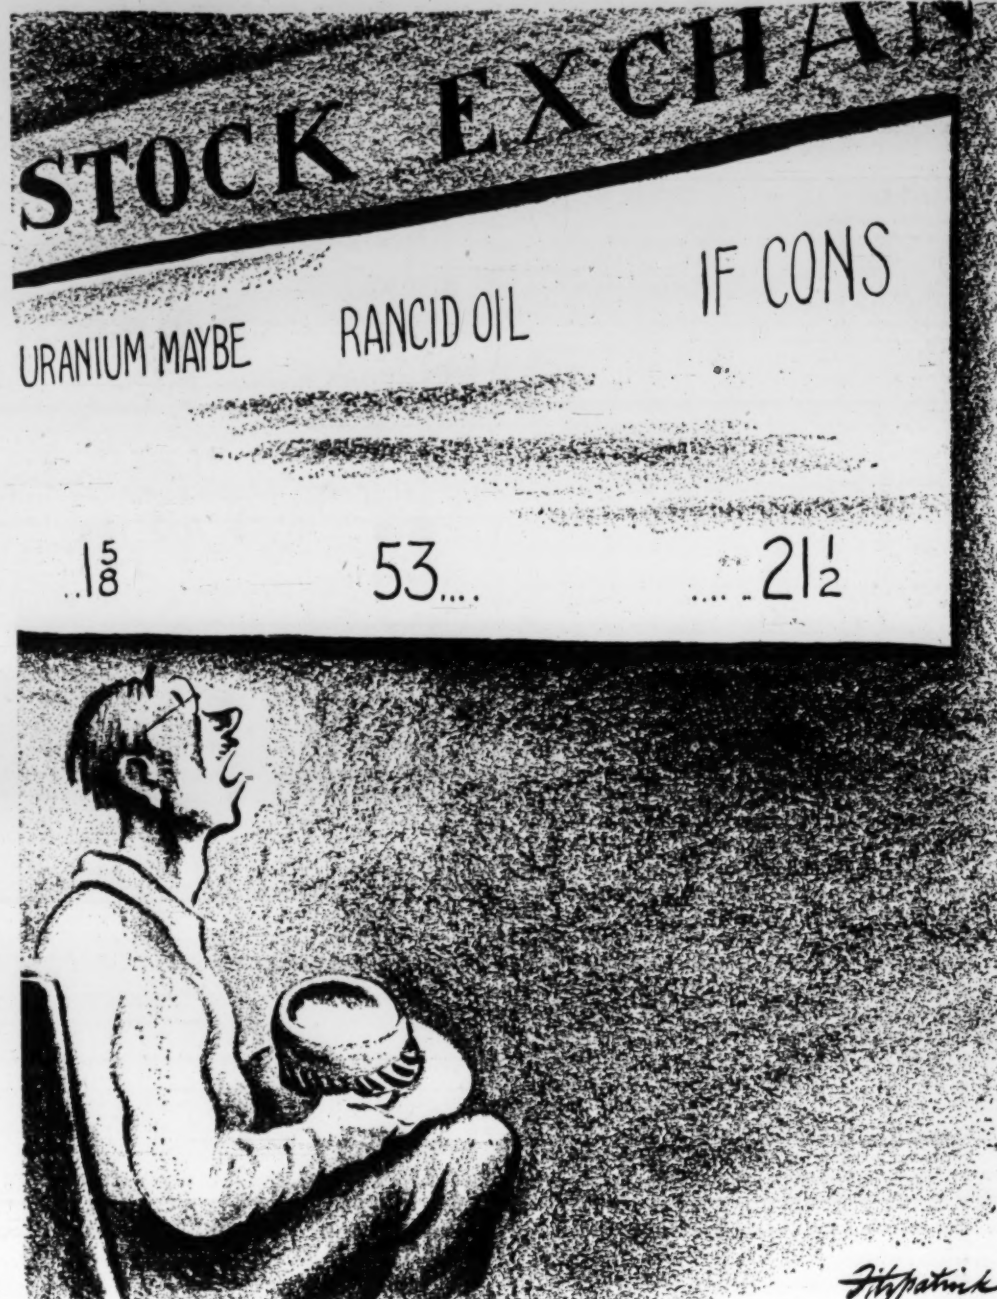

Surely here is a shortsighted approach to an agricultural problem. "Save the Horse-Radish" is a slogan which ought to appeal as heartily to the city dweller who eats the product as to the rural dweller whose income it swells. Let us have at this white rust and bitter root, lest future generations be deprived of the pleasure of knowing what horse-radish really tastes like.

Bizarre Definition

There has been a lot of loose talk about the Dixon-Yates controversy and some of it has been downright misleading. A high point in the confusion comes with the description of the decision of Memphis to build its own power plant as "private enterprise."

The merits of private enterprise and public power aside—and the Post-Dispatch position is that each has its place in this country—by no stretch of the imagination is a municipal plant in Memphis "private enterprise." It is local public ownership. That makes it public ownership just as much as a state university or Hoover dam.

Messrs. Dixon and Yates never would accept the notion that Memphis's decision to build its own power plant is "private enterprise." Local, yes, but not "private" in a million years!

THE DIZZYLAND SHOW

Nonsense of the Necktie

The Mirror of Public Opinion

In which Edward R. Murrow praises a New York taxi driver for doing what so few American males have courage to do in wearing shorts and open shirt; after decrying conformity and lauding liberation of neck and knees, he retires to tie his tie.

From a News Broadcast by Edward R. Murrow on the Columbia Broadcasting System

Here in New York a taxi driver by the name of Sanford Barnett gets his picture on the front page of the Journal-American. And richly does Mr. Barnett deserve this distinction. For it is hot in this city of steam, scurry and scamper, and Mr. Barnett drives his taxicab attired in Bermuda shorts and an open-neck shirt.

He has struck a blow for freedom—especially freedom of the knees and neck. He is a non-conformist, a rebel against the fashion or the prejudice which demands that the male animal shall be attired in the summertime in garb that is an offense against nature and logic. Less civilized, or perhaps I should say less mechanized men manage things better.

Have regard for a moment to neck of the average city dweller in the hot months of summer. It is encased in a shirt; the collar of said shirt generally contains at least four layers of cloth. The neck is further swaddled by a necktie—at least two more layers; then the coat collar, another two or maybe four layers of cloth.

What has happened to the American neck? Why is it so delicate as to require such protection in summer?

What price the free, independent, non-conformist nature of the American male, when he submits so tamely to this torture? He is neither free nor enterprising. From head to toe he is a conformist. No pith helmet, no open-toed sandals; and above the shoes, the garters which have the effect of contour plowing, namely to absorb or restrain the moisture.

Men of mettle should appear on the streets, or in the office, in open-necked shirts and shorts. If the knees are knobby, so be it. If the stomach has undertaken an independent career, wear the shirt on the outside, thereby softening the lines of the contour.

No one has yet contended that it is un-American to be comfortable. We suffer as we do because of an unwillingness on the part of the individual to break from the herd. We are the victims of a sad tradition combined with timidity.

There is even a possible class angle in this minor tragedy. If you observe taxi drivers, construction workers, farmers, you are not likely to find a buttoned shirt or a necktie in the lot. Those men are doing work no less important, no less dignified than those workers who present such a sorry spectacle of saturation as they walk down the street, afraid to break with the sartorial sanctions of the past.

What pitiable figures are we all, the victims of our own timidity and conformity, more to be scorned than pitied. Maybe this unnecessary clothing is some sort of protective coloring which we hope will make us appear more respectable and important than we are. But it isn't comfortable, and I suspect it isn't even as hygienic as an open-necked shirt and shorts.

We deliberately inconvenience ourselves in an age when it is possible that each one of us may be turned into a radioactive cinder. Humans have devised a method of destroying humanity, but they lack the courage to be comfortable while waiting to see whether that destruction will be accomplished.

Someone once said that we are so busy dealing with the urgent that we never get around to the important. It is both urgent and important that something be done to liberate the neck and knees of the American male, but unhappily, nothing can be done about it. We lack the courage required to escape this brutal bondage, particularly around the neck. We lack the courage, independence and indifference to custom which would permit us to free ourselves. This is a shameful admission. It arises from an unwillingness to be different.

Let this be regarded as an effort to undermine the flourishing and imaginative necktie industry, permit me to say that I would willingly wear two neckties in the summertime, if none were worn in the summertime. After all, nations have been conquered and empires built by men who never knew a necktie; and it's even money that Davy Crockett in his better days didn't wear one of the things.

And so, having uttered these futile words, in an air-conditioned news room, this reporter will now swathe his neck in those 10 or 12 layers of cloth, and depart, a beaten man, one of the herd, lacking in courage, but nevertheless, filled with admiration and envy for the taxi driver, Sanford Barnett, in Bermuda shorts and an open-necked shirt. Come to think of it, maybe he is only half brave, because I'll bet most people who ride with him don't even know he's wearing shorts.

It may well be that the summer costume suggested would not be appealing to the eye. But I take refuge in a comment by Lord Chesterfield who said: "The wickedest work in this world is symbolized, not by a wine glass but by a looking glass."

We have no competence to comment upon the exotic summer clothes worn by women, but a few of these creations remind us of Jonathan Swift, who said: "She wears her clothes as if they were thrown on her with a pitchfork."

Between Book Ends

It All Began With a Trailer

HIDDEN FIRE, by Sherman Baker. (Little, Brown, 308 pp., $3.75.)

It all started on a summer Sunday in Chicago. For the first time in years, Max Ferguson had gone to church with his wife Nancy, and there they had met an old friend, Bob Macdonald, whom they had taken home with them for a few drinks. During the course of conversation, Bob offered the Fergusons his summer cottage for their vacation, and when Martha and Gene Brown dropped in, they offered their luggage trailer for the Fergusons' use. Because of the liquor and the vacation in prospect, Max was feeling good when he went into the kitchen, and when Martha, and when Gene Brown followed him, and started flirting. Max responded with a kiss.

The next week, when Max went to the Browns' for the trailer, he found Martha alone and before he left, she had seduced him. Max was a young man who wanted to be an artist, but he felt that he was not appreciated as he should be, but he was reasonably content and he worked on sculpture in his spare time.

But now all that was changed. As the months passed, he found himself more deeply involved with Martha, who wanted them both to get divorces so they could marry, and who hysterically threatened to kill herself, if Max left her. Max didn't love Martha, he loved his wife, but he was too weak to tell Martha so. Instead, he drifted along, hoping chance or fate or luck would get him out of his entanglement.

As his dismay and disgust deepened and his job became insecure, Max turned to religion. He admitted that he needed help from God, but he still did not have the courage to end the affair with Martha. As it was, chance stepped in and ended it, but by that time, Max had gotten a deeper insight into religion, and realized that it is necessary for man to co-operate with God in order to improve himself.

Mr. Baker has written a novel of modern America with characters and situations easily recognizable. It is an honest book, and although it does not go too deeply under the surface, the author should be applauded for his ideas and the way in which he carries them out. It is refreshing for a change, to find a book in which the hero goes to God on his knees for help in his trouble, instead of to the psychiatrist's couch.

The Frozen North

GEOGRAPHY OF THE NORTHLANDS, edited by George H. T. Kimble and Dorothy Good. (John Wiley & Sons, $10.50.)

This book not only fills a need, but is long overdue. For 20 years there has been no single-volume geographical treatment of the arctic and subarctic areas available in English. Furthermore, since air travel has now brought every part of the arctic under human survey, the time is approaching when we may be able to exploit the untapped resources of this large region. Under the editorship of Dr. Kimble (who is currently engaged on a large-scale African survey) and Miss Good (of Princeton), a team of expert contributors, most of them Canadians, outline every known aspect of arctic development to date.

Since Russia is in the forefront of arctic expansion, an important section on Arctic Russia has been written by Professor Bogdan Zabolotski, a Polish geographer who spent a year in a Soviet arctic slave labor camp. The book is issued under the auspices of the American Geographical Society.

A Death to Come in Mascoutah

Arthur D. Jenkins, Editor, in The Mascoutah Herald

One of these days you will pick up The Mascoutah Herald and read the sickening details about a child who suffocated to death in an abandoned ice box in Mascoutah.

You will learn that the child either saw the box in the yard and climbed in while playing hide-and-seek, or wandered into some shed and there died.

Upon reading further you will find that the owner had disposed of the box upon buying another and better one for the kitchen but a peculiar attitude of economy prevented him from either burning it or dumping it in the city dump north of town. It will be this false sense of "saving" which will lead to some little child's death, here in Mascoutah. Not only have we seen these abandoned boxes in the back yards but we have been told that many are in barns and sheds.

If one must retain the box (and being outside in the weather isn't improving its quality) then take off the door.

Two years ago there was an epidemic of such happenings with two children suffocating as many times as one did. Recently two died in East St. Louis. Other deaths have been all around us. The number of deaths declined because of the national campaign against these death-dealing and the boxes are traps waiting for a playful child.

If you have a box in your yard, or in your shed, either take the door off now, or else cart it to the city dump, NOW.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Dulles Says This, Eisenhower Says That

WASHINGTON. IT WAS NAUGHTY of the subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee to publish just now that Secretary Dulles told them a month ago about the economic troubles of the Soviet Union. Having been warned by Mr. Khrushchev that the Soviet Union is unwilling to let its concessions be interpreted as weakness, the White House had to announce that Mr. Dulles had not meant what his words said.

And in fact, he had not meant what his words said. He had been telling the subcommittee that part of the truth, somewhat what ornamented, which he thought would most quickly persuade them to vote the appropriation for foreign aid. He was telling them the kind of truth he thought they would like to hear.

This is by no means the first time that the President and the Secretary have seemed to be saying different things. Again and again, they have been found saying things which differed very much in the tone, and occasionally in the substance.

The President, looking at the shining face of the moon, would say it was cheerful; the Secretary looking at the dark side of the moon, would say it was chilly.

Goodness Vs. Original Sin.

For this point-counterpoint of Eisenhower's hopefulness and Dulles' wet-blanket there have been a number of explanations:—for example, that Eisenhower never reads the fine print where-as Dulles is an expert on fine print—or that Eisenhower believes in the natural goodness of man and that Dulles believes in original sin.

Be that as it may, the best explanation is, I think, that the Eisenhower-Dulles duo is a harmony of two parts. The one is addressed to the majority of our people and to the world. The other is addressed to the Republican Senators who were predominant in the first half of the Eisenhower Administration. The two voices—which had so often sounded so unlike—have been devoted to the same end. That end is to neutralize the once powerful right-wing Republicans in order that the basic Eisenhower policy of disengagement and conciliation could proceed.

Dulles Takes the Lead.

During his first two years, the President never felt that he was himself equipped by previous experience or that he had the political strength to make himself the leader of the party. In that period it fell to Mr. Dulles to appease and to fling and to divert the efforts of Knowland, Bridges and their coterie to take over the conduct of foreign policy, particularly in Asia, and of McCarthy and his crew to terrorize and dominate the Executive Department.

He fed them and he kept them quiet with negative policies, with announcements of what could not and would not be done, and with very stern words.

This worked largely because the right-wing Senators were, despite all their war-like talk, isolationists under the skin. They wanted to breathe fire at the Chinese Communists; at the same time they wanted to balance the budget and to reduce taxes.

Mr. Dulles breathed fire for them whenever the President seemed to be talking moderation.

The remarks which Mr. Dulles made in private to the House subcommittee were meant to make the Congress feel that they should vote the money for foreign aid even though the Soviet government was talking peace.

Until this year the case for foreign aid had been argued on the basis of the imminent threat of an aggressive expansion of the Communist power. Faced with the change of Soviet tactics, Mr. Dulles was out to persuade Congress that the Communist power is not retreating because of the success of the policy which foreign aid is an important element.

Time to Tell the Truth?

The question, we might ask ourselves, is whether the President's power at home and the situation abroad have not brought us to a point where it is possible, and indeed necessary, to stop talking down to the Congress and to begin talking publicly as informed and responsible men are talking and thinking privately. The great majority in Congress would prefer to be treated sincerely and as equals, and the extremists no longer count for very much.

We must not delude ourselves into thinking that we have won the race of armaments. And even in the economic comparison, the advantage is by no means decisively with us.

In the vast undeveloped areas of the world the Western way is not regarded as the only way. For free enterprise and democracy are much slower and more difficult than the centralized, ruthless way of Communist dictatorship.

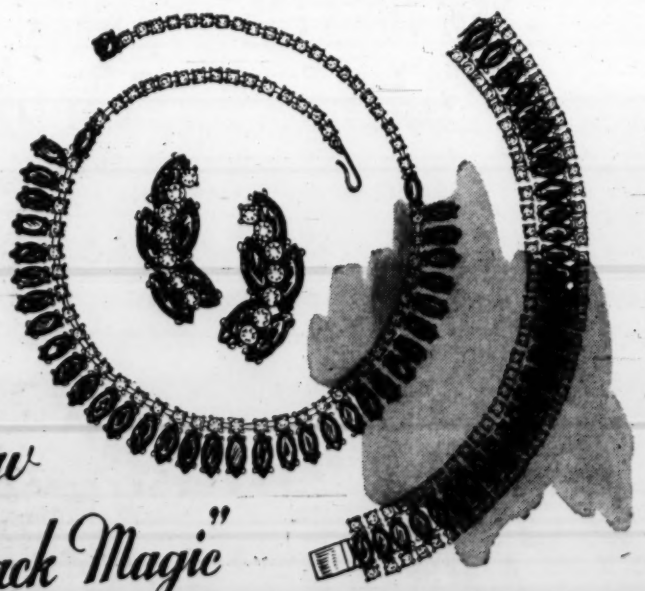

Charles P. Taft Operated On. BOSTON, July 13 (AP)—Charles P. Taft, of Cincinnati, son of President William H. Taft and brother of the late Senator Robert A. Taft, underwent surgery yesterday for the removal of the upper lobe of his right lung. He was reported resting comfortably in Deaconess Hospital, where doctors said he would remain for at least eight days.

CONCERT WILL OPEN
PARK OPERA FESTIVAL

Rodgers and Hammerstein to Be Here for Start of 6-Week Series.

Composer Richard Rodgers will conduct the Municipal Opera orchestra, expanded to 61 members, in selections from "Oklahoma!" on opening night Monday of the Rodgers and Hammerstein Concert at the open air theater, it was announced today.

Both he and his partner, Oscar Hammerstein II will participate in the first program of the one-week engagement.

For the remainder of Monday's program and all other performances during the week, the orchestra will be conducted by the opera's musical director, Edwin McArthur.

The enlarged orchestra will play from the stage during the concert.

Soloists for the concert include soprano Margaret Roberts, contralto Jean Sanders, tenor Thomas Hayward and baritone Edwin Steffe. Dancers Cynthia Scott, Robert Paget and Raimonda Orselli will perform. They will be supported by the opera's singing and dancing choruses.

The concert will open a six-week Rodgers and Hammerstein Festival, which will include productions of "Carousel," "Allegro," "The King and I" and "South Pacific." All but "Carousel" are being presented at the Forest Park theater for the first time.

FUNERAL SERVICES FRIDAY
FOR MRS. C. E. BARBA JR.

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles E. Barba Jr., wife of the president of the A. Moll Grocery Co., will be at 9 a.m. Friday at the First Congregational Church, 10 West Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mrs. Barba died of cancer yesterday at Barnes Hospital. She was 48 years old and lived at 230 Sylvester avenue, Webster Groves. She was the granddaughter of Adolph Moll, who founded the grocery firm, located at 5659 Delmar boulevard in 1858, and the daughter of Kurt V. Moll, firm president from 1922 until his death in 1945. She was a member of the Webster Groves charter commission which drafted a charter approved by the voters last year.

Surviving, besides her husband, are a daughter, Miss Nancy R. Barba; a son, Ensign Peter M. Barba, stationed at Great Lakes, Ill.; her mother, Mrs. Kurt V. Moll, and a brother, Richard K. Moll of Concord, N. H.

MRS. WILLIAM C. BROWN
FUNERAL IN CALIFORNIA

Funeral services for Mrs. William C. Brown, formerly of St. Louis, will be held tomorrow at Santa Monica, Calif., where she had lived since 1945.

Mrs. Brown died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage. She was 81 years old. She was the widow of the vice president and treasurer of the old Pioneer Cooperative Co. here. They formerly lived at 5261 Westminster place. Surviving are a daughter, Miss Dorothy L. Brown, two sons, W. C. Brown Jr., president of the Ferguson-Florissant school board, and Warren E. Brown, San Bernardino, Calif., and a sister, Miss Josephine S. Histed, who lived with her. The body will be brought to St. Louis for burial in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Grandma Accepts $32,000 Rather Than Risk It on $64,000 Question

MRS. CATHERINE KREITZER, kissing her husband, JAMES KREITZER, after electing to keep the $32,000 she had already won rather than trying for the $64,000 top prize in a television quiz show.

But TV Quiz Show Winner Explains Decision Is Based on Moderation, Not Lack of Confidence.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Mrs. Catherine Kreitzer took a cue from the Bible last night and declined to risk her $32,000 television quiz show winnings on the chance of doubling her money.

Her knowledge of the Bible had given the 54-year-old grandmother from Camp Hill, Pa., answers to questions that enabled her to acquire the $32,000 in three previous appearances on the CBS show "The $64,000 Question."

Last night she had the choice of taking her winnings thus far or trying another question, which, if answered correctly, would have won her the top prize of $64,000. If she missed the answer, she would have gotten an automobile as a consolation prize.

For a moment it appeared that she would take the chance. She told Hal March, the master of ceremonies, that she felt pretty confident she could answer the final question. The studio audience burst into excited applause.

When the applause died down, however, she added that she would heed the Biblical quotation—"Let your moderation be known to all men"—and would be satisfied with the $32,000.

After the show, reporters asked her to repeat the source of the quotation. She pulled a card from her purse and exclaimed: "Oh dear, I said it wrong. It's from the Philippians, chapter four, fifth verse." On the air she had named the source as Ephesians.

The question she would have had to answer was not disclosed. Mrs. Kreitzer, who works as a typist at a naval supply depot near her home, told reporters she had made up her mind several days ago not to shoot for the $64,000. She kept the decision a secret, however, until broadcast time.

When asked what she would do with her winnings, she said she didn't know but would put it in the bank "for the time being—until things calm down a little."

She told reporters she had checked on the income tax she would have to pay on her winnings and figured she would be able to keep about $20,000 of the $32,000.

If she had tried for $64,000 and won, it is estimated that she would have been able to keep only $12,000 of the additional $32,000, the other $20,000 going for additional income taxes.

HEAD OF KIRKWOOD
SCHOOLS RESIGNS

Superintendent Floyd W. Hendricks Accepts Similar Post at Pekin, Ill.

Floyd W. Hendricks, superintendent of schools of the Kirkwood district since 1947, resigned Monday night to become superintendent of schools at Pekin, Ill., it became known today.

F. Burton Sawyer, president of the Kirkwood Board of Education, said Muriel R. Moore, junior-senior high school principal, was appointed acting superintendent. Hendricks had been junior-senior high school principal for five years when he became superintendent. An extensive building program has been undertaken during his tenure, and a new high school building is nearing completion. A new elementary school, Westchester, is under construction and there have been additions to four elementary schools.

The Kirkwood district, which includes Kirkwood and Oakdale, most of Glendale and unincorporated Meacham Park, was among the first to integrate Negro pupils in the elementary schools. Segregation will be ended in the junior and senior high schools this fall.

Hendricks lives at 296 Edwin avenue, Glendale. His wife, Georgina, is a portrait painter. The Kirkwood district was successful in a controversy over taxes four years ago when 35 residents tried to transfer to the Ladue district but a board of arbitration ruled against them. The Kirkwood tax rate was $4.05 at the time and the Ladue rate $1.98.

Before coming to Kirkwood, Hendricks was in the Illinois public school system 16 years, including 10 in administrative work at Springfield, three as junior high school principal at Quincy and three as superintendent at Liberty. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has a masters degree from the University of Chicago.

FUNERAL SERVICE TOMORROW

FINDS GOOD HEARING HELPS TO KEEP THE OLD YOUNGER

Maintaining hearing in elderly persons is an important factor in keeping them from aging faster physiologically than physically, Dr. Giulio Pestalozza, a Fulbright research fellow studying the problem at Central Institute for the Deaf, said today.

"As modern medicine helps people to live longer, it must help them keep their lives worth living," the specialist, who returns to his native Milan, Italy, this week, explained. He has been studying here for a year. Dr. Pestalozza has been concentrating on clinical work with elderly patients who are hard of hearing and on work with aged guinea pigs. He has determined that the hearing problems of the guinea pigs are the same physiologically as those of persons. With this knowledge, it is now possible to experiment with them in an attempt to solve problems of increasing tendencies toward deafness in older people, he said.

Tired Musial, Ear Bent By Weary Berra, Puts All-Star Game to Bed

His First-Pitch Homer In Twelfth Wins It; Stan Sets Three Marks

By Bob Broeg

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

MILWAUKEE, July 13—The shadows had deepened except for a deceptive streak of light halfway between the plate and the mound as Stan Musial stepped into the batter's box late yesterday afternoon at Milwaukee's County Stadium.

It was the twelfth inning of the twenty-second All-Star game, and Musial's friend and rival, Yogi Berra, the pride of The Hill, was grumbling instead of filling Stan's ear with the usual nonsense and small talk with which Yogi tries to distract an unwary hitter.

"What's the matter, Yogi?" Musial inquired.

"It's these extra innings, tough on a guy catching every day," the catcher complained. "Bill Summers, bullheaded veteran American League umpire with the beet-red complexion, agreed with Berra. 'And it's getting tough to see back here, too,' Summers moaned.

Musial nodded because he had been having trouble seeing all day and now, as mentioned, those tricky shadows did things to make good pitchers look even better. Ranging, right-handed Frank Sullivan of the Boston Red Sox already had stopped the National League for more than three innings.

"Yeah," Musial was saying, just before stepping in to face Sullivan's first pitch, "I'm getting tired, too."

But not too tired to try to win, to try to get on base—and that's all he really was after. Musial, Thomas suggested. "You've been pulling your head, trying to kill the ball, Stan."

True enough, Musial acknowledged to himself after having fanned, tapped into a double play, grounded out and walked. Now, leading off in the home half of this third overtime inning, he'd just concentrate on meeting the ball.

In that frame of mind the mighty Musial, taking another seven-league stride toward baseball's Hall of Fame, slugged Sullivan's first twelfth-inning pitch far over the right field fence to give the rallying National League an exciting and, as depressing as things had looked, a surprising 6-5 victory.

Musial didn't bother to run. "I knew it was gone," he related happily—and just jogged around the bases, like Babe Ruth remembering to have a wisecrack for Berra when he touched the plate, but the Yankee catcher was on his way to the visitors' dugout. After all, Yogi has hit enough home runs himself to know one when he sees one jump off a bat jet-propelled.

And with that one swish that compensated for a most mediocre afternoon, Musial broke the second and third of three All-Star records he smashed before a standing-room crowd of 45,643 in resort-cool, cloudless weather in the most fanatical baseball community in the country.

The game-deciding drive gave the 34-year-old star of the Cardinals, an outfielder again and a steady one this reddest red-lettered All-Star day, the distinction of owning more homers (four) and hits (14) than any player in the history of the inter-league mid-summer classic.

Musial also passed Joe DiMaggio and Mel Ott to become the first player to compete in 12 All-Star games, but for only the second time he didn't start. In 1947 he'd been ill, weakened by an inflamed appendix, and only pinch-batted. This time by the dictate of the fans, limited to a strict choice position by position, he'd been sidetracked in favor of Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski.

Kluszewski, as Musial noted earlier, deserved the honors at first base, but Leo Durocher, a long-time admirer of Stan's even when he's loudly directing a Giants' pitcher to tuck one under the Man's chin or stick one in his ear, made certain Musial played as early as possible.

The oldest National League All-Star—and this is what Musial is as time goes by—pinch-batted for the Phillies' Del Ennis in the fourth inning and thereafter played left field.

My, How They Like That Man!

STAN MUSIAL, with a broad grin, finishes his jaunt around the bases after hitting his game-winning home run in the 12th inning of the All-Star baseball game at Milwaukee.

The happy reception committee crowds the plate, eager to shake Stan's hand. Big DON NEWCOMBE is the man in street garb, his pitching chore finished early.

Charles Is 3-1 Choice To Win From Andrews

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Ezzard Charles, 34-year-old former heavyweight boxing champion with hopes for another title match, was a 3-1 favorite over young Paul Andrews in their scheduled 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium tonight.

It'll be a MUST bout for both the fading Charles and the 25-year-old Andrews.

Charles cannot well afford to lose if he expects to continue as a drawing card and maintain or improve his No. 6 ranking among heavyweights.

Andrews, winner of 30 of his 35 bouts, needs a victory to establish himself among the heavyweights.

Charles has won three of his last four bouts after losing twice to Rocky Marciano. His loss was to John Holman, Chicago heavyweight.

Campanella To Return to Game Against Cards

BROOKLYN, July 13 (AP)—

The "slump" may be over for the Brooklyn Dodgers, who lead the National League by "only"

11 1/2 games. Roy Campanella says he's fit again.

Club physicians gave the free-swinging catcher the okay to play again after examining the injured knee which has kept him sidelined since June 29.

Campy, beaming after hearing the report, said he plans to be behind the plate when the Brooks resume their pennant chase tomorrow night against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The club doctors fitted Campanella with a special foam rubber inset for his shin guard to protect the injured area.

"Now I can stoop down for the first time since I got injured (in St. Louis, June 19) and it doesn't hurt," said Campanella. "That's a great feeling."

Since a spur on Campy's knee was aggravated by a foul tip, the play again after examining the Dodgers have had only a 9-10

injured knee which has kept

him sidelined since June 29.

Stockham and Kirkwood on Ropes

Both Lose In Legion Play-Offs

By John J. Archibald

Pitching staffs that may be "one deep" are likely to be found out in the American Legion playoffs tonight. Both of yesterday's winners, Aubuchon-Dennison in the city and Thomann-Boothe in the county, believe they have the mound strength to provide the knockout punch in tonight's second round.

The Aubuchons, who surprised Stockham, 6 to 5, will move their series from Fairground to Cherokee Park (Thirteenth and Wyoming) for their 5-45 game tonight. Coach Bill Schaeffer's Thomann squad, a 5-2 victor over Kirkwood, will switch from "visitor" to "home" team, but the game again will be at Ballwin, Mo., at 8:30.

Should the first-game winners repeat, their series would be over, and they would then get ready for next week's city-county elimination.

It was the kid brother of an Aubuchon - Dennison star of seven seasons ago who stopped Stockham's power in the opener. Tom Fassler, whose brother, Wally, was a shortstop for the Aubuchon team that won a four-state regional tournament in 1949, pitched out of jams in nearly every inning, but needed help only on the last batter of the game.

Aubuchon Hits More Timely. Stockham got nine hits to the seven that Aubuchon collected off Pitcher Don Schaeffer, but Aubuchon's hits were more timely. In the first inning, an error, a walk, a passed ball and Charles Miller's single gave Aubuchon a quick 2-0 lead. Though it gave Aubuchon Coach Jim Robinson several extra gray hairs as it tried.

Aubuchon's lead had been cut from 6-3 to 6-5 in the last of the ninth and the tying and winning runs were on base, before Stockham's last batter went down swinging in the near-darkness of 8:32 p.m. Fassler had just walked pinch-hitter Jim Rosner and had a 2 and 0 count on pinch-hitter Ollie Sweeney, when Robinson decided to make a pitching change. He brought in husky, fast-balling George Werley to finish the job against Sweeney. After working the count to 3 and 2, Werley struck out Sweeney to end the game.

Miller had made Aubuchon's lead 3-0 with another run-scoring single in the fifth. In the last half of that frame, however, Stockham's Larry Anderson got the first of his three hits, a tremendous triple that drove in two runs. In the seventh, a walk to Miller, a single by Phil Portelli, a triple by Jim Helein, and Ed Meyer's hit gave Aubuchon a 6-2 edge. Anderson singled in a run in Stockham's half of the seventh, but the rally was cut short when Bob Brand was tagged out after over-sliding third base.

Four Walks for Rogers. The last of the ninth began with Rich Rogers drawing his fourth base on balls. Bert Barth, who had two hits previously, reached base on an error. With one out, Anderson drove in his fourth run with a single. He then stole second, and on the throw, Barth stole home. Frank Bevelo, who had a streak of nine consecutive safeties stopped in the fifth after getting hits his first two times up—fled out. It was then that Fassler walked Rosner, and Werley came in to put out the fire.

Thomann-Boothe had very little trouble with Kirkwood pitcher Paul Knopf, whacking 15 hits in all. Much of the Overland team's hitting came after two were out, however, and that cut down on its run-scoring. Shortstop Roland Kurtz had four hits for Thomann, including a double and a triple.

Andy Reed gave Kirkwood seven hits as he went all the way.

Cliffe Becomes Football Coach at Cleveland in School Transfers

By Harold Tuthill

Ray Cliffe, the coach who last season lifted Central High out of the football doldrums, yesterday was transferred to Cleveland, his alma mater, in a series of moves sanctioned by the Board of Education. Cliffe, a graduate of the University of Missouri, also played center on the St. Louis Knights professional team.

Cliffe's transfer was forecast when it was learned that Bob Sweeney, the Dutchmen's mentor the past few years, was quitting coaching to go into the insurance business. Sweeney's resignation, however, was not received at the downtown office until just a few days ago.

With Cliffe leaving Central, the football job there will be turned over to Max Carlisle, the Redwings' basketball coach. Carlisle will relinquish his winter sports post to Harold D. Anderson, a member of the central faculty for one year. The Redwings' assistant in football will be Richard Keller, a University of Missouri graduate who got his master's degree at Washington U.

Keller, who has played pro football, has been in business at Jefferson City. Recently he indicated a desire to return to teaching and his application was approved by the St. Louis Board. He once taught at McBride High.

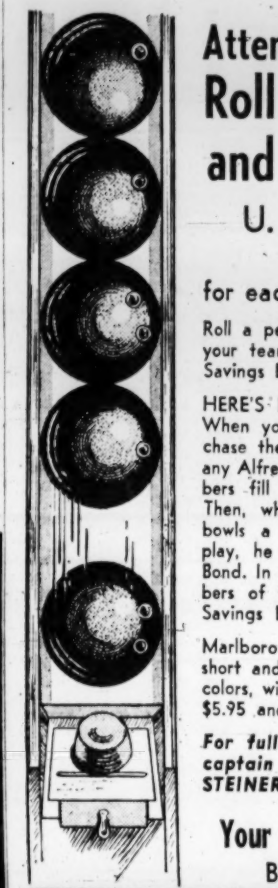

Cliffe's assistant at Cleveland will be Pete Mercurio, who is moving up from a job in the elementary schools. In addition, Carlton Nebel, at Hancock High the past two years, will be added to the Cleveland faculty. Although Nebel is known as a capable basketball coach, he probably will only assist Earl Jansen in that sport and be head track coach, a post which Sweeney held.

There had been some discussion that Bert Fenenga, formerly head football coach at Cleveland and more recently a teacher at Roosevelt, might return to the Carondelet school to help Cliffe, who once played for him. The change still could go through when all the assignments for some 800-odd teachers are known.

In other transfers announced by R. M. Imbody, assistant in charge of secondary schools, McKinley will lose Joel Beezley to Southwest and the Goldbugs will acquire two replacements, Rick Le Fort, at St. Charles for three years, will enter the system, along with Edward Dzialik, pronounced Jet-Lik.

Soldan, which lost a basketball coach when the veteran C. Don Frankenberger decided to retire, will get a replacement in Lanega Claiborn.

Sedgman Downed By

Appendicitis Attack

MILAN, Italy, July 13 (AP)—Frank Sedgman, the Australian tennis star who won the United States National Amateur championship in 1951-52, was resting in a Milan hospital last night following an attack of appendicitis earlier in the day.

Sedgman, now a professional, was to have appeared in an exhibition along with three other members of the touring troupe, Americans Pancho Gonzales and Ken McGregor.

An Italian physician who examined Sedgman said he would not know whether an operation was needed until after he had studied the results of an X-ray examination. The physician added that Sedgman's condition was "satisfactory."

With Sedgman forced to bed, an Italian pair, playing as substitutes for the Sedgman-McGregor team, upset McGregor and Gonzales in a doubles match 6-3, 4-6, 10-8. The Italians, Gianni Cucilli and Marcello Del Bello, turned professional only last year.

69 For Webb In Milwaukee Open Qualifying Play

MILWAUKEE, July 13 (AP)—Labron Harris, golf coach at Oklahoma A. & M. College, knocked four strokes off par for a 69 yesterday to lead a field of 113 nonexempt players seeking to qualify in the $35,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

Harris, also on the teaching faculty at the Stillwater, Okla., school, posted rounds of 33-36 over the short but pit-marked Blue Mound country club course, a par 70 layout.

The 46-year-old Harris stopped off here to "try his luck" while en route to the PGA tournament at Detroit next week.

Stanley Beats World Record For 800 Meters

KINGSTON, Jamaica, B.W.I. July 13 (UP)—Lang Stanley of the United States bettered the existing world record for the 800 meters last night when he was timed in 1:47.6 in winning the event in the final night of Jamaica's tercentenary games.

Stanley's time was better than the accepted record of 1:48.6 held by Mal Whitfield, but a tenth-of-a-second slower than a 1:47.5 performance by Lon Spurrier in California that is awaiting official approval.

Spurrier finished second in tonight's race, four yards behind, with Mal Spence of Jamaica third.

Joe La Pierre of the United States set a new Jamaican record by winning the 1500-meter run in 3:52.0 and Mal Andrews of the United States set a similar mark in winning the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet 7½ inches.

In other events: Amadeo Francis of Puerto Rico easily won the 400-meter hurdles in 53.6 seconds; Keith Gardner of Jamaica won the 100-meter dash in 10.7 seconds; Reggie Pearman of New York won the 400-meter run in 48.8 seconds; M. Rivera of Puerto Rico won the 200-meter dash in 21.9 seconds; Jamaica won the 400-meter relay in 42.0 seconds for a new Jamaican record as a United States team of Bill Miller, Andrews, Charley Pratt of New York, and Milt Campbell of Plainfield, N. J., finished second; P. Nieves of Puerto Rico won the discus throw with a toss of 133 feet for a new Jamaican record and set another standard by winning the shot put with a toss of 47 feet; and the United States team won the Swedish medley relay in 1:53.5.

Five Home Runs Help Tiefenauer Defeat Millers

MINNEAPOLIS, July 13 (AP)—Bonus pitcher Joe Jay, down from Milwaukee, scattered ten Indianapolis hits last night to give the Toledo Sox a 7-2 victory and first place in the American Association.

The Minneapolis Millers, tied for the top spot going into the night's action, were felled by a barrage of five homers as Omaha won 12-8.

The Nebraskaans took over third place in the league as Denver dropped a pair of identical shutouts to St. Paul, 2-0 and dropped to fourth. Louisville split with Charleston, winning the first 4-1 and dropping the second 4-3.

Omaha's home run power gave the Cards their first win over Minneapolis in the Miller park. Jerry Thomas, Frank Carswell, Mo Mozzali, Danny Schell and Pete Riggan hit the roundtrippers for Omaha.

The Millers got 11 hits off knuckleballer Bob Tiefenauer, including Monte Irvin's first homer since the Giants sent him to Minneapolis. Carl Sawatski also got one, but the Millers couldn't score until late in the game, after Omaha held a safe lead.

Mickey McHugh Stars As St. Philip Wins, 3-0

With a couple of returned service men back in action, the St. Philip Neri team defeated the Tabacchis, 3-0, in a St. Louis County Summer Soccer League match last night at Fee Fee Gardens. Mickey McHugh and Glen Svengros, recently returned from military duty, both performed well. McHugh was a standout in midfield.

Next Monday, St. Philip will oppose another winner, the Liberty club, in the second game of a doubleheader which starts at 6:45. Liberty (formerly Pastures) won over the Fee Fee club, 5-2, in the opening round of games, Monday. The Brehens own a victory, a 2-1 win over the Jones club.

East St. Louis Nine Takes Legion Honors

East St. Louis scored nine runs in the first inning and went on to defeat Renault, 23-2, at Jones Park to clinch the American Legion Southern Division championship. Catcher Lou Holdener had two triples and a single to pace the winners.

14 Named for 2-Year-Old Race

Two Wins Put Meaux In the Lead

Racing Secretary Jack Klucina has received 14 nominations for the $2000 Illinois Thoroughbred Breeders Association two-year-old race, which will feature Friday night's program at the Collinsville course. The race will be over a distance of five furlongs.

The nominations are as follows:

Judo O by A. L. Oxford of Shawneetown.

Bee Man by H. H. Rindelman of Anna. (Bee Man is a half brother of King Bebe and Tiger Bebe.)

Easy Bubbles by L. E. Morris of Collinsville.

Rocky's Fox by George Fink of Harrisburg.

Bull Gage by Ralph Shaw of Benton.

Prairie Quest by Jacob Bauer of Collinsville.

Mr. Hotat by Dr. E. F. Curran of East St. Louis.

Carole Storm by Hubert Hunsacker of Marion.

Nora by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Phillips of Newton.

Conic by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Durwell of Hidalgo.

John Hue by Mr. and Mrs. D. Elmo Jordan of Oak Park.

Red Mark by Silver Creek Farm of Collinsville.

Ed's Dream by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schroder of Edwardsville.

Little Courage by Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Holman of St. Vernon.

Clarence Meaux took over the jockey lead last night when he came home with two winners.

Smart Hussy won the second at $3 for $2 and with Good Score ($4.00) combined to make up a double worth only $11.60, smallest of the meeting.

Meaux gained his second win in the ninth when Decontrol was awarded first place after Flossie Daisy, which had come home ahead of the pack was disqualified for interference and placed fourth.

The two wins gave Meaux 33 for the meeting, one more than the total owned by Rafael Sanabria, who won with Rugged Boy.

In addition to Meaux, Bobby White and the veteran Willie Brinson were double winners. A crowd of 5323 wagered $226,752 on the night's program.

C. Lynn W. three in the riding of Majors in the starting gate in the final race and was withdrawn. Money that had been wagered on the horse was refunded.

Top Jockey

CLARENCE MEAUX, who took over the jockey lead at Fairmount Park, with two victories last night. He now has 33 firsts for the meeting. Meaux won with Smart Hussy and his horse, Decontrol, was placed first in the ninth, when Flossie Daisy, which had come home ahead of the pack was disqualified for interference and placed fourth.

Owner-Trainer Is Suspended By Illinois Board

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—The Illinois Racing Board yesterday indefinitely suspended Arthur S. Moore, owner-trainer of Demand Note.

Demand Note was found to have been stimulated after winning a race at Fairmount Park, July 4, officials said.

Moore was denied further hearings for one year and was ruled off Illinois tracks for the same period.

John V. Bero, assistant trainer, was found guilty of carelessness and drew a reprimand.

Cardinals Begin

Tryout Camp Here

A three-day tryout session for youths 17 to 23 years of age was begun by the Cardinals this morning at Busch Stadium. It will continue through tomorrow and Friday.

Players who report for the tryouts are requested to bring their own gloves, shoes and uniform. Those signed to contracts in the Cardinal organization will be refunded any expenses related to their tryout. Cardinal scouts on duty during the sessions will be Fred Hawn, Joe Monahan, Ollie Vanek, Tony Kaufmann and Quincy Troupe.

BRAKE SHOE FIRM HERE CITED BY FTC

American Said to Have Discriminated in Prices of Rail Car Bearings.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—American Brake Shoe Co. of St. Louis, manufacturers of railroad car journal bearings, was charged by the Federal Trade Commission today with discriminating in price among its customers.

The commission said the company lowered its prices in the southeast part of the country while increasing them over the rest of the nation, in order to do "substantial injury" to its only competitor in the southeast.

The company, with offices at 4930 Manchester avenue, is the second largest manufacturer of railroad car journal bearings in the country, the FTC said. Its complaint noted that railroad bearings are uniform throughout the industry and are manufactured in accordance with designs and specifications set by the Association of American Railroads.

Prior to 1950, the FTC said, American Brake Shoe had no competitor in the southeast area, which includes Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Before 1950, the company charged all customers $7.84 a hundredweight for railroad bearings, the complaint added.

In 1950, a new bearing manufacturer began business in the southeast and charged $7 a hundredweight to all but its largest customer, who was given a price of $6, the complaint continued. American Brake Shoe then lowered its price to this customer to $5.90, the complaint charged.

From 1951 to 1954, the St. Louis company lowered its price in the southeast to $7 and boosted its price in other parts of the country to $7.85 and then to $8.65, the FTC said.

LOUISIANA GETS NO BID ON OIL AREA IN DISPUTE

NEW ORLEANS, July 13 (AP)—Louisiana suffered another blow yesterday in its battle with the Federal Government over ownership of submerged lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

The state mineral board met in Baton Rouge to open bids for leases on oil and gas rights on 73,000 acres in the so-called twilight zone, which lies between three and 10 1/2 miles offshore. There were no bids submitted to the state board.

At the same time, the Federal Bureau of Land Management, opening bids in New Orleans, received more than 400 bids totaling $98,000,000 for lands off the Louisiana and Texas coasts. Less than 4 per cent was for acreage in the twilight zone.

Failure of oil company representatives to show up at the state leasing was the second setback for Louisiana in two days.

MENON SEES MACMILLAN ON TROUBLED INDICHOINA

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—India's Roving Ambassador V. K. Krishna Menon conferred last night with British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan on the troubled situation in Indo-China.

Menon, who in recent months has visited Peiping and Washington, has been seeking a basis on which Red China and the United States can begin direct talks on the Formosa dispute and other Far Eastern problems.

TRUMAN WEARS RED FEZ, WAVES IN SHRINER PARADE

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Former President Truman, laughing, waving and wearing a Shriner's red fez, appeared to be enjoying himself in the seven-hour long Shriner's parade yesterday.

The procession was a feature of the eighty-first annual convention of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. The conclave has turned Chicago into a giant circus with its elephants, donkeys, camels, men-on-horseback, brass bands and hundreds of fun-provoking gimmicks.

Truman rode well up at the head of the parade with Frank S. Land of Kansas City, Mo., imperial potentate of the order, Illinois' Gov. William G. Stratton and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley were among personages in the reviewing stand in soldier field.

The former President wore a fer with the jeweled insignia of his home Temple of Ararat in Kansas City.

Truman told reporters running along beside his special car that he felt "fit as a fiddle, but had no desire to join the marchers."

"My boy," he told one reporter, "I'm too old to do any marching."

TWO TANK CARS EXPLODE AND WRECK TRAIN IN TOWN

VINCENT, Ala., July 13 (AP)—Two tank cars filled with liquefied petroleum exploded and derailed 29 cars of a Central of Georgia freight train in the heart of this central Alabama town.

Twenty-eight of the 29 cars, loaded with fuel, meat, cotton and other products and valued at between $8000 and $10,000 each, were damaged or destroyed. No one was injured.

A split switch was believed to have caused the explosion, which occurred Monday night.

NEW RECIPES, HELPFUL HINTS

by Lila Jones

For years and years good cooks have used fine Heinz Vinegars to bring out the best in their salads—to give extra zest to barbecue sauces, spiced fruits, cooked vegetables. And there are also dozens of household jobs that can be done better, faster with vinegar! These suggestions show you how versatile Heinz Vinegar can help you all around the house—from kitchen to laundry!

World's Easiest, Tastiest French Dressing

You can make this light, tempting French dressing in one-minute flat! In jar or flask combine 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. sugar, 1/2 tsp. paprika, 1/4 tsp. pepper, 1/4 cup clear, sparkling Heinz Vinegar, 1/4 cup of your favorite salad oil. Cover jar and shake well before using. (Makes one cup.)

If you prefer a slightly sharper dressing, use 1/2 cup Heinz Vinegar and 1/4 cup salad oil.

Tasty Barbecue Sauce

In saucepan combine 2 Tbs. sugar, 2 Tbs. Heinz Worcestershire Sauce, 4 Tbs. smooth, creamy Heinz Prepared Mustard, 1/2 cup Heinz Vinegar (Apple Cider, Distilled White or Salad), 1/2 cup rich, thick Heinz Ketchup, 1 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. paprika, 1/4 tsp. pepper, 1 clove garlic, minced, cover; simmer 15 min. Use as basting sauce for 2 lbs. spareribs.

Praise-Winning Potato Salad

Combine 3 cups diced, pared, cooked potatoes, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/4 cup chopped onion, 4 radishes, sliced, 1/2 cup chopped cucumber, 1 1/4 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper. Add 1 Tbs. Heinz Apple Cider or Salad Vinegar and 2 Tbs. salad oil. Marinate several hours in refrigerator. Then add 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped, 1/4 cup mayonnaise and 1/4 cup Heinz Hot Dog Relish (delicious new combination of chopped pickles in spicy mustard sauce!). Mix well and chill. (Serves 6.)

Quick, Delicious Harvard Beets

Combine 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 tsp. salt, 2 tsp. cornstarch in saucepan. Add 1/4 cup Heinz Tarragon Vinegar, 1/4 cup beet liquid. Stir till smooth. Cook over low heat, stirring until thickened. Add 1 Tbs. butter or margarine and 2 cups cooked or canned sliced beets. Simmer 15 min. (Serves 4.)

Have You Tried These Cooking Tricks?

When you're poaching eggs, add a few drops of Heinz Vinegar to the water to keep them from separating.

To tenderize a tough steak, pour a few tablespoonfuls of Heinz Tarragon Vinegar on shallow plate and let uncooked meat absorb it thoroughly on both sides before broiling.

When deep-fat frying delicate foods, put 1 Tbs. Heinz Vinegar at bottom of kettle before pouring in the fat. When the fat gets sizzling hot the vinegar will vaporize and modify the greasy taste—thereby preserving the delicate flavor of shrimp, egg plant and other mild foods.

A wedge of cheese stays fresh and mold-free longer if you'll wrap it in a cloth wrung out of vinegar water (1 Tbs. Heinz Vinegar to 1/2 cup water.) Then wrap cheese in waxed paper and store in refrigerator.

Tips For Lightening Household Chores

1. Copper comes clean in a jiffy when you sprinkle it with salt, then rub with cloth dipped in a tablespoon of Heinz Vinegar.

2. Make glass gleam by pouring a few tablespoonfuls of Heinz Vinegar into a pail of clear, warm water for rinsing windows or mirrors.

3. Dim that shine on serge or gabardine suits and skirts by spoting with a solution of 1 tsp. Heinz Vinegar to 1 cup water before pressing.

4. Glue comes out of non-washable materials when you sponge the spot with undiluted Heinz Distilled White Vinegar.

5. Hard-water marks on glass cooking utensils and the inside of aluminum pans can be removed by filling utensil with water and 1 to 2 tsp. Heinz Vinegar and boiling.

6. When you're washing sweaters, add a few drops of Heinz Distilled White Vinegar to the final rinse water. Your garments will dry wonderfully soft and fluffy.

Nothing brings out the flavor of vegetables like wonderful

HEINZ VINEGARS

Whet family appetites for cooked vegetables with those same fine vinegars that salad experts use. Try 'em at the table and in your kitchen and see how much more flavor Heinz gives for the money!

Choose from these fine kinds:

Idle Machines at Dixon-Yates Site

Giant earth-moving machines and equipment sitting idle on the Dixon-Yates power plant site south of West Memphis, Ark., yesterday, following President Eisenhower's order for the termination of the plant contract. The city of Memphis, Tenn., which refused to accept electricity from Dixon-Yates generators to be installed on site across the Mississippi river, will build its own $100,000,000 power plant.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW

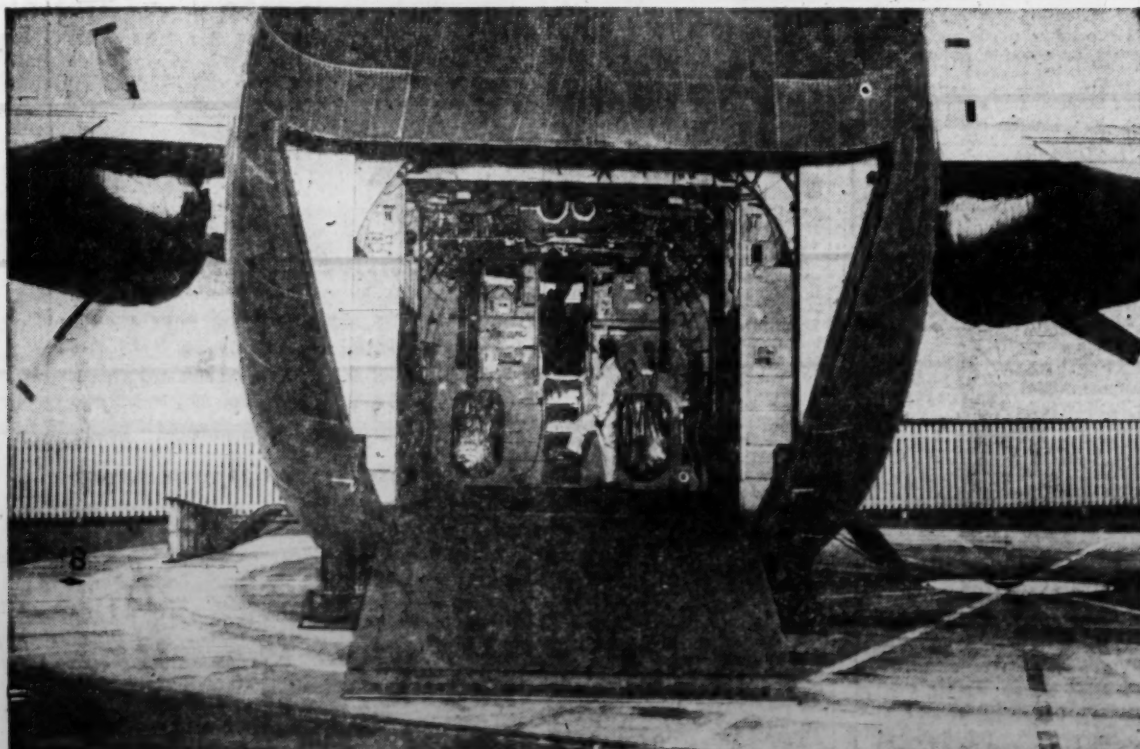

This unusual picture of a Tokyo street scene gives the viewer the feeling of being suspended in space. The camera, fitted with an extreme wide-angle lens, was centered above the street on wires strung between the two buildings, and the shutter tripped by a remote control device. Five Tokyo photographers collaborated to create the picture.

Dorothy and Dick
Lunch With Windsors

By John Crosby

NEW YORK.

EVERY New Yorker, I've always said, has two families—his own and Dorothy and Dick's. (Dorothy Kilgallen and Dick Kollmar, as if you didn't know.) Man leads his own grubby little life with his own family but every morning he tunes in radio station WOR to get a little glamor to help get down the oatmeal. Makes existence palatable.

JOHN CROSBY

Dick could even lay a hand on the old girl in this field.

But still they did mighty well. A couple of weeks, not only on their morning show but on their late afternoon show—all over a single lunch. You must admit it isn't just anyone who can get mileage like that. We heard just what they ate, what everyone wore, what everyone said.

OF COURSE, SOME OF IT WAS A LITTLE MADDENING because there wasn't time, you understand. Dorothy for Dick would get to talking about that fascinating conversation after lunch in which the wit and glamour reached a pinnacle not achieved since the days of Madame Recamier's salon—but, unfortunately, we're running out of time now. Tune in again tonight.

Gads, it was frustrating. What did the Duchess say to the Duke? What did the Countess Bismarck say to Dick? Well, you just had to wait until 6:15, biting your nails. This is the new-style cliff-hanger. Back when I was a boy, you'd get teased into listening to the next installment with something like: "Will Nora recover consciousness? Will Uncle Will get back to Springfield in time to pluck the will from the fireplace? Is Honkychile really the daughter of fabulously wealthy old Jefferson Cates Hunter? Tune in again tomorrow..." And so forth and so forth.

But not any more. Now it's who said what to who. And who laughed.

THEN, OF COURSE, THERE WAS THE DESCRIPTION of the house—room by room. Here again we were always cut off just when it got interesting. Time and again, it seemed to me, we were just on the threshold of the Duke's room. Well, that's all for today; we'll continue this tomorrow. I practically have one foot in the room—and, wham, they slam the door on it.

(When they finally got to the Duke's room, they both had a good laugh. It was so much smaller than the Duchess's. This led to a philosophic discussion, punctuated with laughter, that all wives wound up with more sleeping space than their spouses—a situation that I imagine Madame Recamier and her bunch kicked around from time to time, too.)

THEN THERE WAS THE MATTER OF CLOTHES. Dorothy didn't know what to wear and was still pretty nervous about it when she showed up wearing something frightfully simple. But it so happened that the Duchess was wearing something frightfully simple, too, and asked Dorothy where on earth she got that dress. And Dorothy told her. The Countess Bismarck, who was once Mrs. Harrison Williams, asked her where she got the dress too. And she learned. And so did we.

Well, you have to grow up with the times. Years ago it was the man who came to dinner—and broke his hip and stayed for six weeks. Now it's the couple who came to lunch—and talk about it for two weeks on the radio.

You want to know who I had lunch with today—Walt Kelly, the Picasso of Bleeck's who draws some sort of comic strip, John Lardner—and heaven knows what he does for a living—and Mitchell Rawson, who publicizes Ava Gardner and people like that. Mr. Kelly wore a light Swiss dotted herringbone suit with shoulder holster to match and Mr. Lardner wore—but I'm afraid our space has run out. You'll just have to buy the paper tomorrow.

Overcoming Shyness

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

EXTREME shyness is a pretty painful affliction—and is so unnecessary. There definitely is a cure for it, and here it is for Miss McQ.

"I have been reading your column for years," she informs me, "and it all seems to apply to people who can face the world unafraid. I can't. I'm always afraid. Of what? Everything and nothing. I'm a librarian and very successful professionally, but socially I am a complete failure, timid, retiring, frightened of my own shadow. What have you to offer to a girl like me?"

PLENTY OF GOOD ADVICE, MISS McQ. Of course, you expected that and know what it is traditionally worth. But no one is born shy. It's something you have learned and something you can unlearn.

Probably when you meet someone on whom you're eager to make a good impression, you are afraid that you won't say the right thing, so you say nothing.

Get some good opening remarks. The weather is better than nothing, but you can always ask the other person about his interests, the origin of his name, or his recent experiences. Then all you have to do is to be a good listener. He'll do the talking. You don't have to have any scintillating comebacks to his remarks.

THE EASIEST AND OFTEN THE BEST RESPONSE is merely to reflect his feelings, for instance, "I'll bet that made you mad," or "It must be exciting to take part personally in such important affairs."

Then begin to toughen yourself emotionally. Make it a point to speak each day to five people you do not know well or at all. There is always the salesman, the mailman, the bus driver, the elevator operator, or the woman sitting beside you. You will find that you are gradually de-sensitizing yourself. It's really easy. If you want more detailed help, psychologist Margaret Benton has published a bulletin on how to overcome shyness.

You may have a copy of Miss Benton's bulletin by writing to Dr. Popenoe in care of the Post-Dispatch, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

The 'Tree-Trunk Silhouette' for Fall

By Sylvia Stiles
Post-Dispatch Fashion Writer

NEW YORK, July 13.

THE LONG AND LEAN LOOK which is so characteristic of many of the autumn fashions is seen repeatedly in the daytime costumes designed by members of the couture group of the New York Dress Institute. Coat and dress ensembles, two-piece suits, and tailored dresses made of hand-some woollens follow the "tree-trunk silhouette," as the current fashion has been called. Illustrated are typical examples that will be available in St. Louis stores during the next two months.

1—A sand-colored coat of British woolen in three-quarter length is part of a Brannell ensemble. It is semi-fitted and has the long-torso lines. Dress which repeats the slim idea is of sheer black woolen. It has low-placed flap pockets, long sleeves, and a bow-centered neckline.

2—The sweater theme is a

The fashions illustrated here will be available in St. Louis Shops. Patterns are not obtainable. For information call Main 1-1111, Station 386, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, or mail self-addressed stamped envelope to Fashions Illustrated, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

dominant one for autumn. It is shown here in a sweater dress made of sandstone-colored angora wool. Sleeves, collar and neckline are knitted. The bodice is fastened at the back with a zipper closing, and is stitched over the shoulder. This is from the Herbert Sondheim collection.

3—Davidow's tailored gray mixture Davenport tweed tunic suit is an example of an important fall fashion. The jacket has the flat-in-front line which is highlighted by several of the leading designers. The slight dip of the jacket toward the back also is a noteworthy feature.

4—A narrowly rounded look is apparent in this Sondheim afternoon dress made of black crepe and silk taffeta. The bodice has fold drapery that is pulled through the neckline to give a flattering effect.

5—Strictly tailored but slacker-fitted, this suit of black and white tweed is from the Montezano and Pruzan collection. Wide revers on the jacket are elongated to a low double-breasted fastening.

Failure of Environment

By Fulton J. Sheen

FULTON J. SHEEN

OVER 50 per cent of the beds in the hospitals in the United States are occupied by mental patients. A distinguished psychiatrist claimed that psychotics and neurotics are the stepchildren of our modern civilization.

All can remember the day when there were no psychics, but no one today would deny the necessity of their existence.

Does this mean that minds today are less stable than several decades or several centuries ago? Since the meaningless of life induces frustration, it is certainly true that the loss of an over-all goal and purpose in life has increased mental unhappiness and uneasiness. But there is another difference which has not been sufficiently treated, namely, the relation of our environment to our stability.

IN FORMER DAYS persons who were inclined to some mental instability received considerable help from their environment. The so-called "village idiot" was always respected by the little community in which he lived; his idiosyncrasies were accepted, his apparent stupidity excused and he was spoken to by everyone in town. The community helped to keep the "abnormal" stabilized. As the atmosphere of the Alps or the Rockies diminishes the affliction of consumption, so a stable environment prevents those who have a mental weakness from becoming confirmed psychotics and neurotics.

Today it is the environment that has broken down. The social order itself is unstable; there are no goals or purposes accepted by all; even patriotism has become a lost virtue as some citizens surrender their loyalty to Communism in the fond hope that all decency and morality will be smashed to pieces. Communism, knowing that it can make progress only where there is tension, conflict or strife, attempts to intensify the discord of society, so as to beget the need of dictatorship to get it out of chaos and anarchy. The result is that persons who are inclined to be mentally unsound, or have a tendency to anti-social conduct, can no longer draw strength from their surroundings; living in an age where many actions conflict with the natural law and the law of God, their own inner conflict is intensified. Already panting for the breath of sanity, they find themselves living where there is little fresh air. The world outside their own mind is no more normal than their own minds. Instead of drawing strength from externals, they breathe in weakness.

IN OTHER DAYS, the greater things preserved the less. For example, the individual used to sacrifice himself for the institution of marriage. A wife would stay with a drunken husband to care for him, just as she would if he had tuberculosis or was paralyzed. Thus the family was preserved. Today the institution of the family is sacrificed in order that the individual may satisfy his individual whim. The modern environment is so unstable that the loss of a goal or purpose is recognized as an "excuse" for the misconduct of individuals. A juvenile delinquent is excused on the grounds that there were no playgrounds around his home, or he lived on Grade B Milk, or he felt inferior to his neighbors who had more. This very justification assumes that the externals are not all they might be.

Environment used to be on the side of good; it supported the weakling, it sublimated the psychotic. Today, the environment is on the side of evil; it is recognized as a handicap that is to be overcome, an obstacle that has to be hurdled.

Youth was meant to be related to a family, a community, an environment. It is rooted in the ground in the springtime. There is immaturity, but always with a promise. Today with the social environment breaking down, youth is isolated, uprooted from tradition; as a result, youth begins to acquire a value which it does not have in itself—like the unripe wheat torn up from the soil. All this points to the basic problem which our generation has to solve, namely, education grows out of a culture, instead of a culture out of education. The soil must be good, then we can raise good crops. Only when our souls are right, is our society right. Social betterment is conditioned on spiritual regeneration.

An 'Unmanly' Habit

By Glen R. Shepherd, M.D.

THE other night after dinner at a party, a physician asked where he could brush his teeth. He always carries a toothbrush and tries to use it after he eats anything.

DR. SHEPHERD

That's a fine idea. Dentists and physicians have been recommending it to their patients for years. But considering how often physicians neglect their own health, neglect to have annual check-up examinations personally, it startled me a little to see a doctor actually following his own advice to others.

Another reason this stood out was that younger men and boys are less likely, according to Dental Survey, to care for their teeth and mouth. Up to about age 9, boys and girls see dentists for routine cleaning and tooth inspection about equally frequently. But from that age on, boys tend to neglect their teeth more than do girls.

AS DENTAL SURVEY STATED IT, "When boys reach a certain age, their 'manliness' rebels at close adult direction and they become 'dodgers' of just about every responsibility they can escape that isn't distinctly and exclusively male, including going to the dentist. Being rebellious, scoffing males, the 10-to-19-year-old boys begin their bad habits of tooth neglect that come to full flower in the 20-to-30-year-age bracket."

The permanent results of such neglect are large tooth cavities and lost teeth. And once your second teeth have to be pulled, they are gone forever. I've never been able to confirm stories of people growing a third set of natural teeth as they become 70 or 80 years old, though I've heard of such unusual happenings. You can't count on it. Even if you could, it's a long time to wait.

I DON'T KNOW HOW BOYS and young men get the idea that good teeth care is unmanly. In fact, it seems to me that in the Wild West, a typical picture of men showed them sitting around the pot-bellied stove in the general store after dinner picking their teeth with toothpicks.

Brushing does a better job than a toothpick, though a toothpick may be needed to get out a silver or meat caught between teeth.

If you plan to eat steaks, corn on the cob, and raw apples all your life, boys, you need a good set of teeth. Anything that contributes to lasting enjoyment of good eating seems to me entirely manly.

BUT THE SURVEY SHOWS that only one third of the people in the age group between 20 and 29 who visit dentists are men.

Routine tooth-brushing after eating saves teeth by preventing cavities. It prevents cavities by getting the starchy and sugary foods remnants off the teeth, preventing their fermentation to produce acid that will undermine the hard enamel.

Visiting your dentist for a tooth check-up once or twice a year saves teeth by discovering cavities when they are little before they can destroy the tooth. Cleaning out the tiny cavity and filling it properly stops it from enlarging.

If Dad would get in the act, turn the heat on Junior to brush teeth and see the dentist regularly, it might prevent Junior slipping into the habit of neglecting his teeth. It might even have a beneficial effect on Dad's teeth—if he still has any.

'Meet Mister Eisenhower' Commander-in-Chief in an Apron

By Merriman Smith

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER PREPARES FLAPJACKS AT A MOUNTAIN RETREAT NEAR FRASER, COLO.

MR. EISENHOWER AND FORMER PRESIDENT HOOVER LOOK OVER STEAK THEY ARE BROILING OUTDOORS.

President Is Walking Recipe Book—His Culinary Caper Runs to Dishes That Stick to Ribs, Bulge Waistline

Fourth installment from the book, "Meet Mister Eisenhower," published by Harper & Bros. The author is the dean of White House correspondents.

IT IS NOT difficult to reconcile Eisenhower the general and the President with the Eisenhower of the trout stream and the golf course.

But it is more than disconcerting to hear the President of the United States say something like, "I find that self-rising flour makes my baking much easier."

Or, "I mix my batter at night and let it stand until morning."

To my amazement, I discovered that he is a walking recipe book. When he describes how to cook a dish, he speaks from experience. This doesn't mean that he stands over a hot stove in the White House night after night, running up tasty trifles for Mamie and her friends.

His type of culinary caper runs to the husky dish that sticks to the ribs and bulges the taking plenty of time when it comes to cooking vegetable soup. His finished product does not seem to be a soup as much as it is a stew.

His secret is the use of good beef and plenty of it. He does not use the normal cheap soup-bone beef, but big chunks of meat from the round. This meat actually could be broiled and served as steak.

He also uses a variety of fresh vegetables and allows the mixture to simmer slowly all day, sometimes two days. He uses relatively conventional seasonings and does not fly off into the aromatic herb world.

When he makes potato salad, however, he becomes quite aromatic, bearing down on the garlic and the potatoes. The chef at the Brown Palace in Denver told me about the way he marinated warm potatoes in vinegar before they go into the salad. As the man talked, tears seemed to well up in his eyes.

HE explained that this reaction came from just thinking of the heady fumes rising from the Eisenhower salad bowl—vinegar, garlic and finely chopped onions. At any rate, it is supposed to be a fine salad and hailed by the menfolk when Ike is cooking, as he does for his party when he visits the Nielsen ranch at Fraser, Colo. Jim Hagerty, the President's Press Secretary, emerged from the camp one day smelling like a challenge to chlorophyll. He was pungent with garlic and spice. We asked for the lunch menu.

"Potato salad," he said. "What else?"

"That's all. Same thing when he fixes vegetable soup—that's all. You couldn't possibly eat anything else."

During the mornings at Fraser, the President likes to cook flapjacks for his ranch hands. He prefers pancakes about the size of a tea saucer, floating in New England maple syrup supplied by Sherman Adams, who once was Governor of New Hampshire.

Some of the White House staff, possibly without knowing better, spread the story that Ike was a perfectionist when it came to making flapjack batter; that he would have nothing to do with commercial prepared mixes, but made his own from scratch, using waterground cornmeal as a base.

We went along with this story until some of us were in the general store at Fraser one day buying milk and crackers. We fell to gossiping with the storekeeper.

"Yes sir, I know when the President is here," said the storekeeper. "Fellow comes over almost every day to get a box of pancake mix for the President. He won't use nothing but Silver Dollar prepared pancake mix, made in Denver."

Checking at Fraser, the reporters have all the time in the world to check a story like this that Ike starts with the prepared mix and adds his own special ingredients, including cornmeal. One of the President's Denver friends remarked later, "I wouldn't have a job, no matter how much it paid, where even the way I made pancakes was put up for public debate."

Ike has some individualistic ideas about cooking steak. In outdoor surroundings he will, on occasion, take chunks of AA choice beef and toss them right onto gleaming wood coals.

The meat sears rapidly, sealing the juices, and is cooked much faster than in a broiler. Steak fixed this way is quite delicious, particularly if you like a touch of ash in your food.

MOST of the time, he fixes steak in the conventional manner. He misses being able to cook out-of-doors at the White House, but he has worked out a compromise.

He has installed a charcoal broiler that can be rolled into the glass-walled solarium on top of the White House. On this broiler he can fix steak, plus another one of his favorites, corn roasted in the husk.

Evidence of how much he enjoys playing chef was plain during the construction of his new house at Gettysburg. When his place was little more than scaffolding, I saw him slosh through mud puddles in the yard during a heavy rain, picking out the best site for his barbecue pit.

A friend was watching him one day in Colorado as he whirled from one campfire chore to another, frying fish, roasting corn, slicing watermelon.

"This," said the friend, "looks for all the world like the 14-mile hike of the Bear Patrol." (Copyright, 1955, by A. Merriman Smith.)

Pineapple Filling

New food product: pineapple filling comes in a No. 2 can ready to use in a pie or tarts or as a cake filling. For pie use, the filling is turned into an unbaked pastry shell. As a filling for baked tart shells or cake layers, the pineapple mixture needs to be simmered for several minutes and cooled slightly before it is used.

North's idea in opening with a spade instead of a heart was probably to show both majors in "convenient" order, but this was carrying a good thing to an absurd extreme. One heart was the only correct call, if North opened at all.

It was North's choice, however, that had a great part in West's final undoing. The trap was carried along, unwittingly but very effectively, by South, who at no time fully revealed his remarkable spade support.

(Perhaps he thought his partner had "psyched.")

West laid down the club king and, when East played the seven, gave very little thought to the danger of a club continuation. In West's defense, it must be pointed out that it was scarcely credible that South would be able to get rid of dummy's diamonds if he lacked the ace, but that was precisely what happened after the club continuation. South ruffed, drew trumps, and discarded both of dummy's diamonds on his own long spades.

West should have shifted to the diamond queen at the second trick. For one thing, his partner had raised clubs and there was a substantial chance that he had four of them, which meant that South was now out. More important, East had doubled six hearts and certainly would not have done so without an ace. It could be the spade ace, which made it tempting for West to lead his singleton and try for a ruff; but the spade ace could not get away—whereas there was a chance, however slim, that the diamond ace could.

Evidence of how much he enjoys playing chef was plain during the construction of his new house at Gettysburg. When his place was little more than scaffolding, I saw him slosh through mud puddles in the yard during a heavy rain, picking out the best site for his barbecue pit.

A friend was watching him one day in Colorado as he whirled from one campfire chore to another, frying fish, roasting corn, slicing watermelon.

"This," said the friend, "looks for all the world like the 14-mile hike of the Bear Patrol." (Copyright, 1955, by A. Merriman Smith.)

Many Parties Enliven Harbor Springs Season

By Mildred Chamberlain

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich., July 13.

THE first formal party of the season was held Saturday night, July 2, at the Little Harbor Club, with numerous St. Louisans attending. Yachts and sailboats lighted with Hawaiian flares, riding at anchor in Little Traverse Bay, added to the color and charm of the scene.

Among the parties was one which included Sidney Maestre, who was spending the weekend in Wequeton-sing where he and Mrs. Maestre owned a summer home until a few years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Cravens, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer McCourtney, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Denver, former St. Louisans living in Miami Beach, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Siegel and Mrs. Frank O. Watts, all of whom have cottages nearby.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis F. Busse, who recently moved back to St. Louis and are here for the summer, had a group of friends at the Little Harbor party, as did the Edwin R. Thomases.

The round of entertaining began early this year. It usually starts later in the month and reaches its peak in August.

Most St. Louisans here for the season are entertaining members of their families. The Duncan I. Meiers have with them their grandchildren, Duncan I. III and Julia Lake Meier, who spend most of their days on the Pierlo, a 16-foot Chris Craft. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Meier Jr., will join them later in July.

Another son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Meier Sr., the Henry Lake Meiers of Huntleigh Village, are in their Harbor Point cottage with two of their sons, Henry and Stokley, who plan to enter the sailboat races. Derek, their youngest, is at Camp Keewaydin, in Ontario, taking long canoe trips this month. He will be with his family the end of August.

Entertaining Indianapolis Guests.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BURTON KENNARD JR., who arrived at their cottage at Harbor Point about a week ago, have as their guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander L. Taggart III (Joan Kennard) of Indianapolis and their baby son, "Rip." The Taggarts will be here several weeks before opening their own cottage on Walloon Lake.

MRS. TAGGART, VISITING IN MICHIGAN.

The first hot days invaded this usually cool northern retreat early last week, and life took to the waterfront. It was perfect swimming and sailing weather. Those lucky enough to own a boat cruised their way through the heat, bringing back cool tales of swimming and cocktail parties on the lake. Others found secluded spots for fishing and loafing.

Occupying Dr. and Mrs. O. P. J. Falk's Wequetonsing cottage for the month of July are Miss Corinne Froemke and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis S. Deming Jr., and their baby son, Louie. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald W. Froemke, were here for the Fourth of July holidays.

Also at their Wequetonsing cottage are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. McCluney and their daughter, Miss Louise. Mrs. McCluney is busy these days gardening in her spacious grounds overlooking Beach drive.

Next door, the McCluneys' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Columbus Baldwin (Katherine McCluney) of Ormond Beach, Fla., are settled in their own cottage.

At Roaring Brook Mrs. J. S. McIntyre has as guests in her cottage her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Langenberg. She is a frequent guest at Roaring Brook Inn, visiting with her old friend, Mrs. George Lane of St. Louis, who is again at the resort for the summer.

Leisurely Life at Harbor Point.

OVER at the Point families are content to sit on their wide porches and watch the panorama on Little Traverse Bay or idle the hours away watching the horse-drawn surreys and carriages pass along the wooded trails. Life is secluded and unspoiled and neighbors are neighbors for several generations.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin W. Durham entertained over the holidays his mother, Mrs. Edward M. Durham Jr., who came up from St. Louis with their nine-year-old son, Grey. Billy and Ned, their older sons, spend much of their time on the lake with their guest, Dwight Seward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Seward.

The Wallace Herndon Smiths, who have been in Paris, have let their cottage to Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Sage Wightman Jr., who have with them their daughter, Peggy, and their son, Orrin Sage III.

Mr. and Mrs. Powell Whitehead have had visiting them Mr. and Mrs. Meredith C. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Chandler for whom they entertained at the Little Harbor Club party.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

I WISH I knew the answer to the following question because it is one that comes up in almost every household: "Will you please tell me how I can politely refuse to lend things to neighbors of ours who are constantly borrowing one thing or another. I can see people being forced to borrow something occasionally, but these neighbors do it all the time and frankly I am getting very fed up with it. I would like your advice as to what I can do about this without causing unpleasantness."

The only solution I can give is for you to start borrowing from her until she realizes what a trial a constant borrower can be to others.

DEAR MRS. POST: Would it be possible to mix two patterns of silver on the same table provided they are similar in design and go well together?

Answer: You may use whatever pattern or combination of patterns you like. In countless houses—in many of the most perfectly appointed ones—the flat silver is not matched for each course. As a matter of fact, notable collectors of old silver rarely set their tables with completely matching "sets."

Sea Island Honeymoon

MR. AND MRS. DAVID L. HOFFMAN, AT THE CLOISTER, SEA ISLAND, GA., WHICH THEY VISITED ON THEIR WEDDING TRIP. BEFORE THEIR MARRIAGE JUNE 18 MRS. HOFFMAN WAS MISS IRIS PAMELA WILSON. SHE IS THE DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. EUGENE M. WILSON, 2 SOUTH MEKNIGHT ROAD, LADUE. HER HUSBAND'S PARENTS ARE MR. AND MRS. FRED R. HOFFMAN, 3660 CONNECTICUT STREET.

Mid-Summer Trips And Visitors Occupy Ferguson Residents

MRS. JAMES L. CATTELL of Lafayette, Ind., arrived Tuesday to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Bryant, 320 Church street. She will remain with the Bryant children, James and Julia, while their parents and a group of their friends drive to Leland, Mich., for a two-week vacation at the Cattell cottage. Included in the group which will leave Saturday are: Mr. and Mrs. Tom E. King, 424 Chanslor drive; Mr. and Mrs. Myron Reinhardt, 308 Church street; Dick Vosburgh, 21 North Maple avenue, and Miss Marie Siever of St. Louis, who will drive up, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Smith of St. Louis, who will go by plane.

Mrs. John D. McCutcheon, 315 Darst road, will return home Friday from Frankfort, Ky., where she has been spending a week with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John D. McCutcheon Jr. The young couple has bought a home in Louisville, Ky., and will move Aug. 1.

Mrs. Robert A. Suchy, 41 North Dade avenue, and Mrs. Charles M. Alloway of St. Louis, left Friday on a three-week tour of the East. They will visit Niagara Falls, New York, Chevy Chase, Md., and Williamsburg, Virginia.

Mrs. D. Bernard Coleman, 33 North Elizabeth avenue, and her daughter, Miss Dorothy, left Monday for Alden, Mich., on Torch Lake, to spend the summer at their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. George Penhale, 316 Carson road, and their daughters, Polly Ann and Sarah Jane, returned Monday from a 10-day visit to Farmington, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Moore, 123 Wesley avenue, and their daughter, Mary Helen, will leave Aug. 1 for New York, to sail on the United States for England. Mr. Moore, English teacher in Ferguson High School, will be an exchange professor under the Fulbright foundation. He will teach grammar at a boy's school in Bromley, Kent.

The choir at the Methodist Church, of which Mr. Moore is organist and director, entertained him and Mrs. Moore Sunday night at a picnic supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald DeFreese, 10 North Dade avenue. Friday night another group will entertain them at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max M. Mason, 304 Carson road.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Lee, 608 East drive, Patricia Park, left Saturday for Denver to visit

June Roberts, Elliott Chubb, Are Married

THE marriage of Miss Wadelle June Roberts to Elliott Chubb took place last Wednesday in the Library of Sheldon Memorial. The bride, who is always called by her second name, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Blake Roberts of Mason road, St. Louis county. Mr. Chubb is the son of R. Walston Chubb, 43 Godwin lane, Ladue, and the late Irene Sylvester Chubb.

James F. Hornback, leader of the St. Louis Ethical Society, performed the ceremony before members of the two families and a few close friends of the bride and bridegroom. Here from out of town for the occasion were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. S. Blake Roberts of Evanston, Ill.; the bridegroom's sister, Miss Louise Chubb, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. Walston Chubb Jr. of Columbus, O.

White gladiolas, daisies and delphinium were arranged with greenery to provide a setting for the ceremony. Attendants for the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Sanford, who introduced them several years ago.

The former Miss Roberts wore a white eyelet organdy gown with pink taffeta forming a panel at the skirt back and a large bow. A pink bandeau partially covered her hair and she carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses and carnations. Mrs. Sanford was in a blue shantung dress. Her flowers, in a nosegay, were blue and white hybrid delphinium.

After the wedding, guests motored to Le Chateau for dinner. Mr. Chubb and his bride, who are in Crystal Lake, Mich., where they are spending 10 days at his father's summer home, will live in Great Neck, L.I.

The bride is a graduate of Clayton High School and William Woods College, Fulton, Mo. She is a member of Phi Beta sorority. Mr. Chubb, an alumnus of John Burroughs School, received his B.A. degree from Harvard College and his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Washington University. His fraternity is Sigma Phi Epsilon. During 1945 and 1946 Mr. Chubb served with the Navy.

Miss Jane Conway O'Reilly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Archer O'Reilly Jr., 6332 Pershing avenue, University City, was guest of honor recently at a houseparty given by her grandmother, Mrs. James Archer O'Reilly, at her summer home in Kingston, Mass. Miss O'Reilly, who has completed her freshman year at Radcliffe College, is taking special courses in English this summer at Harvard University.

their son-in-law and daughter, Col. and Mrs. Charles F. Howard, for two weeks. Mr. Lee's sister, Miss Lotta Lee, is spending the summer with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee, in Malden Bridge, N.Y.

Barbara Siepker Plans Wedding In Late August

THE marriage of Miss Barbara Jean Siepker to George William Hamilton Jr. will take place at 8:30 o'clock Friday night, Aug. 26, at Webster Groves Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Harry T. Scherer will perform the ceremony. Miss Siepker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Albert Siepker, 33 Plant avenue, Webster Groves, will give the reception afterward at Le Chateau.

The bride-to-be has asked her sister, Mrs. William Gale Baker, to serve as matron of honor, and Mr. Hamilton's sister, Miss Louise Hamilton of Indianapolis, to be maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Nancy Dahlkamp, Miss Carol Ann Von Hoffmann, Miss Susan Pender, Connersville Ind., and Mrs. Prentice Miller (Susan Beal).

Mr. Hamilton, son of George W. Hamilton of Indianapolis, former St. Louisans, will have Harry L. Esserman Jr. as best man. Ushers will be Thomas S. Hollett, Indianapolis; A. J. Wise III, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mr. Baker, John J. Shillington Jr. and a cousin of the prospective bridegroom, Edward Hamilton.

A series of pre-wedding parties being planned for the bride-elect will be announced later.

Among the St. Louisans who have departed recently for Europe are Miss Helen Speckart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto N. Speckart, 7225 Lindell boulevard, University City. In London Miss Speckart plans to visit Lt. and Mrs. William Weismantel. During her summer stay abroad she will also tour Ireland, France, Holland, Italy, Germany, Switzerland, Spain, Portugal and Bermuda.

Miss Carol Chandeysson, daughter of Mrs. Pierre I. Chandeysson, 97 Aberdeen place, Clayton, is spending the summer in Europe. Miss Chandeysson, a Lindenwood College student, after traveling in France, Italy and the British Isles, will return aboard the Queen Elizabeth late in September with a group of classmates and their parents.

Martha Carr's

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. OPINION

Dear Martha:
I have been married almost three years and have a son 5 months old. I am 27 and my wife is 21. I don't feel that a divorce court could solve my problem yet I know of no alternative. My wife is seldom, if ever, at home. Hardly an evening goes by that she isn't out on a date. I never know when to expect her at home and when she does arrive she's usually drunk. Lately, the neighbors have begun to complain. On several occasions she has gone out on dates and left the baby unattended. READER.

For the sake of the baby, go at once to a professional family agency for help. Among them are the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, 2331 Mullany street, Jewish Family Service Agency, 3903 Olive street, and the Family and Children's Service, 4643 Lindell boulevard. But, frankly, I can't understand why a husband would permit his wife to go out on dates with other men. She hasn't any right to do that, and she knows it. Now's the time, if ever, to speak up and see that she understands what responsibility means.

Dear Martha:
SIX YEARS AGO, after 39 years of married life, my husband deserted his family for the "other woman." I made every effort to help him see his mistake but after he told me how sorry he was for me and that I didn't deserve such a "dirty deal," he claimed he couldn't come back home. We have never been divorced. How can this type of woman have peace of mind, knowing the misery she has caused the children and me? I am alone as the children are married but I think there should be a law to defend wives from this kind of disgrace and heartbreak. Should I give him a divorce after all this time? DEFENSELESS WIFE AND MOTHER.

It would be taking far too much on my own shoulders to make this decision for you, although your marriage seems to have been destroyed just as surely as if you had obtained a divorce. Your pastor can help you decide what to do. Meanwhile, however, try your best—as terribly difficult as it will be—to rise above the heartbreak and bitterness and pick up the pieces of your life. Force yourself to meet new friends. Bring them into your home. Be active in your church. At the risk of sounding callous and unsympathetic, let me point out that brooding won't bring him back. By keeping yourself busy you may be able to make some of the heartache fade away.

IN ANSWER TO Beverly: I am sorry but you have asked a legal question which I cannot discuss with you. I would like to refer you either to the Free Legal Aid Bureau or to the Lawyers' Reference Service, both of which are located in the Civil Courts building.

Send today for Martha Carr's free list of baby names. Several hundred for both boys and girls are included. Please inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope with your request.

Playing Ignorant

By Ruth Millett

IT isn't always wise to admit knowing as much as you do. For instance:

When your husband, who never tells you anything, breaks down and tells you an exciting bit of news you have known for weeks. That is when it is better to play dumb and ask questions than to take the wind out of his sails with, "Why I heard that a long time ago."

When your child makes an important discovery for himself. It's much better for your child to let him take pride in his own discovery than to belittle it with a remark such as, "Are you just finding that out for yourself?"

WHEN A FRIEND TELLS YOU an exciting bit of news about herself that someone has already told you. "I've already heard all about it" may make you feel smug—but it will rob the friend of the pleasure of sharing an important bit of news with you.

When anyone starts to tell you a story for the SECOND time. Of course you won't have to listen to it again if you say, "Oh yes, you told me about that," but if you just keep quiet you'll give him the pleasure of telling it to you again.

WHEN YOU ARE TOLD SOME UGLY GOSSIP you have already heard. If you admit to having heard it before you lend weight to the ugly rumor—for many people assume that gossip which is going the rounds is bound to be true.

When a man first says "I love you." Being a woman, you probably figured you had him caught before he realized it. But it isn't a good policy to let him know you aren't surprised.

The Question Box

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

"I AM 41, a career woman. I am to be married for the first time, to a widower. Should I invite his former wife's mother and father. They take care of their small granddaughter and I like them.—C.X."

The last line is important. To like them is to build for a pleasant relationship. Most certainly they should be invited to your wedding. They may not attend but do not feel hurt by that because memories of their daughter's wedding may make them unhappy.

"I HAVE WHITE HAIR, fair skin, blue eyes. Would a pink linen dress be correct to wear at an informal afternoon garden wedding? I am 49.—Mrs. H.W."

Yes, and very smart. I would add white accessories and, if possible, dye white sandals to match your dress.

"WHICH IS BEST, a printed skirt and a plain blouse or just the reverse. My figure is what you so kindly call a Juno.—Kate M."

A plain blouse and a skirt in print is smarter, but be sure that you choose a small design or narrow stripes, either of which makes a very attractive skirt. Be sure that your belt is in the same material as the blouse.

"DO YOU THINK A BAREBACK DRESS and bare legs are correct for a mature woman to wear on a smart boating party?—E.H."

No, I do not, nor would I especially like the idea for even a young woman. I believe that After Forty there should be a certain dignity which is both becoming and proper. Casual clothes in summer cotton can be charming and are quite suitable, but consider the styling. Mature bare legs are not always pretty to look at. Nylons cover a multitude of sights!

She's a Girl Men Look Up To

Mildred Hughes Enjoys Life as Tall-Girl Comedy Foil

By Mary Kimbrough

SIX feet two in heels, Mildred Hughes has no complaints about being head and shoulders above most girls and many men. She just looks down on the little folks with sympathy.

In fact, if Mildred hadn't shot up past her classmates at East Orange (N.J.) High School, she probably wouldn't be in St. Louis today. At least, she wouldn't be here in the comedy role of Clementina in "The Desert Song" at the Municipal Opera.

Ever since she discovered that her extra height was good for something more lucrative and less wearing than playing jump center on a high school girls' basketball team, she has been a comedy foil to men of lesser height on stage and television. Comedians such as Red Skelton, Milton Berle, Larry Storch, Jerry Lewis and Dean Martin have looked up to Mildred. For six months she was "Mildred the maid," on the Victor Borge show.

"I wouldn't be shorter even if I could change. It's nice to be able to see over everyone else. A tall girl is silly to slump. She ought to stand up straight and capitalize on her height."

THAT'S just what Mildred has been doing ever since she broke into the theater via a Miss America contest. Entered as Miss New Jersey, she didn't win the crown but she was spotted by a Billy Rose talent scout and soon became a showgirl. Then came a role in Bobby Clark's show, "As the Girls Go," and when the Hartmans, Grace and Paul, saw her on Broadway, they hired her for their revue, "Tickets, Please."

But as busy as her stage and television work has kept her, she has had time for two other careers, both in the domestic line. She designs and makes all her own clothes—in fact, brought her sewing machine to St. Louis with her—and is a partner in a necktie making firm.

"Ever since I was a young girl I've made my own clothes and I even thought I might become a designer," she said. "I graduated from design school in New York but when I started doing so well on television I just kept that as a sideline."

"Last February I was looking for a tie for my husband and I found some beautiful fabric with hearts on it and decided to make him a tie. I found out how it was done and started making ties and now a friend and I have a company. I do most of the work on my own sewing machine."

Incidentally, as an accomplished seamstress, Mildred has a suggestion for women who make their own clothes.

"The reason skirts don't always hang evenly is that they aren't given time to hang enough and kind of settle down," she advises. "Put a skirt on a hanger and leave it there about a week, then put it in the hem. Otherwise, after you have the hem in, it will begin to sag in spots."

MILDRED is married to Robert Frank, an engineer. He is 6 feet 3, which means that the tall ones have a slight majority in her family. Her father was tall, her mother of average height, one sister tall, two others short.

"Not long ago," she laughed, "I heard a niece tell a friend that 'Aunt Mildred is the tallest person in the world. Why, she's as tall as that sunflower out there.'"

"It came as something of a shock when I looked out the window to see what she was comparing me with. That sunflower was nine feet high."

The Baffling Half-Crisis Crisis

By Mary Margaret McBride

"I COULDN'T be sure," explained my hostess, "whether it was a crisis or not. And even if it was, all I could think of to do was wring my hands and keep on peering out the window!"

Liza was certainly in a fine state of nerves when I got to her house. She was expecting eight for dinner, had ordered a turkey—and by 3 p.m. it had not been delivered. The store when called on the telephone said reassuringly that it was on their afternoon delivery truck.

The bird turned up, fortunately clean and ready for stuffing by 4 but Liza—careless at her country home and 10 miles from the nearest store—was still unwinding from the tension three hours later. I sympathized fully for I'm as limited as she is for dealing with half-crises. I wonder if most of us aren't?

NOT MIND YOU, THAT I'M ANY WONDER WITH FULL-BLOWN CRISES, either. I've often thought that, if my apartment building should catch on fire, I'd be the one who would escape carefully clutching the citronella bottle, leaving Grandma's diamond stamper, the Gainsborough and the Shakespeare folio (if I had them) to be burned to cinders (or whatever diamond stamper burns to). Although maybe not. For—recently that among the unexpected heroes of the London blitz were many mental cases believed hopelessly ill, who turned calm and collected and actually led the panicky so-called normal men and women to safety.

But the point where normal and abnormal alike chew their nails is, I suspect, at the baffling half-crisis, where there is nothing to do but wait until a situation either blows up into a full crisis calling for action or dissolves altogether.

When Joe comes home with a raging fever and chills, it's a crisis and you telephone the doctor. But when he just complains of a scratchy throat and aches, there's that nasty period to be filled in only by administering aspirin and fretting.

ON A MUCH BROADER LEVEL the current international situation is an example of the worrisome half-crisis. Our world has been constantly threatening for about eight years to burst into flames. But until it does, we can only sit by nervously. Eight years is a long time to sit by nervously.

A friend, bothered on and off by a chronically touchy appendix last year took his vacation to enter a hospital and have the troublesome organ removed.

"It probably sounds silly," he said half apologetically. "And maybe I could have managed all through life without an appendectomy. But I decided it was easier to have the cursed thing out than go on dreading an acute attack with an emergency operation—moreover, going through it in my imagination every time I felt a twinge in my side."

John, in a way, was lucky. There was something he could do to resolve his half-crisis. Most of us can only wait.

And I'd like a formula for waiting gracefully.

Soda Helps Color, May Spoil Flavor

By Edith M. Barber

COLOR is the casual test that most of us use in choosing vegetables. The custom does not apply, however, in the case of string beans. When we get them in restaurants, and they are over-brilliant in shade, soda has often been used in their preparation.

While soda does set the natural color, it may injure flavor. It certainly will if too much is used. Actually there are those who seem to prefer dark beans, as this often indicates they have been cooked a rather long time, and often with bacon or salt pork according to a Southern custom.

Most of us settle for a compromise. We will use a small amount of water and cover the vegetable while it is being cooked. Even when time is too short for the beans to become tender, a certain amount of color will be lost. We believe that this is made up by the good flavor.

I SOMETIMES MAKE AN OTHER COMPROMISE, and the interest of flavor. I keep the pot covered for about five minutes. Then I uncover it and let the liquid evaporate almost to nothing before I add butter or cream. Sometimes the butter is added when the beans are uncovered. In either case, they can be served with whatever liquid remains.

If you like your beans flavored with vinegar, and perhaps with bacon, these can be added after they are uncovered. During the coming months, home-grown beans will be tender, plentiful and comparatively inexpensive. If you want to take advantage of this, perhaps you will like to vary the method of cooking and dressing.

String Beans—Modern Style. Trim ends from green or yellow beans. Slice diagonally and place in saucepan with about one-half inch of salted water. Cover and cook ten minutes over low heat. Uncover, add cream or butter, dash of sugar and more salt if needed. Cook over low heat until just tender.

String Beans—Savory Style. Prepare beans as directed in above recipe. After uncovering add bits of bacon and vinegar and sugar to taste. Continue cooking until tender. If desired, the bacon slices may be previously cooked before slicing, until brown, but not crisp. The drippings should be added with the cut bacon.

On Refinishing Furniture

By Elizabeth Hillyer

WHAT kind of finish coat can be applied to a touch-me-not table to make it as damage resistant as possible? Use first quality floor varnish, say the experts in the furniture finishing manufacturing business. Two coats work wonders on dark or medium woods. If the top is badly damaged, the finish must first be removed with varnish remover, but if rings or marks aren't too deep, sanding alone may be sufficient preparation.

Light-colored woods often wear heavily glazed top coats which must be removed completely. Because a tint must be used to make the top match the rest of the table again, the refinishing of light woods should usually be done by a professional finisher, although some able amateurs can do the job. Lacquers, too, are effective finishers, but the harder kind should be sprayed on—brush stroke overlaps may show. Be sure the floor varnish is top quality and apply it to the whole table, so legs and aprons and stretchers shrug off damage as well as the top.

Miss R. D. "Will you please settle a discussion for our sewing class? We haven't tried to make anything but clothing, but we're interested in making curtains and don't agree about hems. One girl says they should always be triple, but others say double thickness is enough."

A triple hem is a professional trick, used for two reasons. It gives more finish to the lower edges of a curtain, and also, if there is any reason to lengthen the curtain, plenty of extra fabric is available in the three thicknesses of hem.

Underneath those layers of dingy varnish you may have something there—a beautiful piece of furniture that needs only to show its fine wood grain. Learn how to work refinishing wonders with the help of Elizabeth Hillyer's new booklet "Furniture Refinishing—How to Do It Yourself." It's yours for 15c in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to Miss Hillyer at the Post-Dispatch.

More Hot and Dry Weather Likely

Hot and dry weather will continue in the St. Louis area for the next several days, with no respite in sight, Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said today. He predicted generally fair skies with maximum temperatures in the middle 90s through tomorrow.

The mercury rose here to 92 yesterday for the fourteenth 90-degree plus day this year. There were 29 such days recorded by this date last year, 37 in 1953 and 35 in 1952. Record high and low temperatures for this date are 107 in 1936 and 58 in 1940.

Early morning temperatures in Missouri today ranged from 63 at Kirksville to 74 at Malden. It was 71 in downtown St. Louis and 69 at the Lambert-St. Louis Field weather station. Temperatures were in the 40s and 50s in the Lakes region and northeast with the nation's low, 32, at Fraser, Colo.

Hot weather prevailed again yesterday in the southwest, where the nation's high of 108 was recorded at Litchfield Park, Ariz. Widely scattered showers fell in the 24-hour period ending early today in the Rockies, Plains states and southeast. Heaviest falls reported by the Weather Bureau were 1.83 inches at Richmond, Va., and 1.68 at Fargo, N.D.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

CERTAIN men of the Stone Age supplied proof that hair-covered elephants were known to them. The men of whom I speak were artists who made pictures of the big beasts.

The best picture was found at the Camborelle cave in France. This one makes it clear that the Mammoth was covered with hair.

Q. Is there any other kind of proof that Stone Age men knew about mammoths?

A. Yes, the bones of several hundred mammoths have been found in, or near, caves where Stone Age men used to live. It is believed that the hunters of the caves used to trap the animals in pits. Later, it appears, they feasted on mammoth steak.

Q. There are stories about the bodies of mammoths being found in Russia. Are these stories true?

A. Yes, the actual flesh has been found.

Q. How long ago did the mammoths live?

A. It is believed that several thousand years have passed since the last of them died.

Q. How could the flesh be saved for such a long time?

A. The animals were found in frozen soil, and their flesh was saved in much the same way as meat is preserved in a modern food freezer.

Q. Have the complete bodies been recovered?

A. Never a complete body, but in a few cases a large proportion of the body has been found.

Q. How many mammoths have been discovered?

A. In more than 50 cases, parts of the skin and flesh, in addition to the bones, have been dug up.

Q. When was the first mammoth flesh discovered?

A. One hundred and fifty-six years ago.

Q. What color was the hair of
